Colder Climate Seen Bringing Major Famines

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions in India face starvation, China will suffer a major famine every five years and Russia will lose a major wheat growing area because of catastrophic changes in the earth's climate, an internal CIA report says.

The anticipated changes, which will return the climate on this planet to a condition similar to that of 100 to 400 years ago, will cause economic and political upheavals "almost beyond comprehension," the report says.

Based on a climatic change study by Reid A. Bryson of the University of Wisconsin, the report says the world's climate is cooling and will revert to conditions that prevailed between 1600 and 1850.

The report is to be made public Monday. A copy of it was obtained Friday by The Associated Press.

In an addendum to the report, Bryson says the climate changes are the result of worldwide drops in temperature caused by amounts of volcanic ash, carbon dioxide and man-made pollution in the atmosphere.

"The change of climate is cooling some significant agricultural areas and causing drought in others," the report said. "If, for example, there is a Northern Hemisphere drop of one degree centigrade it would mean that India will have a major drought every four years and can only support three-fourths of her present population.

"The world reserve would have to supply 30 to 50 million metric tons of grain each year to prevent the death of 150 million Indians.

"China, with a major famine every five years would require a supply of 50 million metric tons of grain. The Soviet Union would lose Kazakhstan for grain production, thereby showing a yearly loss of 48 million metric tons of grain.

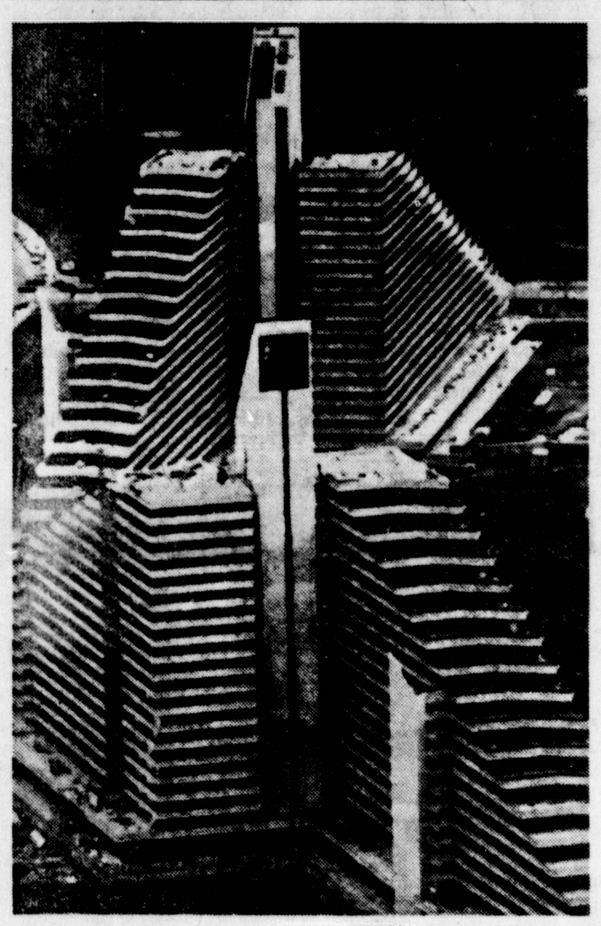

"Canada, a major exporter, would lose over 50 per cent of its production capability and 75 per cent of its exporting capabilities. Northern Europe will lose 25 to 30 per cent of its present production capability while the Common Market countries would zero their exports," the report says.

The CIA report basically was concerned with possible political and economic threats to U.S. security from such drastic changes. It did not go into detail about possible alterations in the United States.

But the addendum said if the nation's climate changes as predicted it would mean the northern half of the country would get more rain, while the Gulf Coast, northern Rockies

Teen Gangs Are Rising Threat

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Zip guns are out and sophisticated weaponry is in among the hundreds of teen-age gang which pose an increasing threat of violence in the nation's big cities, according to government-funded research.

"Youth gang violence in the United States in the mid-1970s appears as a crime problem of the utmost seriousness," concluded Dr. Walter B. Miller of Harvard Law School's Center for Criminal Justice.

Gangs bearing such names as the Blackstone Rangers, the Disciples, and the Savage Skulls have prowled American cities since the turn of the century, Miller noted.

But he pointed to several trends indicating that today's gangs are more dangerous to themselves and others than ever before.

"Probably the single most significant development affecting gang-member violence during the present period is an extraordinary increase in the availability and use of firearms to effect violent crimes," Miller wrote.

"Many urban communities are gripped with a sense of hopelessness that anything can be done to curb the unremitting menace of the gangs," Miller wrote in a report issued Friday by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

An LEAA grant of $48,890 financed Miller's research on youth gangs in 12 cities. His analysis was based on information obtained from police, court and social agency officials in the cities.

Much of the report dealt with the six cities where officials described "extremely serious" problems with gangs — New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Detroit and San Francisco.

Less serious problems were reported in Cleveland, Washington, St. Louis, Baltimore and New Orleans. Houston officials reported some criminal activity by loosely-knit youth groups.

The homemade zip guns of the 1950s are used only rarely now. "Several informants said that such crude weaponry was held in contempt by most gang members," Miller reported.

Instead, gangs are armed with high-quality handguns often identical to police weapons such as the Smith and Wesson .38, Miller said.

He noted that New York police found in 1973 and 1974 that Bronx gangs had arsenals of rifles, including semi-automatic rifles converted to automatics, sawed-off shotguns, handguns, homemade mortars and TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — There are apparently no laws to prevent a Ft. Lewis soldier from continuing to butcher dogs and cats for his family to eat, authorities say. "We're still looking through the books for a possible violation of the law," said Chief Criminal Deputy Prosecuting Atty. Gary Cronk. "But our research thus far indicates that it is not a crime to eat dogs or cats." The Tacoma Humane Society first disclosed that the serviceman and his family were eating dog and cat meat. Society head Archie Fidler said the man was "completely open" about the matter, and had a refrigerator "full of parts of dogs and cats." Cronk said the law against cruelty to animals makes an exception of cases in which animals are killed for food.

"It just had to happen sooner or later."

That's what Sam Guardino of Fairplain said after winning $10,000 in Michigan Lottery's new instant winner game. Guardino, 46, of 610 Spencer street, said he regularly buys lottery tickets each week and also has a yearly subscription to the lottery "green" game.

The Auto Specialities maintenance foreman said he purchased his winning ticket late Thursday afternoon at Ford-LaSalle drug store, 204 State street, in downtown St. Joseph.

It's the first known new instant game $10,000 winner in southwestern Michigan since the game was introduced April 20.

Guardino said he took his ticket home, scratched off four "8s" that matched the number at the top of his ticket, and then let his wife scratch off the remaining numbers.

"She's the lucky one," he said. He said two of the last four numbers she scratched off were "8s," giving them the winning ticket.

He said he turned his winning ticket into the regional office of the state lottery in Kalamazoo yesterday morning. Guardino said the clerk who processed his ticket at the Kalamazoo office said it was the first $10,000 winner from the new instant game turned in at the Kalamazoo regional office.

Guardino said he and his wife have no definite plans for the money "but will certainly put it to good use."

The Guardino's have two grown daughters, Marie and LuAnn, both at home.

Pawating Hospital Workers Reject Union Again, 199-64

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — A proposal to unionize some 300 Pawating hospital workers here was rejected yesterday for the second time in 13 months.

In an election supervised by the National Labor Relations board (NLRB), a proposal that workers be represented by the International Retail Store Clerks union was defeated by a 199-no to 64-yes margin.

A total of 271 votes were cast, according to a hospital spokesman. Eight votes were challenged and not counted by the NLRB.

On March 27, 1975, unionization was defeated by a 147 to 107 margin. The vote was appealed to the NLRB, however, by the Kalamazoo-based local 36 of the union because 52 votes had been challenged.

The hospital's practical nurses, nurse aides, clerical workers, custodians and food service workers were eligible to vote.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. – Thomas Jefferson.

At Least, It'll Be Windfall For Lawyers

Although you can't take it with you, you can make it difficult for your heirs to get their hands on what you left behind.

For a while, it looked as if that's what Howard Robard Hughes managed to do. Despite an intensive search in 40 American cities, no will bearing the late billionaire businessman's signature was found.

It began to look as if the major beneficiary of the Hughes estate — estimated to be worth $2 billion — would be the federal government.

Until Thursday of this week, that is. Then, three scrawled pages of instructions that leave $125 million each to the Mormon church and a 31-year-old Utah gas station owner, who says he once loaned Howard Hughes a quarter, were filed in Clark county, Nevada, as Hughes' last will and testament.

Mormon Noah Dietrich, 87, a former top Hughes aide who was named executor, says he has "no doubt" that the document, found Tuesday at the Mormon church headquarters in Salt Lake City, is genuine.

However, officials at Summa Corp, parent company for Hughes' vast holdings, said they doubt the will had been drawn by Hughes. A court fight over its authenticity is a virtual certainty.

Opinion had previously been sharply divided as to whether Hughes ever made out a will. Eleanor Rohrbeck, a former secretary to Hughes, insisted that he did. In a copyrighted interview in the Palm Springs Desert Sun, Rohrbeck said Hughes had drawn up a will in 1949 and, two years later, signed a codicil typed by her. She added that she believes the papers still exist.

On the other hand, the Los Angeles Times quoted "a former high-ranking Hughes executive" as saying that he had "always been very doubtful" that the billionaire had executed a will. "I found him incapable of talking about the realization that he might die someday," he explained.

Still, it is difficult to believe that Hughes, as an ardent champion of capitalism and property rights, would not have taken steps to shelter his fortune after his death. The federal tax on the Hughes estate could run as high as $6,088,200, plus 77 per cent of everything in excess of $10 million. A tax bite of that magnitude almost surely would require the dismemberment of the Hughes business empire, which includes extensive holdings in aerospace and airline companies as well as Nevada gambling casinos.

Additional complications abound. Hughes was unmarried at the time of his death, and he had no known children. His closest surviving relatives are an elderly aunt and 13 first cousins, all of whom may lay claim to a portion of the estate. Moreover, the battle over the Hughes estate is being waged in the three states — California, Nevada and Texas — where his business holdings were concentrated. Each of the states no doubt is eager to acquire a share of the fortune through inheritance taxes.

The Hughes inheritance case is different in scale, though not in kind, from those involving far smaller estates. Where most of an individual's wealth is tied up in a farm or a small business, the enterprise may have to be liquidated at the owner's death to raise cash for federal and state inheritance taxes.

The situation is of particular concern to owners of farms that have been in the same family for generations. Agricultural journals are filled with articles predicting the eventual demise of the family farm if inheritance tax relief is not forthcoming. Both President Ford and Chairman Al Ullman (D-Ore.) of the House Ways and Means Committee have proposed legislation to that effect, but so far Congress has not acted.

Meanwhile, the battlelines are being drawn in what promises to be a yearslong fight over the disposition of the Hughes estate. The complex case should provide a windfall for the probate lawyers involved, if for no one else. It may even turn out to be a modern counterpart of Jarndyce and Jarndyce, the chancery case in Dickens' novel "Bleak House," which had dragged for so many years that the litigants no longer were sure exactly what it was about.

No Wonder We Have Problems

Trouble with the modern world is the only place most families can reach on foot is the garage.

The 'Little Inflation' Theorists Are Flaky

Unlike taxes or other bites taken directly from an individual's labors, inflation's effects are not always so obvious. That inflation does effectively eat away at earnings and savings is demonstrated by a study by The Conference Board of relative purchasing power.

A family of four which earned $10,000 in pretax income in 1960 today needs an income of $19,000 just to maintain the same living standard, according to the study. The broad expanse of higher prices grouped under "inflation" are only part of the explanation. Higher income taxes and soaring Social Security taxes also take an increased bite.

Inflation, however, is responsible for about two-thirds of the lost earning power. Similar effects were noted on other income levels. A family earning $5,000 in 1960 today needs $9,600 to remain even. An income of more than $49,000 would be required today to maintain the same living standards $25,000 brought a family 16 years ago.

What studies such as this one demonstrate vividly is the fallacy of the argument that a "little" inflation is good for the economy. The definition of what is "little" changes according to the whims of those who hold this view. Any influence which robs an individual's purchasing power is not good for this economy, or any other.

VFW Officials Say May 1 Not Only Day To Show Loyalty

Editor,

May 1 is Loyalty Day. Loyalty Day was established in 1958 by an Act of Congress, as a day on which Americans may pause and bear witness to their loyalty to the United States. It is fitting that this nation have a day, in each year, set aside for such a purpose.

Some people have asked "Why do we have Loyalty Day?" The reason is simple. We have a need for such a day. We know that this nation is not perfect. Yes, we have faults, but this nation of ours is also a compassionate, generous and honorable nation. It is a nation that honors its commitments to its citizens as well as other nations. While America has faults, it is still the greatest nation that the world has ever known. We as citizens owe our country, if nothing else, complete loyalty and devotion.

Loyalty Day is a day to demonstrate loyalty. But think for a minute. What is loyalty? Webster defines loyalty as "the quality and state of being loyal". But loyalty is more than just a word, it's a feeling. A feeling within a person that gives him a purpose and direction in life. It is unasked — for devotion to God, Flag, and Country. Loyalty is a way of life, the American way of life.

Loyalty Day is the day to tell everyone just what it is to be an American. We must strive, not only on May 1, but during the entire year to spread the truth about America, let the world know that there is more right with America than there is wrong. Let us remember that this country is still the bastion of liberty and the greatest nation that the world has ever known.

Remember on this day, May 1, 1976, to fly your American flag and maybe sometime during this day, you may look at this flag and say: "I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all".

Writes Valeo, "There is little doubt that the concept of the Emergency has gained public acceptance in India... It is of course, dimly regarded by opposition politicians, militant religious oriented factions and separatist groups..."

Meanwhile, a UPI report from New Delhi notes "club-swinging police waded into a crowd of hundreds of slum dwellers resisting eviction from New Delhi's main tourist shopping center Monday so bulldozers could level their shanties. Despite claims by some nearby residents that police opened fire on the crowds killing several persons, police sources insisted there were no deaths..."

Adds Valeo, "Foreign observers are unanimous in holding that Mrs. Gandhi would win a vote of confidence if elections were held at this time . . . "

Yet Mrs. Gandhi has announced no plans for holding elections.

And the Wall Street Journal recently reported a passive resistance movement in various cities and towns with 80,000 people courting arrest in one eight-week period. In one day 600 people were arrested for merely protesting the abolition of civil liberties.

Then note the news estimate of 160,000 to 180,000 political prisoners.

Yet Valeo writes, as an official of Congress, in a report published by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, that "the Emergency seems to have been far more widely disapproved abroad, and, particularly in the United States, than in India..."

Valeo lays particular stress on a list of Gandhi economic and management improvements: "Inflation has been halted. Hoarders and speculators are disgorging their holdings and corruption has been curbed. Civil servants have become more attentive to public needs. Industry and labor seem to be responding to the government's pleading or providing better service....."

This reminded one observer of the accolades given Mussolini for getting Italian trains to run on time.

To those who attribute Mrs. Gandhi's actions to a desire for retaining power, Valeo gives the back of his hand. "Whatever personal motives may be involved, such views clearly contain an admixture of rumor, surmise, animosity and gossip."

Valeo as a private citizen has every right to express his opinions. And one report by one man is itself of no great moment, however biased. But this Valeo paper unfortunately is typical of hundreds of reports put out by Congress.

So far as this reporter can determine, Valeo has no particular expertise on foreign affairs or on India. He could not possibly have learned much in his lightning trip through three major countries on a vast subcontinent during a congressional recess. He glosses over facts with the ease of a blue-sky stock salesman. Yet his superficial smattering of opinions, obviously largely gathered directly and indirectly from Mrs. Gandhi's own people though no sources are given, are printed under the auspices of a powerful Senate committee.

We as taxpayers are thus paying to spread Mrs. Gandhi's propaganda disguised as an official U.S. government report by a responsible U.S. government official.

Will We Lose To Panama, Too?

The United States appears to be settling comfortably into the habit of losing wars. Though this and that might be cited to the contrary, the essential fact remains that we have been defeated by North Vietnam in Souteast Asia, and by Cuba in Angola, and that now, behind a cloud of murky statements, the Administration is preparing to lose a war to, of all places, Panama.

That warfare is actually in question here has been made clear enough by the Panamanian dictator, General Omar Torrijos Herrera. U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker is not negotiating on the basis of mutual advantage. Quite the contrary. He is negotiating under the threat of Panamanian force and with an all-but-explicit deadline of 1977.

Thus, Torrijos recently declared that if Panana's radicals, students, and nationalist were to employ violence against the Canal Zone — as they did in 1959 and 1964 — "we will have two alternatives, to smash it or to lead it, and I'm not going to smash it."

Since Panama is a totally insignificant military power, Torrijos is threatening us with violence on the part of this motley Marquis, and betting that the U.S. will back down or, at the very worst, lack the will to "smash" a howling mob.

Of course, if Torrijos' mob knew that it would certainly be "smashed," then there would be small prospect of its putting in an appearance at the Canal Zone.

The U.S. has only two realistic options as regards the canal. With characteristic secrecy and amid misleading statements in the South and elsewhere, Secretary Henry Kissinger has been orchestrating negotiations leading to a phase-out of all three U.S. roles in the zone: control of the canal, operation of military and training bases, and administration of the zone. The only thing that really remains to be settled as we pursue this option is the timing.

The second option would entail the firm assertion of the intention to continue to control the canal and the zone. This should be accompanied by a carrot and a stick. The carrot would consist of increased economic benefits to Panama, perhaps the construction of a bridge over the canal so that Panama would not be "divided," plus some symbolic and cultural agreements.

The stick would consist of the declaration that the use of force against the zone by Torrijos' motley Maquis of students and whatnot, or by Castro, or by anyone else, would be treated no differently from an attack upon, say, Hawaii. The U.S. response would be definitive.

For us to turn over control of an important international waterway to weak, volatile, historically unstable Panama would be an act of internatonal irresponsibility.

If Kissinger continues to lead us down the path of Option One, and tries to slap a giveaway treaty on the desk of Congress, he seems likely to run into still another sharp rebuff.

Air Fares Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most passengers taking commercial airline flights in the United States and some going to Europe will be paying higher fares beginning today as a result of a Civil Aeronautics Board order.

The board agreed Friday to let airlines raise all domestic air fares by 2 per cent during the next two weeks. It also approved hikes of up to 10 per cent in first class and promotional fares on flights across the North Atlantic routes to Europe, while rejecting increases proposed for the economy, or coach, fare on those routes.

Sunday Blossom Rite Opens 1976 Festival

COLONY'S FIRST BUD PARADE ENTRY: Southwestern Michigan's first Blossom Parade was in 1924, and Manna Woodworth says this is the first float entered by the House of David. Woodworth, longtime director of House of David bands, was on the float along with Judge Harry Dewhirst, the gentleman with the very prominent beard at top right. Judge Dewhirst was the successor to King Benjamin Purnell as leader of the House of David. The House of David won many sweepstakes crowns in Blossom Parades, but in 1924 it went to Benton Harbor Kiwanis club.

Nondenominational Service Slated Near Eau Claire

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Southwestern Michigan's 1976 Blossomtime Festival begins Sunday with a blessing for flowers that have been heavily damaged by frost as buds appeared earlier than usual.

Blossom Sunday had its origin in 1906 when Rev. W. J. Caddy of the First Congregational church, Benton Harbor, declared in a sermon there should be an observance for the buds that are the forerunners of the harvest.

Tomorrow's Blessing of the Blossoms will start at 3 p.m. on the Tree-Mendus fruit farm, operated by the Herbert Teichman family near Eau Claire.

The farm is some 15 miles southeast of the Twin Cities. Twin Cities residents may follow Napier east to M-140, and south on M-140 about nine miles to Eureka road.

The farm is off Eureka, about a mile east of M-140. A large Tree-Mendus farm sign is at the intersection of M-140 and Eureka.

The farm may also be reached by driving through Eau Claire, east to M-140, and about a mile north on M-140 to Eureka.

Berrien sheriff's department posse members will direct motorists from the farm entrance to the parking lot. Members of the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club will serve as ushers from the parking area to the worship site.

The Blessing of the Blossoms is a nondenominational service conducted by ministers of varied faiths. Present will be the 30 community queens, led by Miss Blossomtime Kimberly Smith of Gobles.

The Rev. Ross Bunce, pastor of Newhope Methodist church, Bainbridge township, is coordinator of the ceremony. The liturgy committee is headed by Rabbi Harold Berman of Temple B'Nai Shalom, Fairplain. Committee members are, Rev. Leroy White, St. John's Catholic church, Benton Harbor; and Rev. George Ross, St. Joseph Catholic church. Heading media relations is Rev. Robert Andrews, St. Paul's Episcopal church, St. Joseph.

Rev. George Ross will be the celebrant during the actual Blessing of the Blossoms.

Responses will be by Rev. Arnold Bolin, executive director, Berrien County Council of Churches.

During the ceremony a hymn will be sung to words composed by Rev. Bolin and entitled, "We Gather in these Orchards." They will be sung to the tune of "Lead On, O King Eternal."

Music will be provided by the Lake Michigan college Brass Ensemble, conducted by Donald Moely; the Madrigal Singers of LMC, directed by Mrs. Jean Bartz; and the liturgical choir of Coloma United Methodist church, directed by Mrs. Linda Stibal and Mrs. Marcia Hausermann.

The processional will include farm families and farm workers, joined by the queens and clergy.

Events next week include the Key to the Cities tour Monday through Friday, when visits will be made to communities of all 30 queens. Other events:

Blossomtime fashion show, 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 5, Shadowland ballroom, St. Joseph.

Blossomtime Youth parade, 3:30 p.m. Thursday, May 6, in Benton Harbor.

Blossomtime celebrities' reception at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, M-139, at 6:30 p.m. Friday, May 7; and Blossomtime Youth concert, Shadowland ballroom, at 8 p.m. the same day.

The Grand Floral parade will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 8, in St. Joseph and move through Benton Harbor.

Other events on Saturday are: Blossomtime square dance roundup, 7:30 p.m. at Berrien Springs high school; and the traditional Grand Floral Ball at 9 p.m. in Shadowland ballroom.

HER WEEK: Kimberly Smith of Gobles, Miss Blossomtime, will reign over week-long Southwestern Michigan Blossom Festival that begins tomorrow.

Gray Praises Oldtimers As 'Backbone' Of Whirlpool

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Elisha (Bud) Gray II, retired board chairman, told Whirlpool Oldtimers last night quality workmanship has made Whirlpool the home appliance industry leader.

Gray said at the 31st annual Whirlpool Oldtimers banquet at Shadowland, St. Joseph, "You are the backbone of the company. Your dedication and loyalty to the company, in good times and bad, are the real strength of this business.

"Without you Whirlpool would not be the acknowledged leader in the home appliance industry."

Gray spoke at the second of the three-night program. Stephen Upton, vice president of consumer and public affairs, spoke Thursday evening. Glenn Willis, group vice president of laundry products and refrigeration, is scheduled to address the Oldtimers tonight. The program is spread over three nights because all cannot be accomodated at once.

There were approximately 800 Whirlpool employes, both active workers and those who have retired, at the dinner Thursday evening and about 750 last night and tonight. An "Oldtimer" is a worker with 20 or more years service.

Gray, who joined Whirlpool in 1938, retired as board chairman and chief executive officer in 1971. He remains a director of the corporation and chairman of the finance committee. He quoted from the program of the first Oldtimers banquet:

This banquet is given in recognition of the loyalty and cooperation of employes who have been with the Nineteen Hundred Corp. or its predecessor companies for 20 years or more. The contribution which you have made to the development and success of this organization is deeply appreciated and will always be remembered."

"These words," Gray said, "are just as true today as they were then."

Reminiscing further, he said he was probably the only one present who was at the first banquet. That affair, he recalled, was held Jan. 31, 1946 in the Whitcomb hotel with 33 Oldtimers as guests.

"Quite a contrast to the 1,578 Oldtimers who received invitations this year," he said. Gray added: "But then we only had 1,200 employes in the whole company compared to nearly 25,000 now."

Gray said: "But the reason the first banquet was held, and the reason for every one since, hasn't changed one bit. It's as sound and relevant as ever and says more about Whirlpool and its people than any other statement you'll ever find.

"A quick calculation will remind you that our company is 65 years old this year. But even though we now produce millions of appliances every year, instead of hundreds as the Uptons did back in 1911, we still have to build them one at a time with the same care and concern for the quality of each machine."

Shadowland was decorated with red, white and blue balloons and giant photographs many dating back to before the turn of the century.

Chairman was John Kobrin and co-chairman was Walt Waldenmaier. Master of ceremonies was Walt Fisher. Entertainment was by "Life," a musical group, Charlie Dornan and the Bob Merwin trio.

Tri-Unit Board Okays New Chief

The Tri-Unit Fire board has approved the election of Haskel "Hack" Starbuck as chief of the fire department for 1976-77. Starbuck, 30, 5757 Mill, Stevensville, replaces Lloyd Both, 5584 Tilly road, St. Joseph, as chief of the department which serves Stevensville village, Lincoln and Royalton townships. Both had been chief for five consecutive years.

Starbuck has been on the fire department for eight years. He is also a Berrien county deputy dog warden.

Station officers re-elected for 1976-77 and approved by the board, according to Donald Kretchman, Tri-Unit secretary, are:

Stevensville station — Rudy Bohm, assistant chief; William Ott, captain; and Richard Boelke, newly elected lieutenant.

Royalton station — Robert Koebel, assistant chief; Carl Mathews, captain; Robert Kubsch, lieutenant.

Kretchman was re-elected secretary and Al Shafer was re-elected treasurer.

Starbuck had earlier been elected chief in a vote of department members. Departmental regulations require confirmation of elections by the board.

Spending Critic Will Run If BH Recall Successful

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

Nate Robinson, a critic of proposed Benton Harbor spending policies, has become the second person to announce his intention of seeking a commission seat if the May 18 recall election is successful.

Robinson, 35, said he intends to run for the Third Ward commission seat held by Winston Minott if Minott is ousted from office in the recall vote.

Cornelius Bass, a Whirlpool corporation executive, announced last week that he intends to seek the office of mayor if Mayor Charles F. Joseph is recalled.

The May 18 election asks voters only to decide whether to oust Joseph and four commissioners who have supported his "Clean Slate" program — Charles Shepherd, Barbara Huckaby, Alfred Williams and Minott.

No rival candidates will be on the ballot, but recall leaders hope to assemble a list of candidates willing to fill any vacancies that may be created by the recall vote.

Robinson said his candidacy was "a decision I made myself" and that he was not an active participant in the recall effort although he supports its goal of ousting the "Clean Slate" faction.

He said he had talked to Bass and agrees with his views on the needs of the city, but stressed that "we're running as two separate candidates."

Robinson was one of several citizens who spoke out against plans to spend $48,000 for a mayor's newsletter and $30,000 for a city ombudsman (or people's man) at a public hearing on Benton Harbor's 1976-77 budget April 19.

"I feel our town is dying," he said in announcing his candidacy. "I think I understand what the people's needs are, and this administration is not meeting those needs.

"Money could be spent on proper projects like street repairs, lighting, parks and crime prevention instead of these other things."

Robinson is a graduate of Benton Harbor high school and received a certificate in electronics from Lake Michigan College.

He was employed by Whirlpool corporation for six years but has not worked since March, 1973, because of a kidney ailment that requires dialysis treatments three times a week. His wife, Dora, is a secretary in the Benton Harbor area preschool program.

The Robinsons and their two children live at 1259 Bishop.

BHHS Ranks High With Evaluators

A 23-member team of Michigan educators has completed its on-site evaluation of Benton Harbor high school, and in a preliminary finding, has given the school high grades. The North Central evaluation team of 19 Michigan educators met with high school staff members Thursday afternoon for a final face-to-face discussion. Team Chairman Dr. James Ossian, principal of Big Rapids high school, told the 125 teachers that the high school "has many, many strengths that outweigh minor weaknesses.

"Benton Harbor High school does not enjoy a top reputation throughout the state," he reminded. "Our evaluation, however, found much evidence to the contrary. The halls of Big Rapids high school are more dangerous than your halls have been during the past week." Among the high school strengths, according to the team, are the students, who, when asked, surprised some of the educators by giving their teachers, counselors and high school administrators consistently good marks.

Other areas of strength included the over-all school curriculum, which offers students at both low and high achievement levels alternative classes to match abilities.

"Before any education can take place, you must learn the basics," said Dr. Ossian. "Your course offerings recognize this, but also take care of students with high capabilities through honors courses." In another area, the North Central team was "most impressed" according to its chairman, by the equipment and special resource materials made possible because of special federal and state grants. Many of the school districts represented on the evaluation team do not qualify for such federal funds, and local board of education budgets cannot generally support such equipment levels.

"You are very fortunate," said Dr. Ossian.

Moving back to single sessions after several years of split shifts has significantly boosted the morale of Benton Harbor high students, the North Central team said. Emphasis on career education, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, and opportunities through the vocational-technical and skill centers for training in several career fields help may students graduate with skills that can be used to gain immediate employment. All this means student morale is high.

The biggest problem over the last several years, educators from both North Central and Benton Harbor high school agree, has been the school's lack of holding power. A high drop-out rate, high absentee rate, and loss of students through repeated family moves all contribute to the problem. These problems offer a challenge that BHHS staff members are anxious to tackle.

"Quite simply, the opportunities are being provided here for a fine education, said Ossian. "To take advantage of it, you must have students here regularly."

The preliminary report will be followed by a final written evaluation. Results of the entire evaluation will be presented to the community whenthe report arrives. The North Central association is a voluntary league of 4,000 secondary schools and 650 colleges and universities in a 19-state region.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

At Least, It'll Be Windfall For Lawyers

Although you can't take it with you, you can make it difficult for your heirs to get their hands on what you left behind.

For a while, it looked as if that's what Howard Robard Hughes managed to do. Despite an intensive search in 40 American cities, no will bearing the late billionaire businessman's signature was found.

It began to look as if the major beneficiary of the Hughes estate — estimated to be worth $2 billion — would be the federal government.

Until Thursday of this week, that is. Then, three scrawled pages of instructions that leave $125 million each to the Mormon church and a 31-year-old Utah gas station owner, who says he once loaned Howard Hughes a quarter, were filed in Clark county, Nevada, as Hughes' last will and testament.

Mormon Noah Dietrich, 87, a former top Hughes aide who was named executor, says he has "no doubt" that the document, found Tuesday at the Mormon church headquarters in Salt Lake City, is genuine.

However, officials at Summa Corp, parent company for Hughes' vast holdings, said they doubt the will had been drawn by Hughes. A court fight over its authenticity is a virtual certainty.

Opinion had previously been sharply divided as to whether Hughes ever made out a will. Eleanor Rohrbeck, a former secretary to Hughes, insisted that he did. In a copyrighted interview in the Palm Springs Desert Sun, Rohrbeck said Hughes had drawn up a will in 1949 and, two years later, signed a codicil typed by her. She added that she believes the papers still exist.

On the other hand, the Los Angeles Times quoted "a former high-ranking Hughes executive" as saying that he had "always been very doubtful" that the billionaire had executed a will. "I found him incapable of talking about the realization that he might die someday," he explained.

Still, it is difficult to believe that Hughes, as an ardent champion of capitalism and property rights, would not have taken steps to shelter his fortune after his death. The federal tax on the Hughes estate could run as high as $6,088,200, plus 77 per cent of everything in excess of $10 million. A tax bite of that magnitude almost surely would require the dismemberment of the Hughes business empire, which includes extensive holdings in aerospace and airline companies as well as Nevada gambling casinos.

Additional complications abound. Hughes was unmarried at the time of his death, and he had no known children. His closest surviving relatives are an elderly aunt and 13 first cousins, all of whom may lay claim to a portion of the estate. Moreover, the battle over the Hughes estate is being waged in the three states — California, Nevada and Texas — where his business holdings were concentrated. Each of the states no doubt is eager to acquire a share of the fortune through inheritance taxes.

The Hughes inheritance case is different in scale, though not in kind, from those involving far smaller estates. Where most of an individual's wealth is tied up in a farm or a small business, the enterprise may have to be liquidated at the owner's death to raise cash for federal and state inheritance taxes.

The situation is of particular concern to owners of farms that have been in the same family for generations. Agricultural journals are filled with articles predicting the eventual demise of the family farm if inheritance tax relief is not forthcoming. Both President Ford and Chairman Al Ullman (D-Ore.) of the House Ways and Means Committee have proposed legislation to that effect, but so far Congress has not acted.

Meanwhile, the battlelines are being drawn in what promises to be a yearslong fight over the disposition of the Hughes estate. The complex case should provide a windfall for the probate lawyers involved, if for no one else. It may even turn out to be a modern counterpart of Jarndyce and Jarndyce, the chancery case in Dickens' novel "Bleak House," which had dragged for so many years that the litigants no longer were sure exactly what it was about.

No Wonder We Have Problems

Trouble with the modern world is the only place most families can reach on foot is the garage.

The 'Little Inflation' Theorists Are Flaky

Unlike taxes or other bites taken directly from an individual's labors, inflation's effects are not always so obvious. That inflation does effectively eat away at earnings and savings is demonstrated by a study by The Conference Board of relative purchasing power.

A family of four which earned $10,000 in pretax income in 1960 today needs an income of $19,000 just to maintain the same living standard, according to the study. The broad expanse of higher prices grouped under "inflation" are only part of the explanation. Higher income taxes and soaring Social Security taxes also take an increased bite.

Inflation, however, is responsible for about two-thirds of the lost earning power. Similar effects were noted on other income levels. A family earning $5,000 in 1960 today needs $9,600 to remain even. An income of more than $49,000 would be required today to maintain the same living standards $25,000 brought a family 16 years ago.

What studies such as this one demonstrate vividly is the fallacy of the argument that a "little" inflation is good for the economy. The definition of what is "little" changes according to the whims of those who hold this view. Any influence which robs an individual's purchasing power is not good for this economy, or any other.

VFW Officials Say May 1 Not Only Day To Show Loyalty

Editor,

May 1 is Loyalty Day. Loyalty Day was established in 1958 by an Act of Congress, as a day on which Americans may pause and bear witness to their loyalty to the United States. It is fitting that this nation have a day, in each year, set aside for such a purpose.

Some people have asked "Why do we have Loyalty Day?" The reason is simple. We have a need for such a day. We know that this nation is not perfect. Yes, we have faults, but this nation of ours is also a compassionate, generous and honorable nation. It is a nation that honors its commitments to its citizens as well as other nations. While America has faults, it is still the greatest nation that the world has ever known. We as citizens owe our country, if nothing else, complete loyalty and devotion.

Loyalty Day is a day to demonstrate loyalty. But think for a minute. What is loyalty? Webster defines loyalty as "the quality and state of being loyal". But loyalty is more than just a word. It's a feeling. A feeling within a person that gives him a purpose and direction in life. It is unasked — for devotion to God, Flag, and Country. Loyalty is a way of life, the American way of life.

Loyalty Day is the day to tell everyone just what it is to be an American. We must strive, not only on May 1, but during the entire year to spread the truth about America, let the world know that there is more right with America than there is wrong. Let us remember that this country is still the bastion of liberty and the greatest nation that the world has ever known.

Remember on this day, May 1, 1976, to fly your American flag and maybe sometime during this day, you may look at this flag and say: "I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all".

Meanwhile, a UPI report from New Delhi notes "club-swinging police waded into a crowd of hundreds of slum dwellers resisting eviction from New Delhi's main tourist shopping center Monday so bulldozers could level their shanties. Despite claims by some nearby residents that police opened fire on the crowds killing several persons, police sources insisted there were no deaths..."

Adds Valeo, "Foreign observers are unanimous in holding that Mrs. Gandhi would win a vote of confidence if elections were held at this time . . ."

Yet Mrs. Gandhi has announced no plans for holding elections.

And the Wall Street Journal recently reported a passive resistance movement in various cities and towns with 80,000 people courting arrest in one eight-week period. In one day 600 people were arrested for merely protesting the abolition of civil liberties.

Then note the news estimate of 100,000 to 180,000 political prisoners.

Yet Valeo writes, as an official of Congress, in a report published by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, that "the Emergency seems to have been far more widely disapproved abroad, and, particularly in the United States, than in India..."

Valeo lays particular stress on a list of Gandhi economic and management improvements: "Inflation has been halted. Hoarders and speculators are disgorging their holdings and corruption has been curbed. Civil servants have become more attentive to public needs. Industry and labor seem to be responding to the government's pleading or providing better service..."

This reminded one observer of the accolades given Mussolini for getting Italian trains to run on time.

To those who attribute Mrs. Gandhi's actions to a desire for retaining power, Valeo gives the back of his hand. "Whatever personal motives may be involved, such views clearly contain an admixture of rumor, surmise, animosity and gossip."

Valeo as a private citizen has every right to express his opinions. And one report by one man is itself of no great moment, however biased. But this Valeo paper unfortunately is typical of hundreds of reports put out by Congress.

So far as this reporter can determine, Valeo has no particular expertise on foreign affairs or on India. He could not possibly have learned much in his lightning trip through three major countries on a vast subcontinent during a congressional recess. He glosses over facts with the ease of a blue-sky stock salesman. Yet his superficial smattering of opinions, obviously largely gathered directly and indirectly from Mrs. Gandhi's own people though no sources are given, are printed under the auspices of a powerful Senate committee.

We as taxpayers are thus paying to spread Mrs. Gandhi's propaganda disguised as an official U.S. government report by a responsible U.S. government official.

Will We Lose To Panama, Too?

The United States appears to be settling comfortably into the habit of losing wars. Though this and that might be cited to the contrary, the essential fact remains that we have been defeated by North Vietnam in Southeast Asia, and by Cuba in Angola, and that now, behind a cloud of murky statements, the Administration is preparing to lose a war to, of all places, Panama.

That warfare is actually in question here has been made clear enough by the Panamanian dictator, General Omar Torrijos Herrera. U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker is not negotiating on the basis of mutual advantage. Quite the contrary. He is negotiating under the threat of Panamanian force and with an all-but-explicit deadline of 1977.

Thus, Torrijos recently declared that if Panama's radicals, students, and nationalist were to employ violence against the Canal Zone — as they did in 1959 and 1964 — "we will have two alternatives, to smash it or to lead it, and I'm not going to smash it."

Since Panama is a totally insignificant military power, Torrijos is threatening us with violence on the part of this motley Marquis, and betting that the U.S. will back down or, at the very worst, lack the will to "smash" a howling mob.

Of course, if Torrijos' mob knew that it would certainly be "smashed," then there would be small prospect of its putting in an appearance at the Canal Zone.

The U.S. has only two realistic options as regards the canal. With characteristic secrecy and amid misleading statements in the South and elsewhere, Secretary Henry Kissinger has been orchestrating negotiations leading to a phase-out of all three U.S. roles in the zone: control of the canal, operation of military and training bases, and administration of the zone. The only thing that really remains to be settled as we pursue this option is the timing.

The second option would entail the firm assertion of the intention to continue to control the canal and the zone. This should be accompanied by a carrot and a stick. The carrot would consist of increased economic benefits to Panama, perhaps the construction of a bridge over the canal so that Panama would not be "divided," plus some symbolic and cultural agreements.

The stick would consist of the declaration that the use of force against the zone by Torrijos' motley Maquis of students and whatnot, or by Castro, or by anyone else, would be treated no differently from an attack upon, say, Hawaii. The U.S. response would be definitive.

For us to turn over control of an important international waterway to weak, volatile, historically unstable Panama would be an act of international irresponsibility.

If Kissinger continues to lead us down the path of Option One, and tries to slap a giveaway treaty on the desk of Congress, he seems likely to run into still another sharp rebuff.

Air Fares Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most passengers taking commercial airline flights in the United States and some going to Europe will be paying higher fares beginning today as a result of a Civil Aeronautics Board order.

The board agreed Friday to let airlines raise all domestic air fares by 2 per cent during the next two weeks. It also approved hikes of up to 10 per cent in first class and promotional fares on flights across the North Atlantic routes to Europe, while rejecting increases proposed for the economy, or coach, fare on those routes.

Mixes Politics And Family Life

EDITOR'S NOTE: If the Secret Service van parked out front seems a bit much, the 10-year-old taking official phone calls seems less than enough. Both typify Ellen McCormack's run for the presidency: a mixture of politics and family life. She hopes the idea catches on.

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

MERRICK, N.Y. (AP) — Ellen McCormack was running a bit late for her Monday morning appointment with the press. She had a conflicting engagement with her son's fourth grade reading teacher. First things first.

The second interview of the day had to wait while she made 10-year-old John — now home for lunch -- a peanut butter sandwich. And John wasn't too happy anyway. His dog, Nimbus, a black Heinz 57 — probably heavily spiced with terrier — had been tied up in the back yard.

"Why is my dog tied up?" he asked the candidate for the presidency of the United States of America, his mother.

She is Mrs. Francis John McCormack, housewife, mother of four, grandmother of two, a Roman Catholic, a former Girl Scout leader and PTA activist, a 1944 graduate of All Saints High School, the wife of a deputy inspector of the New York City Police Department and suddenly a contender for the Democratic nomination for the highest office in the land.

She's called the "Pro-Life Candidate" or the "Antiabortion Candidate" and she's been criticized for being a one-issue candidate and has been called a "tool of the bishops."

She says she doesn't mind the "Pro-Life" tag, but says she does have other positions.

"I don't think the other candidates take my other positions very seriously," she admits.

Her grass-roots campaign, backed by Pro-Life and Right to Life groups across the nation, has qualified her for matching federal funds as well as Secret Service protection around the clock.

Her one-story, stucco and wood home in a modest section of Long Island, is now distinguished by the van in the front that the Secret Service uses as an office.

She initially did not want constant protection. She felt she needed it only when speaking before large crowds. But one of her lessons in practical politics was that the Secret Service does not work that way. If they are assigned to protect a person, it's all-or-nothing.

She also had to bend to the wishes of her supporters and get an unlisted telephone number.

"My daughter, who has the same name as mine, received several obscene telephone calls one day. She was very upset. I told her I was sure the calls were for me," recalls Mrs. McCormack. But that was it. An unlisted telephone was installed the next day.

Mrs. McCormack is a rather tall, friendly woman who does not look her 49 years. Her only lines are the laugh lines around her mouth. She has black hair, with only a hint of gray in front, dark brown eyes, and high cheekbones that announce her Irish ancestry. Besides freckle-faced John, she has three daughters, all in their 20s. The eldest, Kathy, is married and the mother of two children.

Does she really think she can win?

"I know the odds against it," she says. Her ambition is to win 4 per cent in the remaining primaries. She already has secured two delegates, one from Wisconsin and one from Massachusetts.

By her candidacy she "hopes people will get motivated to get back into the political arena."

"I'm running to get people back to doing their jobs. The members of the Supreme Court are basing their judgments on public opinion and sentiment and not the interpretation of the law. Congressmen will no longer face controversial issues. They say what they think people want to hear. They won't be honest with you."

Although Mrs. McCormack does speak on issues other than abortion, her intense anti-abortion feelings come to the front.

On Egypt and Israel: "We arm both sides and than ask them not to shoot each other. I would cut off arms and send in a man who will go to the little people and teach them to live together. I would like to choose an emisary to send to Egypt and Israel. Abortion is a terrible action of violence both against the mother and the baby and our government supports it and our government then wants to go into another country as a peacemaker?"

Mrs. McCormack has received $170,000 in federal funds and has raised $225,000. Under the law, a candidate must raise $5,000 in 20 states with no individual giving more than $250.

She has been criticized for receiving the funds by people who feel she is a cause, not a candidate. Rep. Charles Wiggins, a California Republican, called it a "perversion."

"I don't think it is," she says. "HEW (Health, Education and Welfare) pays $50 million a year for abortions. And most feminist groups are financed by the government. No one questions that."

She admits the federal funding law probably will be changed and agrees that she may be part of the reason for changing it. But she strongly favors such a law, pointing out that it does give people other than leading politicians the chance to run.

And Mrs. McCormack's campaign has none of the top-level politician to it. There is no office and, in trying to reach her, one ends up leaving messages with a 10-year-old child whose mother is a member of the Pro-Life Action Committee.

There are titles among the nine members of the committee, but jobs vary from day to day. There is no speech writer, as such. It's a joint effort.

The large bulk of the money is being spent on television commercials, including a recent five-minute spot.

Mrs. McCormack says the votes she has been receiving in the primaries have not seemed to influence the major candidates' positions on abortion.

"I could not endorse any Democratic candidate," she says flatly.

Mrs. McCormack's books have been audited to prove that she is not, as charged, "a tool of the bishops." She has not asked for and has not received any official support from the Roman Catholic Church.

There have been small contributions from various church groups, but they do not qualify for matching federal funds.

Mrs. McCormack's husband, Jack, supports her. She says his only concern is over her safety.

John And Ellen, the two children still at home, have traveled to some of the primary states with their mother.

"It's been very educational for them," she says.

The reason Mrs. McCormack was visiting her son John's reading teacher was to deal with a problem he is having at school: teasing from his classmates.

The solution was simple. John is now ordered to stop bringing every press clipping he can find about his mother to "Show and Tell."

District Auxilians Meet At Berrien Springs

Challenges MAHA Members

Sandra Bruce, administrator of Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, challenged auxilians to function as a conduit between hospital administration and the community when she spoke for the spring meeting of the Southwest District Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries April 27 at Berrien Springs.

Speaking on "Administrator, Hospitals and Auxilians — Changing Roles in the New Society," Mrs. Bruce said the role and responsibilities of hospitals are changing and broadening and such developments may affect the auxilian-hospital relationship in the future.

She said advances in medical technology and research will continue, if not accelerate, the present trend toward greater specialization and sophistication in medical services.

Yet at the same time, she said, cultural and social changes are creating greater, ever-widening demands for health care, for "cradle to the grave" care for every American, and with every patient having the right to participate in his or her health care as an active partner with distinct and enforceable rights.

The focal point of health care services will shift from the physician's office to the hospital and will enlarge the role and responsibilities of hospitals and all those who are part of its service team.

Mrs. Bruce said the hospitals will be placed "squarely in the middle, having to extend its range of services to meet the new "patient-consumer" demands of its community, while having to constantly improve and update its physical plant, equipment and personnel to accommodate the rapidly-developing advances in technology and medical practice — and having to achieve all of this within the confines of government regulation."

Yet, these developments also make it exciting times for those in the health care field, she said. Never before have there been such opportunities for extending and enriching the quality of health, not just for the wealthy, but for all Americans.

To meet the challenge, the hospital will need to make the community aware of the hospital's needs and to recognize the needs and expectations of the community it serves.

Traditionally, auxiliary groups have functioned as a "voice" for their hospital in expressing to the community the hospital's position and interests.

"Now," she said, "auxilians need to become aware of their potential to be spokesmen to the hospital for the community."

Mrs. Bruce also suggested auxilians be active spokesmen on the hospital's behalf to public officials and governing bodies. It has become important, she said, for hospitals to make known their ideas and interests in the area of governmental control, so as to shape policies which best meet the needs of their patients and institutions.

Sunday Blossom Rite Opens 1976 Festival

COLONY'S FIRST BUD PARADE ENTRY: Southwestern Michigan's first Blossom Parade was in 1924, and Manna Woodworth says this is the first float entered by the House of David. Woodworth, longtime director of House of David bands, was on the float along with Judge Harry Dewhirst, the gentleman with the very prominent beard at top right. Judge Dewhirst was the successor to King Benjamin Purnell as leader of the House of David. The House of David won many sweepstakes crowns in Blossom Parades, but in 1924 it went to Benton Harbor Kiwanis club.

Nondenominational Service Slated Near Eau Claire

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Southwestern Michigan's 1976 Blossomtime Festival begins Sunday with a blessing for flowers that have been heavily damaged by frost as buds appeared earlier than usual.

Blossom Sunday had its origin in 1906 when Rev. W. J. Caddy of the First Congregational church, Benton Harbor, declared in a sermon there should be an observance for the buds that are the forerunners of the harvest.

Tomorrow's Blessing of the Blossoms will start at 3 p.m. on the Tree-Mendus fruit farm, operated by the Herbert Teichman family near Eau Claire.

The farm is some 15 miles southeast of the Twin Cities. Twin Cities residents may follow Napier east to M-140, and south on M-140 about nine miles to Eureka road.

The farm is off Eureka, about a mile east of M-140. A large Tree-Mendus farm sign is at the intersection of M-140 and Eureka.

The farm may also be reached by driving through Eau Claire, east to M-140, and about a mile north on M-140 to Eureka.

Berrien sheriff's department posse members will direct motorists from the farm entrance to the parking lot. Members of the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club will serve as ushers from the parking area to the worship site.

The Blessing of the Blossoms is a nondenominational service conducted by ministers of varied faiths. Present will be the 30 community queens, led by Miss Blossomtime Kimberly Smith of Gobles.

The Rev. Ross Bunce, pastor of Newhope Methodist church, Bainbridge township, is coordinator of the ceremony. The liturgy committee is headed by Rabbi Harold Berman of Temple B'Nai Shalom, Fairplain. Committee members are, Rev. Leroy White, St. John's Catholic church, Benton Harbor; and Rev. George Ross, St. Joseph Catholic church. Heading media relations is Rev. Robert Andrews, St. Paul's Episcopal church, St. Joseph.

Rev. George Ross will be the celebrant during the actual Blessing of the Blossoms.

Responses will be by Rev. Arnold Bolin, executive director, Berrien County Council of Churches.

During the ceremony a hymn will be sung to words composed by Rev. Bolin and entitled, "We Gather in these Orchards." They will be sung to the tune of "Lead On, O King Eternal."

Music will be provided by the Lake Michigan college Brass Ensemble, conducted by Donald Moely; the Madrigal Singers of LMC, directed by Mrs. Jean Bartz; and the liturgical choir of Colonial United Methodist church, directed by Mrs. Linda Stibal and Mrs. Marcia Hausermann.

The processional will include farm families and farm workers, joined by the queens and clergy.

Events next week include the Key to the Cities tour Monday through Friday, when visits will be made to communities of all 30 queens. Other events:

Blossomtime fashion show, 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 5, Shadowland ballroom, St. Joseph.

Blossomtime Youth parade, 3:30 p.m. Thursday, May 6, in Benton Harbor.

Blossomtime celebrities' reception at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, M-139, at 6:30 p.m. Friday, May 7; and Blossomtime Youth concert, Shadowland ballroom, at 8 p.m. the same day.

The Grand Floral parade will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 8, in St. Joseph and move through Benton Harbor.

Other events on Saturday are: Blossomtime square dance roundup, 7:30 p.m. at Berrien Springs high school; and the traditional Grand Floral Ball at 9 p.m. in Shadowland ballroom.

HER WEEK: Kimberly Smith of Gobles, Miss Blossomtime, will reign over week-long Southwestern Michigan Blossom Festival that begins tomorrow.

Gray Praises Oldtimers As 'Backbone' Of Whirlpool

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Elisha (Bud) Gray II, retired board chairman, told Whirlpool Oldtimers last night quality workmanship has made Whirlpool the home appliance industry leader.

Gray said at the 31st annual Whirlpool Oldtimers banquet at Shadowland, St. Joseph, "You are the backbone of the company. Your dedication and loyalty to the company, in good times and bad, are the real strength of this business.

"Without you Whirlpool would not be the acknowledged leader in the home appliance industry."

Gray spoke at the second of the three-night program. Stephen Upton, vice president of consumer and public affairs, spoke Thursday evening. Glenn Willis, group vice president of laundry products and refrigeration, is scheduled to address the Oldtimers tonight. The program is spread over three nights because all cannot be accomodated at once.

There were approximately 800 Whirlpool employes, both active workers and those who have retired, at the dinner Thursday evening and about 750 last night and tonight. An "Oldtimer" is a worker with 20 or more years service.

Gray, who joined Whirlpool in 1938, retired as board chairman and chief executive officer in 1971. He remains a director of the corporation and chairman of the finance committee. He quoted from the program of the first Oldtimers banquet:

This banquet is given in recognition of the loyalty and cooperation of employes who have been with the Nineteen Hundred Corp. or its predecessor companies for 20 years or more. The contribution which you have made to the development and success of this organization is deeply appreciated and will always be remembered."

"These words," Gray said, "are just as true today as they were then."

Reminiscing further, he said he was probably the only one present who was at the first banquet. That affair, he recalled, was held Jan. 31, 1946 in the Whitcomb hotel with 33 Oldtimers as guests.

"Quite a contrast to the 1,578 Oldtimers who received invitations this year," he said. Gray added: "But then we only had 1,200 employes in the whole company compared to nearly 25,000 now."

Gray said: "But the reason the first banquet was held, and the reason for every one since, hasn't changed one bit. It's as sound and relevant as ever and says more about Whirlpool and its people than any other statement you'll ever find.

"A quick calculation will remind you that our company is 65 years old this year. But even though we now produce millions of appliances every year, instead of hundreds as the Uptons did back in 1911, we still have to build them one at a time with the same care and concern for the quality of each machine."

Shadowland was decorated with red, white and blue balloons and giant photographs many dating back to before the turn of the century.

Chairman was John Kobrin and co-chairman was Walt Waldenmaier. Master of ceremonies was Walt Fisher. Entertainment was by "Life," a musical group. Charlie Dornan and the Bob Merwin trio.

Spending Critic Will Run If BH Recall Successful

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

Nate Robinson, a critic of proposed Benton Harbor spending policies, has become the second person to announce his intention of seeking a commission seat if the May 18 recall election is successful.

Robinson, 35, said he intends to run for the Third Ward commission seat held by Winston Minott if Minott is ousted from office in the recall vote.

Cornelius Bass, a Whirlpool corporation executive, announced last week that he intends to seek the office of mayor if Mayor Charles F. Joseph is recalled.

The May 18 election asks voters only to decide whether to oust Joseph and four commissioners who have supported his "Clean Slate" program — Charles Shepherd, Barbara Huckaby, Alfred Williams and Minott.

No rival candidates will be on the ballot, but recall leaders hope to assemble a list of candidates willing to fill any vacancies that may be created by the recall vote.

Robinson said his candidacy was "a decision I made myself" and that he was not an active participant in the recall effort although he supports its goal of ousting the "Clean Slate" faction.

He said he had talked to Bass and agrees with his views on the needs of the city, but stressed that "we're running as two separate candidates."

Robinson was one of several citizens who spoke out against plans to spend $48,000 for a mayor's newsletter and $30,000 for a city ombudsman (or people's man) at a public hearing on Benton Harbor's 1976-77 budget April 19.

"I feel our town is dying," he said in announcing his candidacy. "I think I understand what the people's needs are, and this administration is not meeting those needs.

"Money could be spent on proper projects like street repairs, lighting, parks and crime prevention instead of these other things."

Robinson is a graduate of Benton Harbor high school and received a certificate in electronics from Lake Michigan College.

He was employed by Whirlpool corporation for six years but has not worked since March, 1973, because of a kidney ailment that requires dialysis treatments three times a week. His wife, Dora, is a secretary in the Benton Harbor area preschool program.

The Robinsons and their two children live at 1250 Bishop.

BHHS Ranks High With Evaluators

A 23-member team of Michigan educators has completed its on-site evaluation of Benton Harbor high school, and in a preliminary finding, has given the school high grades. The North Central evaluation team of 19 Michigan educators met with high school staff members Thursday afternoon for a final face-to-face discussion. Team Chairman Dr. James Ossian, principal of Big Rapids high school, told the 125 teachers that the high school "has many, many strengths that outweigh minor weaknesses.

"Benton Harbor High school does not enjoy a top reputation throughout the state," he reminded. "Our evaluation, however, found much evidence to the contrary. The halls of Big Rapids high school are more dangerous than your halls have been during the past week."

Among the high school strengths, according to the team, are the students, who, when asked, surprised some of the educators by giving their teachers, counselors and high school administrators consistently good marks.

Other areas of strength included the over-all school curriculum, which offers students at both low and high achievement levels alternative classes to match abilities.

"Before any education can take place, you must learn the basics," said Dr. Ossian. "Your course offerings recognize this, but also take care of students with high capabilities through honors courses." In another area, the North Central team was "most impressed" according to its chairman, by the equipment and special resource materials made possible because of special federal and state grants. Many of the school districts represented on the evaluation team do not qualify for such federal funds, and local board of education budgets cannot generally support such equipment levels.

"You are very fortunate," said Dr. Ossian.

Moving back to single sessions after several years of split shifts has significantly boosted the morale of Benton Harbor high students, the North Central team said. Emphasis on career education, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, and opportunities through the vocational-technical and skill centers for training in several career fields help may students graduate with skills that can be used to gain immediate employment. All this means student morale is high.

The biggest problem over the last several years, educators from both North Central and Benton Harbor high school agree, has been the school's lack of holding power. A high drop-out rate, high absentee rate, and loss of students through repeated family moves all contribute to the problem. These problems offer a challenge that BHHS staff members are anxious to tackle.

"Quite simply, the opportunities are being provided here for a fine education, said Ossian. "To take advantage of it, you must have students here regularly."

The preliminary report will be followed by a final written evaluation. Results of the entire evaluation will be presented to the community whenthe report arrives. The North Central association is a voluntary league of 4,000 secondary schools and 650 colleges and universities in a 19-state region.

The word Ridvan means paradise. For 12 days, April 21-May 2, 1863, Baha'u''lah, the prophet-founder of the Baha'i Faith, camped in a graden in Baghdad which he named the garden of Ridvan. It was there that he publicly proclaimed his mission as God's messenger for this age. At the time of his proclamation, he was an exile in Baghdad, sent from his native country, Persia, because of his teachings.

The teachings of Baha'u''llah, based on the oneness of God, the oneness of religion and the oneness of humanity, caused many to rally around him, and others to attack him. He was imprisoned, tortured and exiled from place to place. His final place of exile was the penal colony of 'Akka in the Holy Land. He was a prisoner until his death in 1892.

Baha'u''lah wrote over 300 volumes which contain teachings for the establishment of world unity and which are studied by Baha'is in over 300 countries and territories. Baha'is believe religion should be a source of unity; that Jesus Christ, Moses, Buddha, Zoraster, Muhammad, Krishna, the Bab and Baha'u''llah were inspired by the same Holy Spirit.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 237. The Lord Will Judge Israel

After Isaiah had sung an allegorical song depicting Israel as a beautiful vineyard which yielded only sour, wild grapes, he went on to warn the people that they were certain to be judged for their sins, especially for their intemperance. He also promised dire consequences.

"Therefore hell hath enlarged herself, and opened her mouth without measure: and their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that rejoiceth, shall descend into it. And the mean man shall be brought down, and the mighty man shall be humbled, and the eyes of the lofty shall be humbled." (Isiah 5:14-15)

The prophet stated that God will be exalted and that part of God's judgment demanded that flocks graze amid the ruins of the once-mighty but fallen nation. "But the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgment, and God, that is holy, shall be sanctified in righteousness. Then shall the lambs feed after their manner, and the waste places of the fat ones shall strangers eat." (Isiah 5:16-17)

Mixes Politics And Family Life

EDITOR'S NOTE: If the Secret Service van parked out front seems a bit much, the 10-year-old taking official phone calls seems less than enough. Both typify Ellen McCormack's run for the presidency: a mixture of politics and family life. She hopes the idea catches on.

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

MERRICK, N.Y. (AP) — Ellen McCormack was running a bit late for her Monday morning appointment with the press. She had a conflicting engagement with her son's fourth grade reading teacher. First things first.

The second interview of the day had to wait while she made 10-year-old John — now home for lunch — a peanut butter sandwich. And John wasn't too happy anyway. His dog, Nimbus, a black Heinz 57 — probably heavily spiced with terrier — had been tied up in the back yard.

"Why is my dog tied up?" he asked the candidate for the presidency of the United States of America, his mother.

She is Mrs. Francis John McCormack, housewife, mother of four, grandmother of two, a Roman Catholic, a former Girl Scout leader and PTA activist, a 1944 graduate of All Saints High School, the wife of a deputy inspector of the New York City Police Department and suddenly a contender for the Democratic nomination for the highest office in the land.

She's called the "Pro-Life Candidate" or the "Antiabortion Candidate" and she's been criticized for being a one-issue candidate and has been called a "tool of the bishops."

She says she doesn't mind the "Pro-Life" tag, but says she does have other positions.

"I don't think the other candidates take my other positions very seriously," she admits.

Her grass-roots campaign, backed by Pro-Life and Right to Life groups across the nation, has qualified her for matching federal funds as well as Secret Service protection around the clock.

Her one-story, stucco and wood home in a modest section of Long Island, is now distinguished by the van in the front that the Secret Service uses as an office.

She initially did not want constant protection. She felt she needed it only when speaking before large crowds. But one of her lessons in practical politics was that the Secret Service does not work that way. If they are assigned to protect a person, it's all-or-nothing.

She also had to bend to the wishes of her supporters and get an unlisted telephone number.

"My daughter, who has the same name as mine, received several obscene telephone calls one day. She was very upset. I told her I was sure the calls were for me," recalls Mrs. McCormack. But that was it. An unlisted telephone was installed the next day.

Mrs. McCormack is a rather tall, friendly woman who does not look her 49 years. Her only lines are the laugh lines around her mouth. She has black hair, with only a hint of gray in front, dark brown eyes, and high cheekbones that announce her Irish ancestry. Besides freckle-faced John, she has three daughters, all in their 20s. The eldest, Kathy, is married and the mother of two children.

Does she really think she can win?

"I know the odds against it," she says. Her ambition is to win 1 per cent in the remaining primaries. She already has secured two delegates, one from Wisconsin and one from Massachusetts.

By her candidacy she "hopes people will get motivated to get back into the political arena."

"I'm running to get people back to doing their jobs. The members of the Supreme Court are basing their judgments on public opinion and sentiment and not the interpretation of the law. Congressmen will no longer face controversial issues. They say what they think people want to hear. They won't be honest with you."

Although Mrs. McCormack does speak on issues other than abortion, her intense anti-abortion feelings come to the front.

On Egypt and Israel: "We arm both sides and then ask them not to shoot each other. I would cut off arms and send in a man who will go to the little people and teach them to live together. I would like to choose an emisary to send to Egypt and Israel. Abortion is a terrible action of violence both against the mother and the baby and our government supports it and our government then wants to go into another country as a peacemaker?"

Mrs. McCormack has received $170,000 in federal funds and has raised $225,000. Under the law, a candidate must raise $5,000 in 20 states with no individual giving more than $250.

She has been criticized for receiving the funds by people who feel she is a cause, not a candidate. Rep. Charles Wiggins, a California Republican, called it a "perversion."

"I don't think it is," she says. "HEW (Health, Education and Welfare) pays $50 million a year for abortions. And most feminist groups are financed by the government. No one questions that."

She admits the federal funding law probably will be changed and agrees that she may be part of the reason for changing it. But she strongly favors such a law, pointing out that it does give people other than leading politicians the chance to run.

And Mrs. McCormack's campaign has none of the top-level politician to it. There is no office and, in trying to reach her, one ends up leaving messages with a 10-year-old child whose mother is a member of the Pro-Life Action Committee.

There are titles among the nine members of the committee, but jobs vary from day to day. There is no speech writer, as such. It's a joint effort.

The large bulk of the money is being spent on television commercials, including a recent five-minute spot.

Mrs. McCormack says the votes she has been receiving in the primaries have not seemed to influence the major candidates' positions on abortion.

"I could not endorse any Democratic candidate," she says flatly.

Mrs. McCormack's books have been audited to prove that she is not, as charged, "a tool of the bishops." She has not asked for and has not received any official support from the Roman Catholic Church.

There have been small contributions from various church groups, but they do not qualify for matching federal funds.

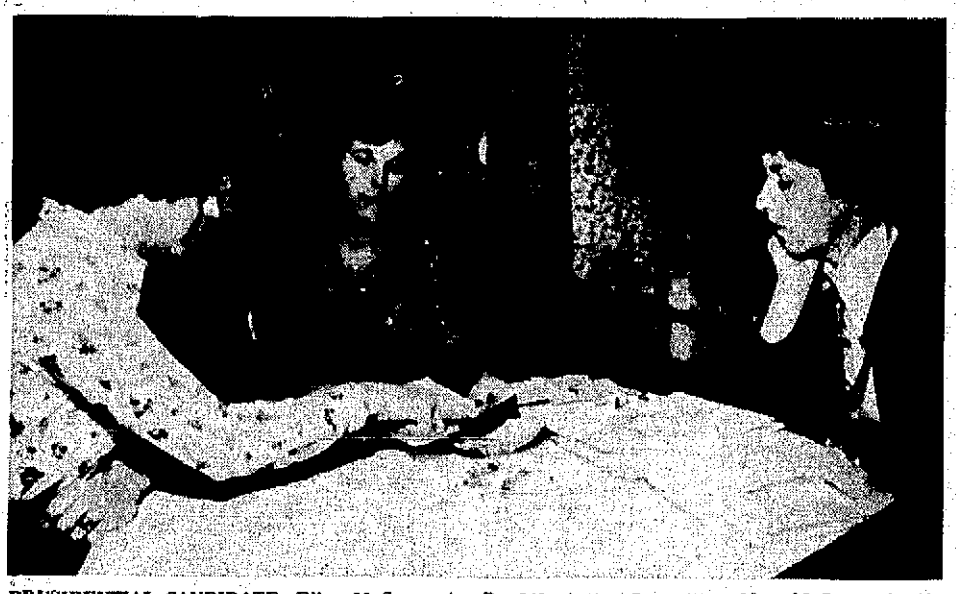

Mrs. McCormack's husband, Jack, supports her. She says his only concern is over her safety.

John and Ellen, the two children still at home, have traveled to some of the primary states with their mother.

"It's been very educational for them," she says.

The reason Mrs. McCormack was visiting her son John's reading teacher was to deal with a problem he is having at school: teasing from his classmates.

The solution was simple. John is now ordered to stop bringing every press clipping he can find about his mother to "Show and Tell."

District Auxilians Meet At Berrien Springs

Challenges MAHA Members

Sandra Bruce, administrator of Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, challenged auxilians to function as a conduit between hospital administration and the community when she spoke for the spring meeting of the Southwest District Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries April 27 at Berrien Springs.

Speaking on "Administrator, Hospitals and Auxilians — Changing Roles in the New Society," Mrs. Bruce said the role and responsibilities of hospitals are changing and broadening and such developments may affect the auxilian-hospital relationship in the future.

She said advances in medical technology and research will continue, if not accelerate, the present trend toward greater specialization and sophistication in medical services.

Yet at the same time, she said, cultural and social changes are creating greater, ever-widening demands for health care, for "cradle to the grave" care for every American, and with every patient having the right to participate in his or her health care as an active partner with distinct and enforceable rights.

The focal point of health care services will shift from the physician's office to the hospital and will enlarge the role and responsibilities of hospitals and all those who are part of its service team.

Mrs. Bruce said the hospitals will be placed "squarely in the middle, having to extend its range of services to meet the new "patient-consumer" demands of its community; while having to constantly improve and update its physical plant, equipment and personnel to accommodate the rapidly-developing advances in technology and medical practice — and having to achieve all of this within the confines of government regulation."

Yet, these developments also make it exciting times for those in the health care field, she said. Never before have there been such opportunities for extending and enriching the quality of health, not just for the wealthy, but for all Americans.

To meet the challenge, the hospital will need to make the community aware of the hospital's needs and to recognize the needs and expectations of the community it serves.

Traditionally, auxiliary groups have functioned as a "voice" for their hospital in expressing to the community the hospital's position and interests.

"Now," she said, "auxilians need to become aware of their potential to be spokesmen to the hospital for the community."

Mrs. Bruce also suggested auxilians be active spokesmen on the hospital's behalf to public officials and governing bodies. It has become important, she said, for hospitals to make known their ideas and interests in the area of governmental control, so as to shape policies which best meet the needs of their patients and institutions.

Elect Mrs. Weirbeky President

Mrs. Adam (Leona) Weirbeky of Grand Junction, a member of the South Haven Community hospital auxiliary is the new president of the Southwest District Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries.

Mrs. Weirbeky and other new officers were elected during the spring meeting held in Berrien Springs April 27 and hosted by the errien General hospital auxiliary.

The meeting was held at the original Berrien County Courthouse in Berrien Springs with lunch served at Trinity Lutheran church, Berrien Springs.

Other new officers are Mrs. Wayne (Deanna) Walterspaugh of Battle Creek, president-elect; Mrs. Robert (Joyce) Miskill of St. Joseph, a member of Mercy hospital auxiliary, Benton Harbor, vice president in charge of programs; Mrs. Andrew (Mae) Titus of Battle Creek, vice president in charge of the newsletter; Mrs. James (Katie) VanVlett of Marshall, vice president in charge of membership; Mrs. John (Joanne) Dean of Coldwater, recording secretary; Mrs. Bernard (Roslyn) Stutz of Borgess hospital auxiliary, Kalamazoo, corresponding secretary; Mrs. V.H. (Florence) Sturgis of Edward W. Sparrow hospital auxiliary, Lansing, treasurer, and Mrs. Theodore R. (Virginia) Stevens of Hastings, counselor.

The district is composed of 34 hospital auxiliaries and 200 auxiliary members attended the meeting.

Speakers for the morning session included Mrs. William (Ellen) Heller, state MAHA president, of Grosse Pointe; Sandra Bruce, administrator of Berrien General hospital, and David E. ohrhardt, museum director, Berrien County Historical commission.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

'Dream Man' A Nightmare

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for all the teens who are planning on getting married this year.

At 16, I married my "dream man." At 18, when my high school friends were receiving their diplomas I was at home, folding diapers for two. Some of my girl friends said they envied me, but little did they know how much I envied THEM. I was too ashamed to admit that my dream man was spending more evenings away from home than with me.

A year later we were fed up with each other. I couldn't take his running around and he couldn't take my nagging.

All you teenagers who think marriage means "romance forever" are kidding yourselves. First, there's the money problem. When we were dating there was always enough for pizza, movies, picnics, whatever we wanted to do. After we married, the bills began to pile up. We didn't know where they came from.

You think a baby will help keep him home. Well, it keeps YOU home, but it pushes HIM out. He'd rather be drinking beer with his buddies. Crying babies make him "nervous."

I wish I had finished high school. I could express my feelings better. I feel half-educated and — Messed Up At 19.

Dear 19: You expressed your feelings quite eloquently, and I thank you. Any high school drop-out who wishes to get a diploma can do it if he (or she) is willing to work at it. Call your high school principal and ask about the alternatives — there are several. And good luck to you, dear.

ANN LANDERS

Resents Step Dad

Dear Ann: My husband and I owned a small farm and worked together to make it go. We made the old equipment do and lived a conservative, quiet life so we could give our children the best of everything.

Six years ago, my husband passed away suddenly. I was 45. Somehow I managed to pull myself together and carry on alone. Two years later I met a wonderful man who made me want to live again. Ralph and I were married.

My 16-year-old son was happy for me. He liked Ralph very much, but the 23-year-old son is another story. He is a college graduate, lives away from home, has a fine job and is debt-free. He has nice friends and a pleasant life, but he can't stand the sight of his stepfather. He did everything under the sun to keep me from marrying.

Now he says I must choose between Ralph and him. He refuses to come to see me unless I assure him that Ralph is out of the house. If there is a family party he will not attend unless I agree in advance to come without Ralph. Sometimes I think I'll go crazy trying to decide what to do. Ralph has been very patient, but how long can he put up with this insolence? I love my son and don't want to lose him. Will you please tell me what to do? — Torn

Dear Torn: Your son is already lost. Moreover, he is a selfish, punitive young man who could use some professional help.

Tell him you're sorry he feels so strongly about Ralph, but you will not ask your husband to leave the house, nor will you exclude him from family affairs. Let your son know the door will always be open, but since he insists that you make a choice, you must choose your husband.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Exciting information is filtering through scientific papers to the newspapers about a vaccine against syphilis.

The studies are exciting and indicate the dedication of scientists who modestly continue their efforts to solve this and other important health problems.

There is also some evidence of the relationship of some type of virus to diabetes.

Research workers are exploring the possibility that people with a genetic (inherited) predisposition to diabetes may be adversely affected by a special virus and thus become diabetic. Is there a vaccine on the horizon?

Physicians in the active practice of medicine are constantly impressed by the inordinate amount of research that is in a state of activity, all over the world, hoping to break through barriers that blockade our greater understanding of disease.

Sometimes even a minute contribution of a scientist can add immeasurably to the clarification of a complex problem.

Fluoride, so significant in reducing decay in teeth, has been found to have advantages in the control of other medical problems.

"Osteoporosis" is a condition in which there is softening of the bone and absorption of calcium. Women past menopause sometimes develop this condition.

Dr. George P. Vose, of the Texas Women's University in Denton, has been using fluoride to halt the loss of calcium and the softening of bones.

His study, based on the use of fluoride in conjunction with calcium and vitamin D, showed distinct values in controlling osteoporosis.

The value of fluoride in other bone problems will undoubtedly come to light based on these excellent preliminary studies.

Osteosarcoma is a dangerous cancer of the bone for which little or no treatment was previously effective. Today, chemotherapy, or the use of anti-cancer drugs, has brought greater hope to children afflicted with this catastrophic condition.

Dr. Hugh G. Watts, of the Harvoard Medical School, has been using high does of special chemicals, with dramatic results.

Cases that previously might have been considered hopeless have responded dramatically to the treatment.

Opening lead — K ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Take a quick look at the North-South cards. You really worry that you have missed a grand slam.

You take your ace of spades at trick one and start to pull trumps. East shows out on the second lead and at this point in time it behooves you to stop and count sure winners. You still can come to 13 if both minor suits break 3-3, but with hearts breaking 4-1 there is a good chance that neither minor suit will break and that you will only score 11 tricks. Can you do anything about this?

Yes, you can. If one player holds the long cards in both minor suits you can develop a squeeze against him provided you give up a trick to rectify the count.

Therefore, you should lead your low spade at trick four. West wins and leads back a trump. You win, cash your last trump and poor East is stone-cold dead. He is down to diamonds and clubs and must unguard one of his jacks.

Ask the Jacobys

An Iowa reader wants to know what she should open with:

♠ A K x ♥ A K x ♦ J x x ♣ J x x.

There are only 12 cards shown so we are going to add another small card to any one of the three card suits. This leaves her with a perfect 16 point one-notrump opening.

Twin city Baha'is and their guests will meet for dinner and a program Sunday, May 2, at 7 p.m. at the home of Edward Filstrup, 2829 Lakeshore drive, St. Joseph, to honor the Baha'i Festival of Ridvan.

The word Ridvan means paradise. For 12 days, April 21-May 2, 1863, Baha'u'llah, the prophet-founder of the Baha'i Faith, camped in a graden in Baghdad which he named the garden of Ridvan. It was there that he publicly proclaimed his mission as God's messenger for this age. At the time of his proclamation, he was an exile in Baghdad, sent from his native country, Persia, because of his teachings.

The teachings of Baha'u'llah, based on the oneness of God, the oneness of religion and the oneness of humanity, caused many to rally around him, and others to attack him. He was imprisoned, tortured and exiled from place to place. His final place of exile was the penal colony of 'Akka in the Holy Land. He was a prisoner until his death in 1892.

Baha'u'llah wrote over 300 volumes which contain teachings for the establishment of world unity and which are studied by Baha'is in over 300 countries and territories. Baha'is believe religion should be a source of unity; that Jesus Christ, Moses, Buddha, Zoraster, Muhammad, Krishna, the Bab and Baha'u'llah were inspired by the same Holy Spirit.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 237. The Lord Will Judge Israel

After Isaiah had sung an allegorical song depicting Israel as a beautiful vineyard which yielded only sour, wild grapes, he went on to warn the people that they were certain to be judged for their sins, especially for their intemperance. He also promised dire consequences.

"Therefore hell hath enlarged herself, and opened her mouth without measure: and their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that rejoiceth, shall descend into it. And the mean man shall be brought down, and the mighty man shall be humbled, and the eyes of the lofty shall be humbled." (Isiah 5:14-15)

The prophet stated that God will be exalted and that part of God's judgment demanded that flocks graze amid the ruins of the once-mighty but fallen nation. "But the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgment, and God, that is holy, shall be sanctified in righteousness. Then shall the lambs feed after their manner, and the waste places of the fat ones shall strangers eat." (Isiah 5:16-17)

Hughes Will Settlement Faces Long Battle

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former Howard Hughes aide Noah Dietrich has begun legal proceedings on the purported Hughes' will, but an attorney for Dietrich says "I imagine we will all be long dead when the estate of Howard Robard Hughes is finally settled."

"It may take generations," added Harold Rhoden, as he filed a probate petition in Nevada state court Friday on behalf of Dietrich.

Dietrich, 87, a former Hughes confidant, was named as executor for the eccentric billionaire's empire in the scrawled set of instructions delivered here Thursday by Mormon officials.

Meanwhile, Henry Silver, a Los Angeles handwriting expert familiar with Hughes' penmanship, examined on Friday the three-page faded document discovered Tuesday in Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City. He said he was "positive beyond doubt" that it was authentic.

Silver, who served as a handwriting analyst in three court matters relating to Hughes, also said a handwritten manuscript, which Clark County officials described as a novel, was written by Hughes.

Holding pages from the manuscript in one hand and the will in the other, Silver said, "There is no question they were written by the same man, Howard Robard Hughes."

The Associated Press obtained three of the manuscript sheets, which, like the mysterious will, contained numerous spelling errors.

Incoherent and rambling in many parts, the manuscript relates the story of a hard-working man who had difficulty dealing with women, money and life in general.

It was also disclosed Friday that former Texas Gov. John Connally had visited the 25th floor of Moromon Headquarters in Salt Lake City on Tuesday, just three hours before the mysterious Hughes document appeared on a desk on the same floor.

Connally, a director of a Texas bank that had been searching for a will to the Hughes estate, could not be reached for comment. Mormon officlas said, "We still have no reason to believe there's any connection between his visit and the finding of the document."

'Heir' Ducks Newsmen After Suffering 'Collapse'

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

WILLARD, Utah (AP) — Melvin Dummar, former miner, milkman, quiz-show contestant and possible heir to part of Howard Hughes' fortune, has a penchant for picking up hitchhikers. His father says that "is the best job he ever done."

Dummar went into hiding Friday to escape a barrage of inquiries from reporters about his acquaintance with the late recluse, who according to an unverified will left him a fortune.

The 31-year-old Dummar, who says a hitchhiker he once picked up claimed to be Hughes, was scheduled to hold a news conference Friday. But it was cancelled because Dummar was reported heavily sedated and under a doctor's care for a nervous condition.

Ron Brown, a cousin appointed by the family to serve as spokesman, said Dummar would hold the news conference today.

Dummar's father, Arnold, said his son suffered "an emotional collapse" after learning that he was named in Hughes purported will as beneficiary of one-sixteenth of the billionaire's estate.

Estimates place the value of Hughes' estate as high as $2.5 billion. One-sixteenth of that, before taxes, would be more than $150 million.

"He's a good-hearted boy, but very emotional," the elder Dummar said of his son, who operates a gas station in this community of 1,045 about 50 miles north of Salt Lake City.

Dummar said his son sometimes cries while watching television. He also said he makes it a habit never to turn down a hitchhiker's request for a ride.

"He's a go-getter, a real hustler," the father said, "... picking up a hitchhiker was the best job he ever done."

Board Action Proves Charges False--Ralls

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Public Service Commissioner William Ralls said action Friday by the state Board of Ethics demonstrates allegations he was involved in influence peddling are false.

The Ethics Board refused to consider any charges against Ralls, saying no formal complaint had been filed nor has an advisory opinion been requested.

TXHE ALLEGATIONS AGAINST Ralls charged he asked Alpena Power Co. President Stephen Fletcher to lobby against proposed PSC rules which would bar commissioners from holding public office for a year after leaving the PSC.

Ralls is considered politically ambitious, and the proposal failed to get PSC support. But Fletcher told a state lawmaker of the phone call, and the lawmaker revealed it to a special House committee investigating PSC procedures.

Neither Fletcher nor anyone else made an official complaint to the ethics board.

Overtime Pay Begins

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Starting today, Michigan workers will be eligible for overtime payments of one-and-one-half times their regular pay for any time they put in over 44 hours a week.

State labor director Keith Molin said the new system is another step in a law which will ultimately provide overtime for anything more than 40 hours worked a week. That will take effect May 1, 1977.

The law applies to workers between the ages of 18 and 65 who work for employers of four or more people. They must be paid the minimum wage of $2.20 per hour, he said, while overtime is based on the hourly minimum wage or the regular rate of pay, whichever is greater.

The overtime provision of the law exempts certain executive, administrative and professional employes, farm laborers and certain seasonal recreation establishments.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

'Dream Man' A Nightmare

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for all the teens who are planning on getting married this year.

At 16, I married my "dream man." At 18, when my high school friends were receiving their diplomas I was at home, folding diapers for two. Some of my girl friends said they envied me, but little did they know how much I envied THEM. I was too ashamed to admit that my dream man was spending more evenings away from home than with me.

A year later we were fed up with each other. I couldn't take his running around and he couldn't take my nagging.

All you teenagers who think marriage means "romance forever" are kidding yourselves. First, there's the money problem. When we were dating there was always enough for pizza, movies, picnics, whatever we wanted to do. After we married, the bills began to pile up. We didn't know where they came from.

You think a baby will help keep him home. Well, it keeps YOU home, but it pushes HIM out. He'd rather be drinking beer with his buddies. Crying babies make him "nervous."

I wish I had finished high school. I could express my feelings better. I feel half-educated and — Messed Up At 19.

Dear 19: You expressed your feelings quite eloquently, and I thank you. Any high school drop-out who wishes to get a diploma can do it if he (or she) is willing to work at it. Call your high school principal and ask about the alternatives — there are several. And good luck to you, dear.

ANN LANDERS

Resents Step Dad

Dear Ann: My husband and I owned a small farm and worked together to make it go. We made the old equipment do and lived a conservative, quiet life so we could give our children the best of everything.

Six years ago, my husband passed away suddenly. I was 45. Somehow I managed to pull myself together and carry on alone. Two years later I met a wonderful man who made me want to live again. Ralph and I were married.

My 16-year-old son was happy for me. He liked Ralph very much, but the 21-year-old son is another story. He is a college graduate, lives away from home, has a fine job and is debt-free. He has nice friends and a pleasant life, but he can't stand the sight of his stepfather. He did everything under the sun to keep me from marrying.

Now he says I must choose between Ralph and him. He refuses to come to see me unless I assure him that Ralph is out of the house. If there is a family party he will not attend unless I agree in advance to come without Ralph. Sometimes I think I'll go crazy trying to decide what to do. Ralph has been very patient, but how long can he put up with this insolence? I love my son and don't want to lose him. Will you please tell me what to do? — Torn

Dear Torn: Your son is already lost. Moreover, he is a selfish, punitive young man who could use some professional help.

Tell him you're sorry he feels so strongly about Ralph, but you will not ask your husband to leave the house, nor will you exclude him from family affairs. Let your son know the door will always be open, but since he insists that you make a choice, you must choose your husband.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Exciting information is filtering through scientific papers to the newspapers about a vaccine against syphilis.

The studies are exciting and indicate the dedication of scientists who modestly continue their efforts to solve this and other important health problems.

There is also some evidence of the relationship of some type of virus to diabetes.

Research workers are exploring the possibility that people with a genetic (inherited) predisposition to diabetes may be adversely affected by a special virus and thus become diabetic. Is there a vaccine on the horizon?

Physicians in the active practice of medicine are constantly impressed by the inordinate amount of research that is in a state of activity, all over the world, hoping to break through barriers that blockade our greater understanding of disease.

Sometimes even a minute contribution of a scientist can add immeasurably to the clarification of a complex problem.

Fluoride, so significant in reducing decay in teeth, has been found to have advantages in the control of other medical problems.

"Osteoporosis" is a condition in which there is softening of the bone and absorption of calcium. Women past menopause sometimes develop this condition.

Dr. George P. Vose, of the Texas Women's University in Denton, has been using fluoride to halt the loss of calcium and the softening of bones.

His study, based on the use of fluoride in conjunction with calcium and vitamin D, showed distinct values in controlling osteoporosis.

The value of fluoride in other bone problems will undoubtedly come to light based on these excellent preliminary studies.

Osteosarcoma is a dangerous cancer of the bone for which little or no treatment was previously effective. Today, chemotherapy, or the use of anti-cancer drugs, has brought greater hope to children afflicted with this catastrophic condition.

Dr. Hugh G. Watts, of the Harvard Medical School, has been using high does of special chemicals, with dramatic results.

Cases that previously might have been considered hopeless have responded dramatically to the treatment.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Take a quick look at the North-South cards. You really worry that you have missed a grand slam.

You take your ace of spades at trick one and start to pull trumps. East shows out on the second lead and at this point in time it behooves you to stop and count sure winners. You still can come to 13 if both minor suits break 3-3, but with hearts breaking 4-1 there is a good chance that neither minor suit will break and that you will only score 11 tricks. Can you do anything about this?

Yes, you can. If one player holds the long cards in both minor suits you can develop a squeeze against him provided you give up a trick to rectify the count.

Therefore, you should lead your low spade at trick four. West wins and leads back a trump. You win, cash your last trump and poor East is stone-cold dead. He is down to diamonds and clubs and must unguard one of his jacks.

Ford Backs Off Victory Forecast In Texas

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — President Ford appeared to have backed off from predictions of victory and challenger Ronald Reagan predicted a close contest as Texas held its first presidential primary election today.

Among the Democratic presidential candidates, meanwhile, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington reportedly will announce an end to his active campaign and leave the field to two major candidates, Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Morris Udall of Arizona.

Sources said Jackson will announce today at a press conference in Seattle "not an absolute withdrawal," but a new status — he is available for the Democratic presidential nomination if the party asks him, but his major goal is re-election to the Senate.

Jackson won two primaries — Massachusetts and New York — but his chances for the nomination seemed bady hurt when he lost decisively to Carter in Pennsylvania's primary contest last Tuesday.

Another problem facing Jackson was money. The loss in Pennsylvania damaged his fund-raising capability. Udall and Carter each put a claim on Jackson supporters.

Neither Jackson nor Udall entered the Texas primary. Carter's main opponents in the Lone Star state are Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who is running as a favorite son presidential candidate and is also on the senatorial ballot, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Texans may vote in either party's primary. Reagan has repeatedly asked Democrats to cross party lines and give him support.

Ford has said several times — and he repeated Friday — that he expects to win today. At least twice, in Dallas, he said "We will win on Saturday."

But in Lubbock on Friday, when told his prediction was being quoted, Ford asked, "How did you come to that conclusion?

"I haven't gone quite that far," said Ford, "but I have said that we were an underdog ... I think we have narrowed the gap and I think we have an excellent opportunity to win and we are going to try, very, very hard to do so."

Reagan has promised that he would run well in the South and West, and a Ford victory could disprove that claim.

But on Friday Reagan said, "If it is a very close contest with an even sharing of delegates it could hardly be called a loss for anyone."

Farm Index Sends Food Prices Up

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in the farm price index is being translated into higher meat prices at the nation's grocery stores.

Higher prices for cattle and hogs helped boost the government's farm price index 2 per cent last month, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The farm prices of meat animals rose 2 per cent from March 15 to April 15. On the average, that put livestock prices about 18 per cent above what they were a year ago.

Department experts had been predicting for some time that livestock prices, particularly for beef cattle, would rise this spring from their winter slump, which had meant somewhat lower meat prices for consumers.

Now, with cattle prices up substantially from a month or two ago, retail meat prices also are climbing.

Officials said some of the cattle price increase might be absorbed by middlemen who process and sell meat, instead of by the consumer, but that it was difficult to tell how much at this time.

Preliminary figures for the week that ended on April 17 showed that the retail price of beef, on an all-cut basis, was about $1.39 a pound. For the entire month of April the average was less than $1.37 a pound, up from March when beef was about $1.35 a pound.

Retail beef prices were a record of $1.61 a pound last July and had declined for eight consecutive months before rising in April.

Part of the reason for the hike in beef prices is that fewer animals are going to market. Another factor over the next few months may be the recent rains in parts of the southern plains where it had appeared that prolonged drought might force more cattle from pasture to slaughter.

Turk Skyjacker Gives Up In Paris; Passengers Safe

PARIS (AP) — A Turkish worker armed with a switchblade knife surrendered a jumbo jet early today after hijacking it in an effort to avoid expulsion from France. He released the plane's 253 passengers unharmed, officials said.

Officials said the man took over a Turkish airlines DC10 jet Friday evening after it left here on a flight to Istanbul. The man threatened the crew and ordered the plane to Marseille, where landing permission was denied.

Officials said airport lights at Marseille were turned off to prevent the plane from landing without permission.

The jet then returned to Orly Airport outside Paris after 2½ hours in the air. It was surrounded by police at the end of a runway. Almost three hours later, the man surrendered to police and the passengers were released.

The plane and its passengers were expected to leave for Istanbul later today.

The French Interior Ministry identified the hijacker as Zeti Hejsder, 30. He had been identified by the ministry and the Turkish Embassy variously as Zeki Egder and Zeki Ejder. The Interor Ministry said he was a native of Sarikamis, Turkey.

The ministry said the man had entered France illegally at the end of 1974 and had become known as a troublemaker. He was convicted of making death threats against fellow Turkish citizens and received a suspended prison sentence, the ministry said.

Officials said the man was put on the plane on the orders of a French official who on April 15 ordered him expelled from France.

Jean Vaudeville, prefect (governor) of the Val de Marne department where Orly Airport is located, said the hijacker ordered the pilot to return to Orly because he wanted to stay in France.

"He is a man whose statements show a mental instability," Vaudeville said at an early morning news conference.

The hijacker surrendered and released the passengers after Kamiran Tuzel, charge d'affaires at the Turkish Embassy, went aboard the plane and talked to him for about 20 minutes.

PCB Replacement

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Dow Corning Corp. is planning to market an alternative to compounds known as PCBs, which are widely used in electrical transformers and considered environmentally dangerous. Company officials revealed this week the new product, called a silicon-transformer liquid, would be sold in a special marketing plan designed to show if the product can fully replace polychlorinated biphenyls. Dow, the sole U.S. producer of PCBs, said it plans to stop making the chemical as soon as an adequate replacement is found. The firm also said its new product is the first commercial offering of an environmentally safe alternative to PCBs.

Solar, Wind Energy Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has unanimously defeated a three-bill tax incentive package designed to encourage the development and use of solar and wind energy. The House action this week came on compromise versions hammered out by a joint House-Senate conference committee after each chamber passed the bills in different forms. The bills now go to a second conference committee. Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, sponsor, asked for the House rejection. He said that, as written, the package was not specific enough and might give utilities like Consumers Power Co. property tax relief for their water-driven generating turbines.

'Heir' Ducks Newsmen After Suffering 'Collapse'

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

WILLARD, Utah (AP) — Melvin Dummar, former miner, milkman, quiz-show contestant and possible heir to part of Howard Hughes' fortune, has a penchant for picking up hitchhikers. His father says that "is the best job he ever done."

Dummar went into hiding Friday to escape a barrage of inquiries from reporters about his acquaintance with the late recluse, who according to an unverified will left him a fortune.

The 31-year-old Dummar, who says a hitchhiker he once picked up claimed to be Hughes, was scheduled to hold a news conference Friday. But it was cancelled because Dummar was reported heavily sedated and under a doctor's care for a nervous condition.

Ron Brown, a cousin appointed by the family to serve as spokesman, said Dummar would hold the news conference today.

Dummar's father, Arnold, said his son suffered "an emotional collapse" after learning that he was named in Hughes purported will as beneficiary of one-sixteenth of the billionaire's estate.

Estimates place the value of Hughes' estate as high as $2.5 billion. One-sixteenth of that, before taxes, would be more than $150 million.

"He's a good-hearted boy, but very emotional," the elder Dummar said of his son, who operates a gas station in this community of 1,045 about 50 miles north of Salt Lake City.

Dummar said his son sometimes cries while watching television. He also said he makes it a habit never to turn down a hitchhiker's request for a ride.

"He's a go-getter, a real hustler," the father said, "... picking up a hitchhiker was the best job he ever done."

Overtime Pay Begins

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Starting today, Michigan workers will be eligible for overtime payments of one-and-one-half times their regular pay for any time they put in over 44 hours a week.

State labor director Keith Molin said the new system is another step in a law which will ultimately provide overtime for anything more than 40 hours worked a week. That will take effect May 1, 1977.

The law applies to workers between the ages of 18 and 65 who work for employers of four or more people. They must be paid the minimum wage of $2.20 per hour, he said, while overtime is based on the hourly minimum wage or the regular rate of pay, whichever is greater.

The overtime provision of the law exempts certain executive, administrative and professional employes, farm laborers and certain seasonal recreation establishments.

Hughes Will Settlement Faces Long Battle

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former Howard Hughes aide Noah Dietrich has begun legal proceedings on the purported Hughes' will, but an attorney for Dietrich says "I imagine we will all be long dead when the estate of Howard Robard Hughes is finally settled."

"It may take generations," added Harold Rhoden, as he filed a probate petition in Nevada state court Friday on behalf of Dietrich.

Dietrich, 87, a former Hughes confidant, was named as executor for the eccentric billionnaire's empire in the scrawled set of instructions delivered here Thursday by Mormon officials.

Meanwhile, Henry Silver, a Los Angeles handwriting expert familiar with Hughes' penmanship, examined on Friday the three-page faded document discovered Tuesday in Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City. He said he was "positive beyond doubt" that it was authentic.

Silver, who served as a handwriting analyst in three court matters relating to Hughes, also said a handwritten manuscript, which Clark County officials described as a novel, was written by Hughes.

Holding pages from the manuscript in one hand and the will in the other, Silver said, "There is no question they were written by the same man, Howard Robard Hughes."

The Associated Press obtained three of the manuscript sheets, which, like the mysterious will, contained numerous spelling errors.

Incoherent and rambling in many parts, the manuscript relates the story of a hard-working man who had difficulty dealing with women, money and life in general.

It was also disclosed Friday that former Texas Gov. John Connally had visited the 25th floor of Mormon Headquarters in Salt Lake City on Tuesday, just three hours before the mysterious Hughes document appeared on a desk on the same floor.

Connally, a director of a Texas bank that had been searching for a will to the Hughes estate, could not be reached for comment. Mormon officials said, "We still have no reason to believe there's any connection between his visit and the finding of the document."

Board Action Proves Charges False--Ralls

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Public Service Commissioner William Ralls said action Friday by the state Board of Ethics demonstrates allegations he was involved in influence peddling are false.

The Ethics Board refused to consider any charges against Ralls, saying no formal complaint had been filed nor has an advisory opinion been requested.

THE ALLEGATIONS AGAINST Ralls charged he asked Alpena Power Co. President Stephen Fletcher to lobby against proposed PSC rules which would bar commissioners from holding public office for a year after leaving the PSC.

Ralls is considered politically ambitious, and the proposal failed to get PSC support. But Fletcher told a state lawmaker of the phone call, and the lawmaker revealed it to a special House committee investigating PSC procedures.

Neither Fletcher nor anyone else made an official complaint to the ethics board.

French Official: Sunshine Will Heal U.S. Wounds

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Mme. Francoise Giroud, highest ranking woman in the French government, told a University of Michigan commencement today America's wounds "will heal because you treat them in the sunshine of truth."

France's first Secretary of State on the Condition of Women made her remarks in a speech prepared for delivery to the 6,000 graduating students.

Mme. Giroud paid tribute to the United States' role in two World Wars but cautioned that not all Frenchmen still regard Americans with the exhiliration of the liberation.

"The French people of my generation will keep that mark forever and vow you an eternal gratefulness. But for their children and especially for their grandchildren, it is history. It is not their story," she said.

"Those whom we called our liberators, they call them imperialists," she said.

She recalled that while America has many friends in France, "Those who did not like you, encouraged by Communist propaganda, started to accuse you of wanting to dominate the world, to colonize our economy...those who loved you, and they were the majority, kept saying: 'The United States can not help being imperialists.

Mme. Giroud said that French students who had the opportunity to go to study in U.S. schools "came back puzzled, for America was not at all what their fellow students in France had told them.

"I have always believed that if it were possible to send all Europeans to visit the United States and to pay them also a trip to the Soviet Union, there would be no Communists in our country."

She said the French people had "seen with sadness and anguish the infectious faith of John Kennedy in the grandiose mission of your country gradually crushed and engulfed in the jungles of Vietnam."

Referring to the widespread publicity about Watergate, she said:

"Today, certain people are flabbergasted to see you proceed with this story of great washing, this public display of your sores, this unceasing autocritic. They have never seen such things done at home. "They stare at you, as if the United States had become some sort of blind giant intent on mutilating himself. And they are afraid, first of all because what happens in your country sends shock waves the world over." "This faculty you have of exhibiting your sores instead of hiding them is, in my opinion, the very sign that you are on the way to recovery." "It is this strength that the West needs, as vitally as oil, and it is this strength that is missing in the Soviet Union, just as much as wheat," she said.

Honorary degres were presented to Mme. Giroud; historian Daniel J. Boorstin, the new Librarian of Congress, and research physicist Isabella Karle.

Parcel Firm Hit By Strike

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Teamsters struck the United Parcel Service at midnight in 13 Midwest and Rocky Mountain states after negotiations between the company and the union were halted.

Members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters began setting up picket lines as soon as the deadline passed.

In anticipation of a strike, UPS had suspended pickups Friday afternoon in affected areas "to make sure we have the smallest amount of packages in the system," a company spokesman said.

Negotiations are scheduled to resume Tuesday on the multistate contract, which affects some 14,000 UPS drivers, loaders and sorters in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

UPS is a national pickup and delivery service that handles some four million packages daily.

Negotiations continued on a separate contract for some 3,000 teamsters in Illinois and Indiana, but those employes were to continue working under a contract extension, a union spokesman said.

The unsettled issues blocking final agreement in talks affecting the 13 states reportedly involve health and welfare benefits and pension.

Kissinger Hints Aid For Africa

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger heads for Senegal today after offering recognition and the possibility of economic aid to the new Marxist government of Angola if it expels all Cuban troops.

Kissinger also promised $200 million in U.S. aid to black Africa in general, and said he would have more to offer next week at the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development in Nairobi.

The secretary labeled as "totally irresponsible" any suggestion that American support for a black government in Rhodesia would lead to a massacre of the white minority which now rules the country.

Kissinger said he was trying to provide a platform for negotiations between the black liberationists and the white government. "It is the only hope of avoiding a massacre," he said.

Spiro Sheds Silence To Plug His Novel

By JOHN WOODFIELD
Associated Press Writer

CROFTON, Md. (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew has broken a self-imposed silence of almost two years with a whirlwind round of taped television talk shows and interviews to promote the publication of his novel.

During a recent two-hour interview with The Associated Press, the former vice president covered a multitude of topics, most dealing with the writing of his novel, but always delicately steering the conversation away from his years in the Nixon administration.

Agnew's novel is entitled "The Canfield Decision," and is published by Playboy Press. It portrays a ruthlessly ambitious vice president bent on succeeding his lame duck chief executive, and the chain of events leading to a violent and unexpected ending.

Relaxing in his Crofton office of Pathlite, the international business firm he founded soon after his resignation, Agnew recalled those first few weeks out of office and how he decided to write.

"It's sort of a restoration of self confidence that's badly shaken when you flop to the bottom from the top. And maybe in that respect, it was therapeutic for me.

Agnew resigned after pleading no contest to an income tax evasion charge stemming from a grand jury investigation of kickback schemes in Maryland.

He said he wrote a novel instead of his memoirs in part because "I was too bitter." He added, "I'm hoping I can get started on (the memoirs) late this year. It will take at least two years."

How does he feel about the new Woodward and Bernstein book on Nixon's final days in office?

"I won't read it. I think it's a piece of garbage. I've read the excerpts, but honestly, I think it's a commercial exploitation. It's written as fact....

"They called me. They wanted to interview me and I refused. And for the same reasons I'm refusing to answer other questions.

"Very candidly, I want to present my story as an entity and also I want to make money out of it, and why should I give it away for somebody else to exploit?"

Agnew said some of his novel's minor characters were, in fact, drawn from real life, such as a muckraking newspaper columnist named "Andy Jackerson." But he insisted that the principal characters were the synthesis of many personalities.

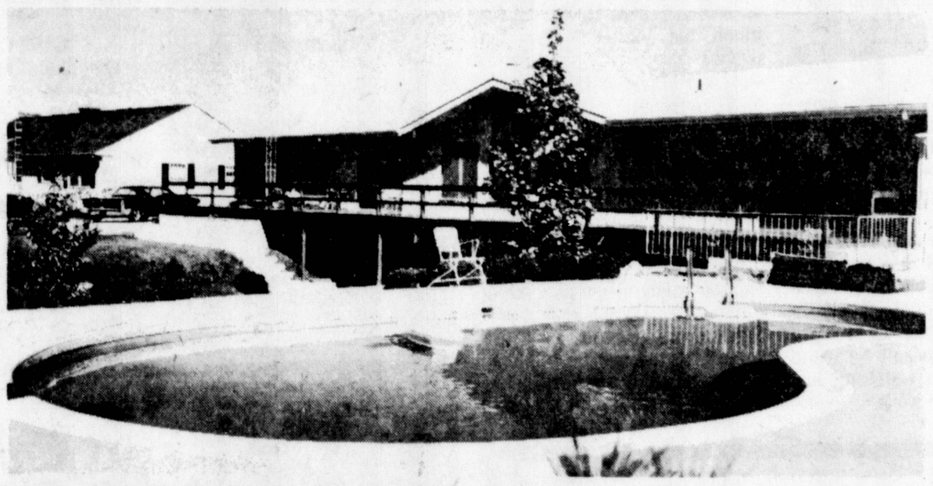

One theme in the novel is the concept that a loosely knit organization exists within the national media to act on occasion in their general interest.

Turk Skyjacker Gives Up In Paris; Passengers Safe

PARIS (AP) — A Turkish worker armed with a switchblade knife surrendered a jumbo jet early today after hijacking it in an effort to avoid expulsion from France. He released the plane's 253 passengers unharmed, officials said.

Officials said the man took over a Turkish airlines DC10 jet Friday evening after it left here on a flight to Istanbul. The man threatened the crew and ordered the plane to Marseille, where landing permission was denied.

Officials said airport lights at Marseille were turned off to prevent the plane from landing without permission.

The jet then returned to Orly Airport outside Paris after 2½ hours in the air. It was surrounded by police at the end of a runway. Almost three hours later, the man surrendered to police and the passengers were released.

The plane and its passengers were expected to leave for Istanbul later today.

The French Interior Ministry identified the hijacker as Zeti Hejsder, 30. He had been identified by the ministry and the Turkish Embassy variously as Zeki Egder and Zeki Ejder. The Interor Ministry said he was a native of Sarikamis, Turkey.

The ministry said the man had entered France illegally at the end of 1974 and had become known as a troublemaker. He was convicted of making death threats against fellow Turkish citizens and received a suspended prison sentence, the ministry said.

Officials said the man was put on the plane on the orders of a French official who on April 15 ordered him expelled from France.

Jean Vaudeville, prefect (governor) of the Val de Marne department where Orly Airport is located, said the hijacker ordered the pilot to return to Orly because he wanted to stay in France.

"He is a man whose statements show a mental instability," Vaudeville said at an early morning news conference.

The hijacker surrendered and released the passengers after Kamiran Tozel, charge' d'affaires at the Turkish Embassy, went aboard the plane and talked to him for about 20 minutes.

PCB Replacement

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Dow Corning Corp. is planning to market an alternative to compounds known as PCBs, which are widely used in electrical transformers and considered environmentally dangerous. Company officials revealed this week the new product, called a silicon-transformer liquid, would be sold in a special marketing plan designed to show if the product can fully replace polychlorinated biphenyls. Dow, the sole U.S. producer of PCBs, said it plans to stop making the chemical as soon as an adequate replacement is found. The firm also said its new product is the first commercial offering of an environmentally safe alternative to PCBs.

Solar, Wind Energy Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has unanimously defeated a three-bill tax incentive package designed to encourage the development and use of solar and wind energy. The House action this week came on compromise versions hammered out by a joint House-Senate conference committee after each chamber passed the bills in different forms. The bills now go to a second conference committee. Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, sponsor, asked for the House rejection. He said that, as written, the package was not specific enough and might give utilities like Consumers Power Co. property tax relief for their water-driven generating turbines.

Ford Backs Off Victory Forecast In Texas

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — President Ford appeared to have backed off from predictions of victory and challenger Ronald Reagan predicted a close contest as Texas held its first presidential primary election today.

Among the Democratic presidential candidates, meanwhile, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington reportedly will announce an end to his active campaign and leave the field to two major candidates, Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Morris Udall of Arizona.

Sources said Jackson will announce today at a press conference in Seattle "not an absolute withdrawal," but a new status — he is available for the Democratic presidential nomination if the party asks him, but his major goal is re-election to the Senate.

Jackson won two primaries — Massachusetts and New York — but his chances for the nomination seemed badly hurt when he lost decisively to Carter in Pennsylvania's primary contest last Tuesday.

Another problem facing Jackson was money. The loss in Pennsylvania damaged his fund-raising capability. Udall and Carter each put a claim on Jackson supporters.

Neither Jackson nor Udall entered the Texas primary. Carter's main opponents in the Lone Star state are Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who is running as a favorite son presidential candidate and is also on the senatorial ballot, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Texans may vote in either party's primary. Reagan has repeatedly asked Democrats to cross party lines and give him support.

Ford has said several times — and he repeated Friday — that he expects to win today. At least twice, in Dallas, he said "We will win on Saturday."

But in Lubbock on Friday, when told his prediction was being quoted, Ford asked, "How did you come to that conclusion?"

"I haven't gone quite that far," said Ford, "but I have said that we were an underdog ... I think we have narrowed the gap and I think we have an excellent opportunity to win and we are going to try, very, very hard to do so."

Reagan has promised that he would run well in the South and West, and a Ford victory could disprove that claim.

But on Friday Reagan said, "If it is a very close contest with an even sharing of delegates it could hardly be called a loss for anyone."

Farm Index Sends Food Prices Up

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in the farm price index is being translated into higher meat prices at the nation's grocery stores.

Higher prices for cattle and hogs helped boost the government's farm price index 2 per cent last month, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The farm prices of meat animals rose 2 per cent from March 15 to April 15. On the average, that put livestock prices about 19 per cent above what they were a year ago.

Department experts had been predicting for some time that livestock prices, particularly for beef cattle, would rise this spring from their winter slump, which had meant somewhat lower meat prices for consumers.

Now, with cattle prices up substantially from a month or two ago, retail meat prices also are climbing.

Officials said some of the cattle price increase might be absorbed by middlemen who process and sell meat, instead of by the consumer, but that it was difficult to tell how much at this time.

Preliminary figures for the week that ended on April 17 showed that the retail price of beef, on an all-cut basis, was about $1.39 a pound. For the entire month of April the average was less than $1.37 a pound, up from March when beef was about $1.35 a pound.

Retail beef prices were a record of $1.61 a pound last July and had declined for eight consecutive months before rising in April.

Part of the reason for the hike in beef prices is that fewer animals are going to market. Another factor over the next few months may be the recent rains in parts of the southern plains where it had appeared that prolonged drought might force more cattle from pasture to slaughter.

HOME BUILDING & OTHER CONSTRUCTION NEWS

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — Articles about using caulking compound always talk about buying it in cartridges, but when I watched a workman doing his job on a new house recently, he used it from a large can. Isn't it cheaper that way than buying a cartridge and then inserting it one of those caulking guns?

A. — Yes. Unless you are doing a tremendous amount of caulking, however, you seldom have need for a compound in large amounts. Besides, applying the compound from a can and using a putty knife or similar tool to press it into openings require a certain amount of skill. Using a cartridge is a lot easier and less messy. A gun is inexpensive and lasts indefinitely.

Q. — I saw one of those shadow boxes around the frame of a window in a house I visited a couple of years ago and promised myself that some day I would make one. The people I visited have since moved, so I can't ask them how they made it. Should some special kind of wood be used and how are the curves cut out?

A. — You can use any kind of material you want for the box, including lumber, plywood, hardboard, fiberboard, etc. While the curves can be cut with an ordinary saw, it would take much too long ahd be too tedious. You need a hand scroll saw, a protable or table jigsaw or a band saw.

Q. — We have old-fashioned window screens, with the galvanized mesh held in place by pieces of moulding. One of them needs new screening material. I did a similar job some years ago, but remember that I had a tough time trying to get the mesh tight enough. Is there some trick to this?

A. — There are several ways to do this. Here's one I have used over the years. Set two sawhorses apart about the length of the screen. Place a couple of 2 by 4s (or similar wood strips) on the saw horses lengthwise and along the outer edges. Lay the screen on this setup. Now place two short pieces of 2 by 4s underneath the top and bottom of the screen. Use two C-clamps to tighten the sides of the screen to the long 2 by 4s. This tightening will cause the screen to be bowed slightly downward. Now attach the mesh to the bottom and top rails of the screen. When the C-clamps are lossened, the mesh will tighten up the way you want it. Complete the fastening of the mesh to the wood. The moulding, by the way, is not used to hold the mesh in place, but merely to cover up the fasteners, which can be either small special tacks or staples.

Q. — I filled up some nail holes with patching plaster in the walls of a room I painted. When the job was finished, there was a little fuzziness around each patched hole. What happened?

A. — You applied the paint — probably latex — too soon after the holes were filled. The paint disturbed the patches before they had hardened.

Yard's Feuding Ground For Some Couples

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Women and their menfolk don't always agree on what to do around the yard — sometimes to the point of feuding.

For example, what do you do with trash and outdoor debris until it's burned or carted away?

Said one woman: "Frustrated, I finally raked last autumn's leaves that were used as winter mulch around some bushes. But my husband challenges me.

" 'Who is going to clean up the mess you have made?' he will say or 'Why don't you finish the project you have started?' "

It's even difficult to get the man of the house to decide where debris should be stashed meanwhile. One woman suggested woman start compost heaps to take care of the leaves, and a brush pile, she says, can add to the attractiveness of the landscape. Her husband has grudgingly accepted her solution to the brush, but she thinks he prefers a tidier outdoor scene.

Actually, the ladies decided, many city-bred men often cannot abide the casual rustic look which many women prefer. Women, who enjoy moving furniture about indoors and changing the decorating look from time to time, like to have something they can move about outdoors.

In lieu of portable bushes and trees, compost, brush and woodpiles have certain advantages in that direction. Men often prefer the easy-care conformity of smooth lawns, little round bushes, tall trees.

Comparing their experiences, many women believe there is no outdoor togetherness anyway, unless a husband invites his wife to get into the outdoor work act.

"My husband would rather have his garden tools rust from disuse than have me use them," said one woman who claims that she is usually accused of not returning the tools to their proper slot in the basement.

Such events get top priority at coffee gatherings where the aim is to play washline psychiatrist and relieve tensions.

One woman remarked that she and her husband are entirely compatible until good weather when they begin running into each other outdoors.

"It's like running into a block tackle on a football team. . . . if I pull out a lilac sucker, I'm distorting its growth . . . if I rake leaves, I'm ruining the flex action of the tines."

"What else is new?" the ladies comforted her.

"My husband laughs hysterically at the way I hold a shovel" said one.

"If I split a log my husband predicts I'll cut off my arm the way I hold an ax," said another.

Another woman just waits until she is asked to provide some help on one of her husband's projects.

"It's a bore sometimes, like when he asked me to hold up the chicken wire he was putting around the vegetable garden. He disappeared to get a prop he mislaid and didn't return for 20 minutes." He ignores such lapses, she says.

But the women did come to the conclusion that the outdoors is a man's stake-out.

Men can be thoughtful praising a flower garden, but they rarely give credit to any job a woman does with "man-size tools."

More or less the women came to the conclusion that some psychological factors are involved, and these are tied into neatness, tools, safety, and outdoor rights.

Owning one's own tools is a step in the right direction, and discussing projects in advance could be one solution.

But as one woman says, "Why bother?" She doesn't have the slightest qualm watching her husband do yard work.

BOLTING

When flowers form on carrots, beets, onions, lettuce and cabbage, it is the result of being exposed to cold temperature at a critical time when the plants are young. Spinach and radishes will flower also but the shorter nights of summer are the primary influence. Some varieties are better than others in not flowering. Cauliflower plants exposed to cold as transplants tend to "button" or form a seed head before the plant has grown to any size.

Neibauer

CUKES AND SQUASH

Don't worry about planting cucumbers next to melons or squash. They will not develop off color, taste, or shape due to cross-pollination. In fact, melons and cucumbers will not cross. Only some varieties of squash will cross. . . . but even then only the seed for next year is affected. Interplanting white and gold sweet corn could cause a mixture of kernel color.

LAST CHANCE

The buds of blue spruce started to move before the weather got cold. If you want to control the tip curl caused by the Cooley Spruce gall aphid, spray in the next few days with lindane or forget it until next year.

French Official: Sunshine Will Heal U.S. Wounds

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Mme. Francoise Giroud, highest ranking woman in the French government, told a University of Michigan commencement today America's wounds "will heal because you treat them in the sunshine of truth."

France's first Secretary of State on the Condition of Women made her remarks in a speech prepared for delivery to the 6,000 graduating students.

Mme. Giroud paid tribute to the United States' role in two World Wars but cautioned that not all Frenchmen still regard Americans with the exhilliration of the liberation.

"The French people of my generation will keep that mark forever and vow you an eternal gratefulness. But for their children and especially for their grandchildren, it is history. It is not their story," she said.

"Those whom we called our liberators, they call them imperialists," she said.

She recalled that while America has many friends in France, "Those who did not like you, encouraged by Communist propaganda, started to accuse you of wanting to dominate the world, to colonize our economy...those who loved you, and they were the majority, kept saying: 'The United States can not help being imperialists.'

Mme. Giroud said that French students who had the opportunity to go to study in U.S. schools "came back puzzled, for America was not at all what their fellow students in France had told them.

"I have always believed that if it were possible to send all Europeans to visit the United States and to pay them also a trip to the Soviet Union, there would be no Communists in our country."

She said the French people had "seen with sadness and anguish the infectious faith of John Kennedy in the grandiose mission of your country gradually crushed and engulfed in the jungles of Vietnam."

Referring to the widespread publicly about Watergate, she said:

"Today, certain people are flabbergasted to see you proceed with this story of great washing, this public display of your sores, this unceasing auteritic. They have never seen such things done at home. "They stare at you, as if the United States had become some sort of blind giant intent on mutilating himself. And they are afraid, first of all because what happens in your country sends shock waves the world over." "This faculty you have of exhibiting your sores instead of hiding them, is, in my opinion, the very sign that you are on the way to recovery." "It is this strength that the West needs, as vitally as oil, and it is this strength that is missing in the Soviet Union, just as much as wheat," she said.

Honorary degres were presented to Mme. Giroud; historian Daniel J. Boorstin, the new Librarian of Congress, and research physicist Isabella Karle.

Parcel Firm Hit By Strike

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Teamsters struck the United Parcel Service at midnight in 13 Midwest and Rocky Mountain states after negotiations between the company and the union were halted.

Members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters began setting up picket lines as soon as the deadline passed.

In anticipation of a strike, UPS had suspended pickups Friday afternoon in affected areas "to make sure we have the smallest amount of packages in the system," a company spokesman said.

Negotiations are scheduled to resume Tuesday on the multistate contract, which affects some 14,000 UPS drivers, loaders and sorters in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

UPS is a national pickup and delivery service that handles some four million packages daily.

Negotiations continued on a separate contract for some 3,000 teamsters in Illinois and Indiana, but those employes were to continue working under a contract extension, a union spokesman said.

The unsettled issues blocking final agreement in talks affecting the 13 states reportedly involve health and welfare benefits and pension.

Betty To California

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford, scheduled to be in California next week during a four-day campaign swing, will stop in Sacramento to file the names of 167 delegates for her husband in the June 8 Republican primary there.

Kissinger Hints Aid For Africa

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger heads for Senegal today after offering recognition and the possibility of economic aid to the new Marxist government of Angola if it expels all Cuban troops.

Kissinger also promised $200 million in U.S. aid to black Africa in general, and said he would have more to offer next week at the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development in Nairobi.

The secretary labeled as "totally irresponsible" any suggestion that American support for a black government in Rhodesia would lead to a massacre of the white minority which now rules the country.

Kissinger said he was trying to provide a platform for negotiations between the black liberationists and the white government. "It is the only hope of avoiding a massacre," he said.

Spiro Sheds Silence To Plug His Novel

By JOHN WOODFIELD
Associated Press Writer

CROFTON, Md. (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew has broken a self-imposed silence of almost two years with a whirlwind round of taped television talk shows and interviews to promote the publication of his novel.

During a recent two-hour interview with The Associated Press, the former vice president covered a multitude of topics, most dealing with the writing of his novel, but always delicately steering the conversation away from his years in the Nixon administration.

Agnew's novel is entitled "The Canfield Decision," and is published by Playboy Press. It portrays a ruthlessly ambitious vice president bent on succeeding his lame duck chief executive, and the chain of events leading to a violent and unexpected ending.

Relaxing in his Crofton office of Pathlite, the international business firm he founded soon after his resignation, Agnew recalled those first few weeks out of office and how he decided to write.

"It's sort of a restoration of self confidence that's badly shaken when you flop to the bottom from the top. And maybe in that respect, it was therapeutic for me.

Agnew resigned after pleading no contest to an income tax evasion charge stemming from a grand jury investigation of kickback schemes in Maryland.

He said he wrote a novel instead of his memoirs in part because "I was too bitter." He added, "I'm hoping I can get started on (the memoirs) late this year. It will take at least two years."

How does he feel about the new Woodward and Bernstein book on Nixon's final days in office?

"I won't read it. I think it's a piece of garbage. I've read the excerpts, but honestly, I think it's a commercial exploitation. It's written as fact....

"They called me. They wanted to interview me and I refused. And for the same reasons I'm refusing to answer other questions.

"Very candidly, I want to present my story as an entity and also I want to make money out of it, and why should I give it away for somebody else to exploit?"

Agnew said some of his novel's minor characters were, in fact, drawn from real life, such as a muckraking newspaper columnist named "Andy Jackerson." But he insisted that the principal characters were the synthesis of many personalities.

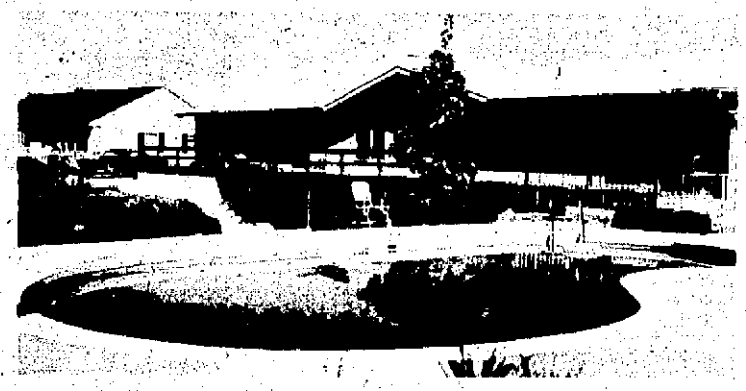

One theme in the novel is the concept that a loosely knit organization exists within the national media to act on occasion in their general interest.

HOME BUILDING & OTHER CONSTRUCTION NEWS

By ANDY LANG

Here's the Answer

Q. — Articles about using caulking compound always talk about buying it in cartridges, but when I watched a workman doing his job on a new house recently, he used it from a large can. Isn't it cheaper that way than buying a cartridge and then inserting it one of those caulking guns?

A. — Yes. Unless you are doing a tremendous amount of caulking, however, you seldom have need for a compound in large amounts. Besides, applying the compound from a can and using a putty knife or similar tool to press it into openings require a certain amount of skill. Using a cartridge is a lot easier and less messy. A gun is inexpensive and lasts indefinitely.

Q. — I saw one of those shadow boxes around the frame of a window in a house I visited a couple of years ago and promised myself that some day I would make one. The people I visited have since moved, so I can't ask them how they made it. Should some special kind of wood be used and how are the curves cut out?

A. — You can use any kind of material you want for the box, including lumber, plywood, hardboard, fiberboard, etc. While the curves can be cut with an ordinary saw, it would take much too long and be too tedious. You need a hand scroll saw, a protable or table jigsaw or a band saw.

Q. — We have old-fashioned window screens, with the galvanized mesh held in place by pieces of moulding. One of them needs new screening material. I did a similar job some years ago, but remember that I had a tough time trying to get the mesh tight enough. Is there some trick to this?

A. — There are several ways to do this. Here's one I have used over the years. Set two sawhorses apart about the length of the screen. Place a couple of 2 by 4s (or similar wood strips) on the saw horses lengthwise and along the outer edges. Lay the screen on this setup. Now place two short pieces of 2 by 4s underneath the top and bottom of the screen. Use two C-clamps to tighten the sides of the screen to the long 2 by 4s. This tightening will cause the screen to be bowed slightly downward. Now attach the mesh to the bottom and top rails of the screen. When the C-clamps are lossened, the mesh will tighten up the way you want it. Complete the fastening of the mesh to the wood. The moulding, by the way, is not used to hold the mesh in place, but merely to cover up the fasteners, which can be either small special tacks or staples.

Q. — I filled up some nail holes with patching plaster in the walls of a room I painted. When the job was finished, there was a little fuzziness around each patched hole. What happened?

A. — You applied the paint — probably latex — too soon after the holes were filled. The paint disturbed the patches before they had hardened.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Women and their menfolk don't always agree on what to do around the yard — sometimes to the point of feuding.

For example, what do you do with trash and outdoor debris until it's burned or carted away?

Said one woman: "Frustrated, I finally raked last autumn's leaves that were used as winter mulch around some bushes. But my husband challenges me.

" 'Who is going to clean up the mess you have made?' he will say or 'Why don't you finish the project you have started?' "

It's even difficult to get the man of the house to decide where debris should be stashed meanwhile. One woman suggested woman start compost heaps to take care of the leaves, and a brush pile, she says, can add to the attractiveness of the landscape. Her husband has grudgingly accepted her solution to the brush, but she thinks he prefers a tidier outdoor scene.

Actually, the ladies decided, many city-bred men often cannot abide the casual rustic look which many women prefer. Women, who enjoy moving furniture about indoors and changing the decorating look from time to time, like to have something they can move about outdoors.

In lieu of portable bushes and trees, compost, brush and woodpiles have certain advantages in that direction. Men often prefer the easy-care conformity of smooth lawns, little round bushes, tall trees.

Comparing their experiences, many women believe there is no outdoor togetherness anyway, unless a husband invites his wife to get into the outdoor work act.

"My husband would rather have his garden tools rust from disuse than have me use them," said one woman who claims that she is usually accused of not returning the tools to their proper slot in the basement.

Such events get top priority at coffee gatherings where the aim is to play washline psychiatrist and relieve tensions.

One woman remarked that she and her husband are entirely compatible until good weather when they begin running into each other outdoors.

"It's like running into a block tackle on a football team. . . . If I pull out a lilac sucker, I'm distorting its growth . . . If I rake leaves, I'm ruining the flex action of the tines."

"What else is new?" the ladies comforted her.

"My husband laughs hysterically at the way I hold a shovel" said one.

"If I split a log my husband predicts I'll cut off my arm the way I hold an ax," said another.

Another woman just waits until she is asked to provide some help on one of her husband's projects.

"It's a bore sometimes, like when he asked me to hold up the chicken wire he was putting around the vegetable garden. He disappeared to get a prop he mislaid and didn't return for 20 minutes." He ignores such lapses, she says.

But the women did come to the conclusion that the outdoors is a man's stake-out.

Men can be thoughtful praising a flower garden, but they rarely give credit to any job a woman does with "man-size tools."

More or less the women came to the conclusion that some psychological factors are involved, and these are tied into neatness, tools, safety, and outdoor rights.

Owning one's own tools is a step in the right direction, and discussing projects in advance could be one solution.

BOLTING

When flowers form on carrots, beets, onions, lettuce and cabbage, it is the result of being exposed to cold temperature at a critical time when the plants are young. Spinach and radishes will flower also but the shorter nights of summer are the primary influence. Some varieties are better than others in not flowering. Cauliflower plants exposed to cold as transplants tend to "button" or form a seed head before the plant has grown to any size.

Neibauer

CUKES AND SQUASH

Don't worry about planting cucumbers next to melons or squash. They will not develop off color, taste, or shape due to cross-pollination. In fact, melons and cucumbers will not cross. Only some varieties of squash will cross. . . . but even then only the seed for next year is affected. Interplanting white and gold sweet corn could cause a mixture of kernel color.

LAST CHANCE

The buds of blue spruce started to move before the weather got cold. If you want to control the tip curl caused by the Cooley Spruce gall aphid, spray in the next few days with lindane or forget it until next year.

Nun Denies Giving Birth, Killing Son

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun has denied charges that she secretly gave birth and then killed her infant son, police say.

PoliceChief Eugene Shaw of suburban Brighton said Friday that Carol Murphy, 35, known as Sister Maureen, denied having been pregnant with the boy whose body was found in Our Lady of Lourdes convent in Brighton.

Shaw said Sister Maureen, who was charged Thursday with second-degree murder, gave birth to the infant in her room Tuesday and then asphyxiated him by stuffing a cloth in his mouth.

Monroe County medical examiner John F. Edland said the baby was not premature and had been born alive.

Other nuns at the convent declined to say if they knew whether Sister Maureen, a school principal who did not wear a habit, had been pregnant.

Shaw said the denials by Sister Maureen led investigators to seek evidence from persons who might have known of her pregnancy in Connecticut, where Shaw said she apparently spent her vacation last summer.

He said that investigation had been concluded satisfactorily and had turned up some information, but he declined to elaborate.

Shaw said he had no knowledge of reports that investigators found a man in Connecticut who admitted being the baby's father.

"I don't think it would be material to the case," he said. "That's a moral matter."

Sister Maureen was discovered in her room by other nuns Tuesday, bleeding severely, Shaw said. She was rushed to Genesee Hospital, where Shaw said doctors confirmed she had given birth. She was reported in satisfactory condition Friday.

Sister Maureen has been a member of the Sisters of St. Joseph for 18 years.

Funeral services had not been arranged for the infant, whose body was in Edland's custody.

Mother Finds Son's Body

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — A Farmington Hills woman discovered the body of her beaten and strangled son Thursday in a field where police investigated an explosion that gutted his car earlier that day, authorities said. State Police at the Ypsilanti Post said Mrs. Jean Johnson and three relatives found the body of her 22-year-old son, Rick, in Augusta Township, five miles south of here. Mrs. Johnson, who had reported her son missing Thursday morning, drove to Ypsilanti to fill out a missing persons form and then out of curiousity stopped by the site where the car was found. Johnson's body had lain partially concealed for about 11 hours in a thicket less than 100 feet from where troopers had investigated an explosion and fire that gutted a car registered to the slain man. Police said the fire was deliberately set.

Billboard Bill On Way

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation bringing Michigan's billboard law into compliance with the Federal Highway Act has passed the House and is in the Senate. The House this week approved the bill, sponsored by Rep. Michael Novak, D-Detroit, 81-14, with immediate effect. Novak said if the bill isn't passed and Michigan doesn't comply with federal regulations, it could lose 10 per cent of its federal highway funds. The bill brings Michigan law in line with federal requirements that signs cannot be erected beyond 660 feet of the right of way on commercial, industrial or business property. However, this restriction would not apply to signs advertising the sale or lease of the property on which they are located, advertising activities on the property where they are situated, or directional and other official signs.

Tenure Board Cites Lake County Judge

DETROIT (AP) — The state Judicial Tenure Commission has filed a complaint against Lake County Probate Judge Norman F. Kapcia, charging him with practicing law while under 30-day suspension by the State Bar Grievance Board.

Kapcia, a part-time judge practicing law in this Western Michigan county, said the matter has been pending for some time, adding, "I hope for a speedy and favorable resolution of the matter."

The commission said Kapcia's license was suspended for 30 days in April, 1974, on charges he mishandled his law practice and failed to answer questions in a State Bar investigation of his activities. The suspension took effect last Aug. 28 after he lost an appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

The commission alleges Kapcia was involved in at least three law cases while under suspension and then failed to file an affidavit that he had complied with the suspension. Without a proper affidavit, Kapcia still is technically without a license, the commission said.

The commission, which polices the state's judiciary system, did not suspend Kapcia as a judge nor did it appoint a master in the proceedings to make recommendations.

"We do not know whether the ultimate outcome of this action will be removal of Judge Kapcia from office," said Brian J. McMahon, executive director of the commission.

"Judge Kapcia's main problem seems to be that he doesn't respond to official inquiries," McMahon added. "If he doesn't respond in this case, removal may be the outcome."

WMU Professor Enters Race For 42nd District House Seat

VICKSBURG — A professor of engineering at Western Michigan university, Kalamazoo, has become the seventh candidate to enter the crowded race for the 42nd district state legislative seat. The latest candidate is L.D. Ryan, who lives in St. Joseph county's Park township just south of Vicksburg. Ryan, 41, who describes himself as a "conservative Republican," joins five other announced GOP candidates and one Democrat in the race for the seat held by DeForrest Strang, 74, a Republican from Sturgis who is retiring this year. The other Republican candidates are Paul Brady of Three Rivers, Fred Charlton of Sturgis, John Middaugh of Dowagiac, Mark Siljander of Three Rivers, and Denton VanderWeele of Constantine. The only announced Democrat so far is Mrs. Dixie Almasi, Edwardsburg.

The 42nd district includes almost all of Cass and St. Joseph counties and the Van Buren county townships of Keeler, Hamilton, Decatur and Porter. Ryan has never held political office. He said he is running because he wants to bring a halt to additional state taxes.

"I'm enraged over what's happening in taxes," he said. "I'm particularly interested in limiting the taxes we can impose in this state."

In addition to his duties at WMU, Ryan owns a farm, an egg processing ranch and a company which manufactures solar heating panels. He holds a bachelor's and master's degree in engineering, and he said he will complete his doctoral work this fall at Michigan State university. He and his wife, Susan, live on their farm in Park township, and they have five sons.

Loitering Law Future Assured

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Dearborn ordinance prohibiting people from hanging around places where they know marijuana is used got some roundabout support from the Michigan Court of Appeals.

And in other action Friday, the court, on a technicality, overturned the assault convictions of two Grand Rapids brothers who had a shootout with a policeman.

The appeals court did not formally rule on the marijuana ordinance, but said, "If we were required to consider it, we would uphold the ordinance."

The court made the statement in a ruling upholding the convictions of three people charged with violating that ordinance.

In their appeal the three argued, among other things, that the ordinance is unconstitutional because it is vague and doesn't explain what actions are illegal.

The appeals court said it wasn't required to review the constitutionality of the ordinance since the defendants did not raise the question during their trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Under the four-year-old ordinance, the maximum penalty for a person who loiters in a place where he knows marijuana is being used is $500 and 90 days in jail.

Dearborn City Atty. Bill Hultgren said the ordinance is "very typical" of ordinances in other Michigan cities.

The two Grand Rapids brothers whose assault convictions were reversed had been charged with assault to commit murder. They were charged after a Grand Rapids policeman stopped their car in 1973 to ticket them for a broken taillight.

The appeals court said character witnesses for the men, Lewis and Inzell Robinson, were improperly asked if they knew of the men's prior arrests. No substantiation of the arrests was made before the prosecutor was allowed to ask the witnesses about them, the appeals court said.

The two were sentenced to 10 to 16 years in prison by the Kent County Circuit Court.

Police alleged Lewis Robinson, then 23, threatened to kill the policeman and reached to his rear pocket as the policeman grabbed him. Police said his brother, Inzell, then 19, took a gun from the car and fired several shots unsuccessfully at the officer.

The brothers, however, alleged they never intended to harm the officer, who they say overreacted. They testified that Lewis was reaching for his billfold when the officer grabbed him and roughed him up. They claimed the officer fired first.

Teenage Gangsters Are Rising Threat

bazookas, Molotov cocktails and pipe bombs.

"Youth gang violence is more lethal than every before," he concluded.

"Murder by firearms or other weapons, the central and most dangerous form of gang-member violence, in all probability stands today at the highest level it has reached in the history of the nation," the report said.

Evidence indicates that gangs were responsible for 525 murders from 1972 through 1974 in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York and San Francisco, the report continued.

Two important trends, Miller said, concern increasing gang invasions of schools and a growing tendency among some gangs to prey upon innocent citizens.

"To a degree never before reported," he said, "gang members have 'territorialized' the school buildings and their environments."

The most serious and widespread school problems appear to be in Los Angeles, Chicago and Philadelphia, Miller said. Gang members have shot and killed teachers in Chicago and Philadelphia and non-gang students in Chicago and Los Angeles, he noted.

In those and other cities, gangs have beaten and intimidated teachers and students and extorted "fees" from students for the "privilege" of using school cafeterias, gyms and corridors.

Miller said the evidence indicates that 60 per cent of the victims of gang violence are gang members.

"However," he added, there appears to be a trend toward increasing victimization of persons with no gang involvement, especially in New York and Chicago.

Miller said the composition of youth gangs has changed little in this century. Members tend to be males between the ages of 12 and 21 concentrated in low-income ghettos.

Gangs tend to be racially homogeneous. In the six cities with serious problems, Miller concluded that 47 per cent of the gangs are black and 36 per cent Hispanic. In San Francisco, Asian gangs "comprise the bulk of the gang problem."

The report said there may be as many as 2,700 gangs with 81,500 members in the six cities.

As they have for decades, teen-age girls often form auxiliaries such as the "Lady Disciples" but have only rarely developed their own gangs or joined male gangs.

Niles Township Curtailing Fire Department Station

NILES — A shortage of manpower, brought on by budgetary problems facing the Niles township board, has forced a limited shutdown of the township's north fire station, Albert Simons, township fire chief said today. Simons said that effective today the north fire station will be closed parts of 10 days out of each month because three full-time firemen have been laid off.

The north station is one of two in the township operated by a mix of paid and volunteer firemen.

Earlier this month, the township board laid off the three men and cited the financial woes of the township as the reason for the layoff. Simons said that the three men will be granted their due vacation time beginning today and will then be laid off following the vacations.

Simons said with the layoff he and the remaining five fulltime firemen will not be able to keep both stations open on a 24-hour basis.

Simons said the township board is attempting to find a way to bring one of the three laid-off men back on the job. Should one of the men be brought back, the north station could be manned on a 24-hour basis, he added.

In a related matter, contract talks between the firemen's union and the township board have gone to arbitration. The two sides have been unable to come to terms of a new contract and have cited the township's uncertain financial future as one of the reasons for the impasse.

Weather Study Predicts Famines

and Southwest would be drier. It said this probably would not significantly affect food production.

But elsewhere, the report drew a grim picture of the future.

"The new climatic era brings a promise of famine and starvation to many areas of the world .... The economic and political impact of major climatic shifts is almost beyond comprehension."

It also said starvation and famine would lead to social unrest and global migrations of populations.

One entire section of the CIA report was kept secret. Under the section titled "recommendations," was only one word: "deleted."

The report said the climatic changes began in 1960, but were not noticed until recently. It cited as signs of the looming change in climate record rains and cold spells for the last three years from Burma to the United States.

Another CIA report, made public last year, predicted that grave food shortages, despite major U.S. exports, raise a potential risk for the United States.

The CIA report cited the situation as a threat to nations that are not involved in famine conditions.

"There would be increasingly desperate attempts on the part of the powerful, but hungry nations, to get grain any way they could. Massive migrations, sometimes backed by force, would be a live issue and political and economic instability would be widespread," it said.

"In the poor and powerless areas, population would have to drop to levels that could be supported. The population 'problem' would have solved itself in the most unpleasant fashion," said the report.

Asked about the report, Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said it is a warning that new techniques for agricultural production in arid areas must be undertaken.

"The CIA's prediction of global unrest, famine and mass migrations must not become a reality. We can and we must take the initiative in developing a long-term program to alter current production and consumption patterns to make more grain available for the affected areas," Richmond said.

He also said he would urge the House Agriculture Committee to immediately start hearings into the problem to guarantee a comprehensive policy to guarantee sufficient food supply.

Getting ready for the next 200 years

73,050 days of liberty and law! Think of it. Celebrate it. But resist the temptation to fall back into that special kind of stupor induced by smugness. There is a high – more dangerous than drugs or alcohol – that comes from fantasies of superiority.

73,050 days! We began our journey as a nation with a masterpiece – the American Constitution – to guide us.

We fought nine major wars in charting our destiny, a destiny filled with triumph and tragedy. We toasted freedom but let ourselves be trapped into slavery. Our technology conquered a continent, but the pollution it created threatens our tomorrow.

Now is the time to be getting ready for the next 200 years. To be free is to be alive to what needs to be done. To be free is to be aware that the past has a vote in our lives, not a veto.

73,050 days of liberty and law! Let us celebrate in wisdom – a strong people getting ready for tomorrow.

Judge Byrns To New Americans: 'Liberty' Doesn't Mean 'License'

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns presided over ceremonies at the old county courthouse here yesterday as 18 county residents became U.S. citizens.

The naturalization ceremonies in the 1839 courthouse, probably the oldest public building in Michigan still in use, launched a series of activities scheduled during the next two weeks in observance of national Law Day.

Following the ceremony, Judge Byrns told the new citizens that the rights and privileges of being an American citizen "will not continue without individual sacrifice, hard work, responsibility, respect for the rights of others, and obedience to the laws of man and nature."

Speaking on "The Abuse of Rights," Byrns said: "To no nation in history have so many rights been given to so many and yet been so abused, exploited and prostituted as in these United States."

"Our legal system should, of course, strive for perfection," Byrns said. "We must recognize, however, that absolutely perfect justice is a divine quality. It is not a human achievement. Therefore, the creation, as we have witnessed, of many technical and artificial rules and procedures has not in balance gained greater justice for the innocent.

They have, however, proven golden opportunities for the guilty who in turn have turned many areas of our young nation into wild jungles. They have created mass disrespect for the law, and the courts and lawyers, not only by the criminals, but also by much of the society who commit no crimes.

"A free press is surely the best sentinel of freedom our democracy can have," Byrns stated. "The freedom to inquire, to report and to criticize must be preserved at all costs. But surely this does not mean that the right of a free press must include seeing on the same newsstand as the New York Times and other newspapers, the front covers of a large variety of magazines showing 'in vivid, living color,' the raw male and female sexual organs by themselves or in various forms of copulation.

"The right to free speech carries with it the duty of responsibility. I cannot agree with those who claim, directly or indirectly, that it includes the right to misrepresent or the right to destroy without good cause the honor or credibility of another man, or institution or of this nation.

"Patrick Henry, who undoubtedly was the greatest orator of the revolutionary era, would never agree that free speech gives the right to encourage or to incite people to arson, riot, pillage, bomb and destroy, or maim and kill in order to compell their will or goals on a free society such as ours.

"Last week I was in the city of Boston, which to many Americans in a historical sense is the cradle of American freedom. Here is a city, famed for its culture and sense of civilization, where the abuse of so called rights has so damaged civic responsibility that the courthouse was bombed the day before I arrived. In the same week in Boston mobs in racial hate attacked and severely injured innocent people. This distinguished city is a city full of hatred resulting from an abuse and misunderstanding of what the rights of citizenship really are.

"The liberty we honor, especially this Bicentennial year, is not a license or freedom to crime," Byrns said. "It is not the right to pollute the minds with printed or pictorial filth. It is not the right to destroy or terrorize a political or an economic system, which has given us two centuries of greatness, freedom and prosperity, unknown ever to mankind.

"It is popular today to shift the blame for the moral disintegration around us to corruption among some leaders in government summed up in the word 'Watergate.' This won't wash. It ignores the fact that in a free nation, where the people chose their leaders, corruption does not come from the leaders down to the people but rather from the people up to the government.

"The liberty this nation's fathers created and the rights that flow from it is the right to be free to develop your physical, intellectual and spiritual talents to their best potential. It is the right to create and build and to enjoy the fruits of your work and talents. It is the right to responsibly speak and write against that which threatens the nation; its form of government or its people or yourself.

"As the late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes said, 'Liberty implies the absence of arbitrary restraint, not the immunity from reasonable regulations and prohibitions imposed in the interests of the community.'

"Today, then, let us speak and think of rights as responsibilities; as opportunities for self development and for development of our community and nation," Byrns concluded. "Let us use our rights as the means for preventing this nation and its form of government from ever being injured or destroyed, either from forces outside our boundaries, or, more probably, from within the nation itself."

WARNS AGAINST ABUSES: Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns presided at naturalization ceremony Friday for 18 new U.S. citizens by warning against abuses of constitutional rights.

Four More Are Fined

Four more hunters pleaded guilty Friday in Berrien Fifth District court to charges of violation of the 1976 wild turkey drawing rules by submitting their names more than once for a permit.

Sentenced to fine and costs of $33 were Garry D. Kanyuh, 17, of 1764 Colfax, and James Visin, 17, of 2235 Meadowbrook, both of Benton township; Harry A. Lausman Jr., 28, of 1890 Santa Maria drive, Stevensville; and Samuel E. Miracle, 42, of Hillandale road, Eau Claire.

According to Bill Edwards, state conservation officer, persons trying for a permit in the annual drawing can only submit one application under Department of Natural Resources' regulations.

Nun Denies Giving Birth, Killing Son

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun has denied charges that she secretly gave birth and then killed her infant son, police say.

PoliceChief Eugene Shaw of suburban Brighton said Friday that Carol Murphy, 35, known as Sister Maureen, denied having been pregnant with the boy whose body was found in Our Lady of Lourdes convent in Brighton.

Shaw said Sister Maureen, who was charged Thursday with second-degree murder, gave birth to the infant in her room Tuesday and then asphyxiated him by stuffing a cloth in his mouth.

Monroe County medical examiner John F. Edland said the baby was not premature and had been born alive.

Other nuns at the convent declined to say if they knew whether Sister Maureen, a school principal who did not wear a habit, had been pregnant.

Shaw said the denials by Sister Maureen led investigators to seek evidence from persons who might have known of her pregnancy in Connecticut, where Shaw said she apparently spent her vacation last summer.

He said that investigation had been concluded satisfactorily and had turned up some information, but he declined to elaborate.

Shaw said he had no knowledge of reports that investigators found a man in Connecticut who admitted being the baby's father.

"I don't think it would be material to the case," he said. "That's a moral matter."

Sister Maureen was discovered in her room by other nuns Tuesday, bleeding severely, Shaw said. She was rushed to Genesee Hospital, where Shaw said doctors confirmed she had given birth. She was reported in satisfactory condition Friday.

Sister Maureen has been a member of the Sisters of St. Joseph for 18 years.

Funeral services had not been arranged for the infant, whose body was in Edland's custody.

Mother Finds Son's Body

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — A Farmington Hills woman discovered the body of her beaten and strangled son Thursday in a field where police investigated an explosion that gutted his car earlier that day, authorities said. State Police at the Ypsilanti Post said Mrs. Jean Johnson and three relatives found the body of her 22-year-old son, Rick, in Augusta Township, five miles south of here. Mrs. Johnson, who had reported her son missing Thursday morning, drove to Ypsilanti to fill out a missing persons form and then out of curiousity stopped by the site where the car was found. Johnson's body had lain partially concealed for about 11 hours in a thicket less than 100 feet from where troopers had investigated an explosion and fire that gutted a car registered to the slain man. Police said the fire was deliberately set.

Billboard Bill On Way

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation bringing Michigan's billboard law into compliance with the Federal Highway Act has passed the House and is in the Senate. The House this week approved the bill, sponsored by Rep. Michael Novak, D-Detroit, 81-14, with immediate effect. Novak said if the bill isn't passed and Michigan doesn't comply with federal regulations, it could lose 10 per cent of its federal highway funds. The bill brings Michigan law in line with federal requirements that signs cannot be erected beyond 660 feet of the right of way on commercial, industrial or business property. However, this restriction would not apply to signs advertising the sale or lease of the property on which they are located, advertising activities on the property where they are situated, or directional and other official signs.

Tenure Board Cites Lake County Judge

DETROIT (AP) — The state Judicial Tenure Commission has filed a complaint against Lake County Probate Judge Norman F. Kapcia, charging him with practicing law while under 30-day suspension by the State Bar Grievance Board.

Kapcia, a part-time judge practicing law in this Western Michigan county, said the matter has been pending for some time, adding, "I hope for a speedy and favorable resolution of the matter."

The commission said Kapcia's license was suspended for 30 days in April, 1974, on charges he mishandled his law practice and failed to answer questions in a State Bar investigation of his activities. The suspension took effect last Aug. 28 after he lost an appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

The commission alleges Kapcia was involved in at least three law cases while under suspension and then failed to file an affidavit that he had complied with the suspension. Without a proper affidavit, Kapcia still is technically without a license, the commission said.

The commission, which polices the state's judiciary system, did not suspend Kapcia as a judge nor did it appoint a master in the proceedings to make recommendations.

"We do not know whether the ultimate outcome of this action will be removal of Judge Kapcia from office," said Brian J. McMahon, executive director of the commission.

"Judge Kapcia's main problem seems to be that he doesn't respond to official inquiries," McMahon added. "If he doesn't respond in this case, removal may be the outcome."

WMU Professor Enters Race For 42nd District House Seat

VICKSBURG — A professor of engineering at Western Michigan university, Kalamazoo, has become the seventh candidate to enter the crowded race for the 42nd district state legislative seat. The latest candidate is L.D. Ryan, who lives in St. Joseph county's Park township just south of Vicksburg. Ryan, 41, who describes himself as a "conservative Republican," joins five other announced GOP candidates and one Democrat in the race for the seat held by DeForrest Strang, 74, a Republican from Sturgis who is retiring this year. The other Republican candidates are Paul Brady of Three Rivers, Fred Charlton of Sturgis, John Middaugh of Dowagiac, Mark Siljander of Three Rivers, and Denton VanderWeele of Constantine. The only announced Democrat so far is Mrs. Dixie Almasi, Edwardsburg.

The 42nd district includes almost all of Cass and St. Joseph counties and the Van Buren county townships of Keeler, Hamilton, Decatur and Porter. Ryan has never held political office. He said he is running because he wants to bring a halt to additional state taxes.

"I'm enraged over what's happening in taxes," he said. "I'm particularly interested in limiting the taxes we can impose in this state."

In addition to his duties at WMU, Ryan owns a farm, an egg processing ranch and a company which manufactures solar heating panels. He holds a bachelor's and master's degree in engineering, and he said he will complete his doctoral work this fall at Michigan State university. He and his wife, Susan, live on their farm in Park township, and they have five sons.

Loitering Law Future Assured

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Dearborn ordinance prohibiting people from hanging around places where they know marijuana is used got some roundabout support from the Michigan Court of Appeals.

And in other action Friday, the court, on a technicality, overturned the assault convictions of two Grand Rapids brothers who had a shootout with a policeman.

The appeals court did not formally rule on the marijuana ordinance, but said, "If we were required to consider it, we would uphold the ordinance."

The court made the statement in a ruling upholding the convictions of three people charged with violating that ordinance.

In their appeal the three argued, among other things, that the ordinance is unconstitutional because it is vague and doesn't explain what actions are illegal.

The appeals court said it wasn't required to review the constitutionality of the ordinance since the defendants did not raise the question during their trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Under the four-year-old ordinance, the maximum penalty for a person who loiters in a place where he knows marijuana is being used is $500 and 90 days in jail.

Dearborn City Atty. Bill Hultgren said the ordinance is "very typical" of ordinances in other Michigan cities.

The two Grand Rapids brothers whose assault convictions were reversed had been charged with assault to commit murder. They were charged after a Grand Rapids policeman stopped their car in 1973 to ticket them for a broken taillight.

The appeals court said character witnesses for the men, Lewis and Inzell Robinson, were improperly asked if they knew of the men's prior arrests. No substantiation of the arrests was made before the prosecutor was allowed to ask the witnesses about them, the appeals court said.

The two were sentenced to 10 to 16 years in prison by the Kent County Circuit Court.

Police alleged Lewis Robinson, then 23, threatened to kill the policeman and reached to his rear pocket as the policeman grabbed him. Police said his brother, Inzell, then 19, took a gun from the car and fired several shots unsuccessfully at the officer.

The brothers, however, alleged they never intended to harm the officer, who they say overreacted. They testified that Lewis was reaching for his billfold when the officer grabbed him and roughed him up. They claimed the officer fired first.

Teenage Gangsters Are Rising Threat

bazookas, Molotov cocktails and pipe bombs.

"Youth gang violence is more lethal than ever before," he concluded.

"Murder by firearms or other weapons, the central and most dangerous form of gang-member violence, in all probability stands today at the highest level it has reached in the history of the nation," the report said.

Evidence indicates that gangs were responsible for 525 murders from 1972 through 1974 in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York and San Francisco, the report continued.

Two important trends, Miller said, concern increasing gang invasions of schools and a growing tendency among some gangs to prey upon innocent citizens.

"To a degree never before reported," he said, "gang members have 'territorialized' the school buildings and their environments."

The most serious and widespread school problems appear to be in Los Angeles, Chicago and Philadelphia, Miller said. Gang members have shot and killed teachers in Chicago and Philadelphia and non-gang students in Chicago and Los Angeles, he noted.

In those and other cities, gangs have beaten and intimidated teachers and students and extorted "fees" from students for the "privilege" of using school cafeterias, gyms and corridors.

Miller said the evidence indicates that 68 per cent of the victims of gang violence are gang members.

"However," he added, there appears to be a trend toward increasing victimization of persons with no gang involvement, especially in New York and Chicago.

Miller said the composition of youth gangs has changed little in this century. Members tend to be males between the ages of 12 and 21, concentrated in low-income ghettos.

Gangs tend to be racially homogeneous. In the six cities with serious problems, Miller concluded that 47 per cent of the gangs are black and 36 per cent Hispanic. In San Francisco, Asian gangs "comprise the bulk of the gang problem."

The report said there may be as many as 2,700 gangs with 81,500 members in the six cities.

As they have for decades, teen-age girls often form auxiliaries such as the "Lady Disciples" but have only rarely developed their own gangs or joined male gangs.

Niles Township Curtailing Fire Department Station

NILES — A shortage of manpower, brought on by budgetary problems facing the Niles township board, has forced a limited shutdown of the township's north fire station, Albert Simons, township fire chief said today. Simons said that effective today the north fire station will be closed parts of 10 days out of each month because three full-time firemen have been laid off.

The north station is one of two in the township operated by a mix of paid and volunteer firemen.

Earlier this month, the township board laid off the three men and cited the financial woes of the township as the reason for the layoff. Simons said that the three men will be granted their due vacation time beginning today and will then be laid off following the vacations.

Simons said with the layoff he and the remaining five fulltime firemen will not be able to keep both stations open on a 24-hour basis.

Simons said the township board is attempting to find a way to bring one of the three laid-off men back in the job. Should one of the men be brought back, the north station could be manned on a 24-hour basis, he added.

In a related matter, contract talks between the firemen's union and the township board have gone to arbitration. The two sides have been unable to come to terms of a new contract and have cited the township's uncertain financial future as one of the reasons for the impasse.

Weather Study Predicts Famines

and Southwest would be drier. It said this probably would not significantly affect food production.

But elsewhere, the report drew a grim picture of the future.

"The new climatic era brings a promise of famine and starvation to many areas of the world .... The economic and political impact of major climatic shifts is almost beyond comprehension."

It also said starvation and famine would lead to social unrest and global migrations of populations.

One entire section of the CIA report was kept secret. Under the section titled "recommendations," was only one word: "deleted."

The report said the climatic changes began in 1960, but were not noticed until recently. It cited as signs of the looming change in climate record rains and cold spells for the last three years from Burma to the United States.

Another CIA report, made public last year, predicted that grave food shortages, despite major U.S. exports, raise a potential risk for the United States.

The CIA report cited the situation as a threat to nations that are not involved in famine conditions.

"There would be increasingly desperate attempts on the part of the powerful, but hungry nations, to get grain any way they could. Massive migrations, sometimes backed by force, would be a live issue and political and economic instability would be widespread," it said.

"In the poor and powerless areas, population would have to drop to levels that could be supported. The population 'problem' would have solved itself in the most unpleasant fashion," said the report.

Asked about the report, Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said it is a warning that new techniques for agricultural production in arid areas must be undertaken.

"The CIA's prediction of global unrest, famine and mass migrations must not become a reality. We can and we must take the initiative in developing a long-term program to alter current production and consumption patterns to make more grain available for the affected areas," Richmond said.

He also said he would urge the House Agriculture Committee to immediately start hearings into the problem to guarantee a comprehensive policy to guarantee sufficient food supply.

Getting ready for the next 200 years

73,050 days of liberty and law! Think of it. Celebrate it. But resist the temptation to fall back into that special kind of stupor induced by smugness. There is a high – more dangerous than drugs or alcohol – that comes from fantasies of superiority.

73,050 days! We began our journey as a nation with a masterpiece – the American Constitution – to guide us.

We fought nine major wars in charting our destiny, a destiny filled with triumph and tragedy. We toasted freedom but let ourselves be trapped into slavery. Our technology conquered a continent, but the pollution it created threatens our tomorrow.

Now is the time to be getting ready for the next 200 years. To be free is to be alive to what needs to be done. To be free is to be aware that the past has a vote in our lives, not a veto.

73,050 days of liberty and law! Let us celebrate in wisdom – a strong people getting ready for tomorrow.

Lethargic Ali Wins Unanimous Decision

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Jimmy Young, virtually ignored by Muhammad Ali during the final week of training for their heavyweight title bout, finally caught the champ's attention.

Ducking under many punches and hitting just as hard as Ali, Young fought the longest and best bout of an undistinguished career Friday night before losing a unanimous decision which added little or nothing to Ali's stature.

It did, however, add $1.6 million to Ali's always-enlarging bank account. Young made just $75,000, but still enjoyed his best payday ever.

"I underestimated Jimmy Young," Ali admitted. "I didn't know he was so awkward and hard to hit. I took him too lightly. I almost lost the fight."

Angelo Dundee, Ali's veteran trainer, went much further in analyzing the champion's lacklustre effort in the first heavyweight championship bout in the Washington, D.C., area since 1941.

"It was probably the worst fight of his career," Dundee said. "He's had better nights, and I hope he never has any worse ones. But I'm glad he got this out of the way, so he can be better in Munich."

The reference was to Ali's next title defense in Germany on May 25 against European champion Richard Dunn.

The Dunn bout and an expected fall match against Ken Norton, one of two boxers to best Ali in 53 career bouts, was very much on the champion's mind as he trained for Young.

Overweight as well as overconfident, Ali learned that Young is a much better fighter than when they opposed each other in three 1973 exhibitions.

Judge Larry Barrett gave Ali the edge by only 70-68, judge Terry Moore gave the champion the edge 71-64, and referee Tom Kelly called it 77-65. The Associated Press saw it for Young, 69-66.

After the bout before 12,472 fans in Capital Centre, Young told a noisy news conference attended by many fans and other outsiders gathered in the arena delivery runway that he thought he had won.

"I really thought y'all had a new heavyweight champion," said the 27-year-old from Philadelphia. "I really thought I had won."

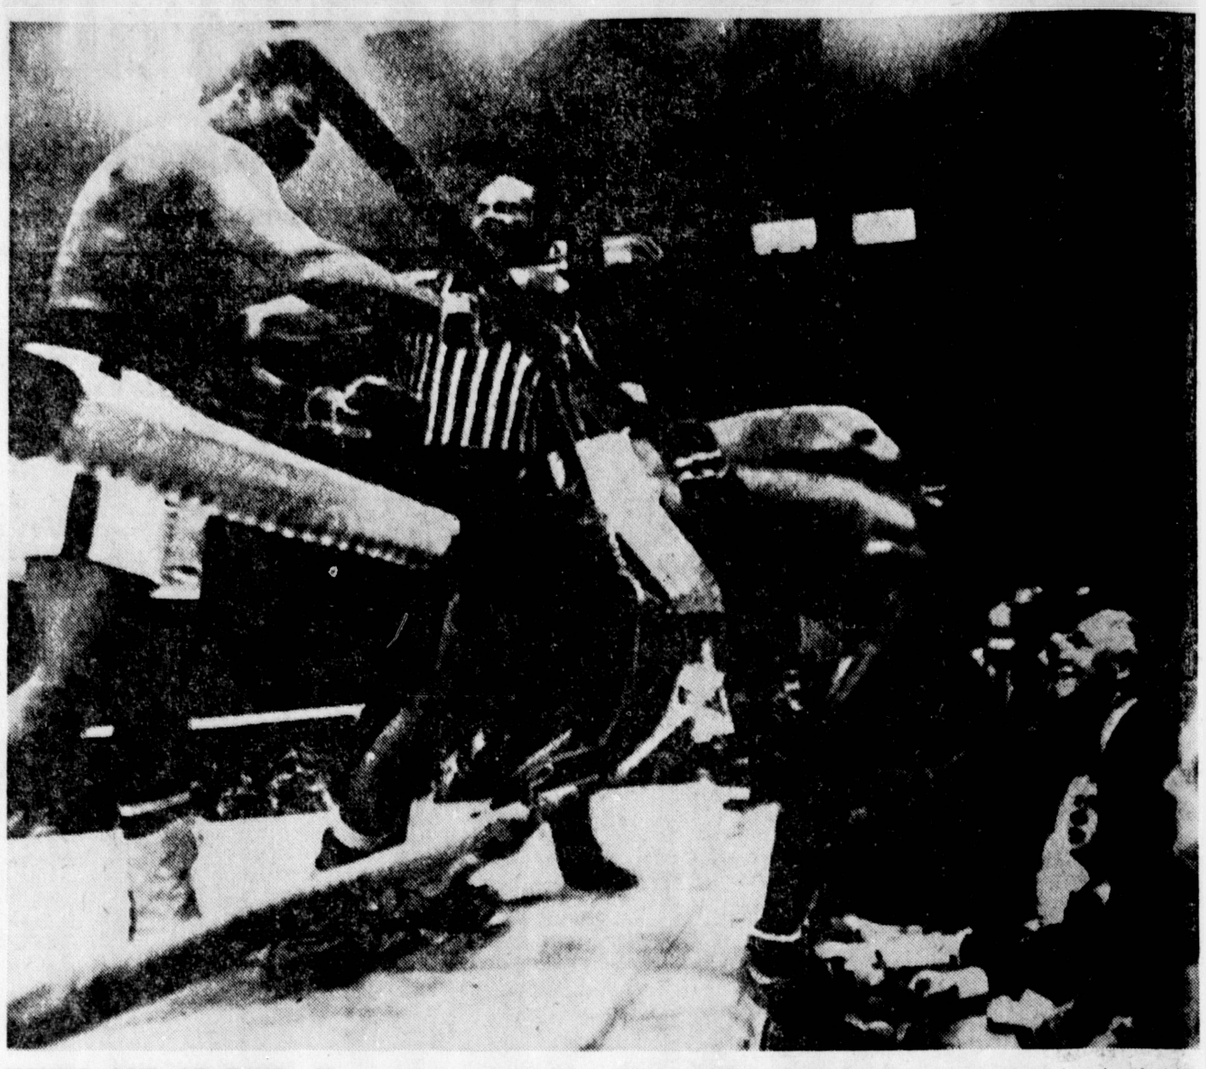

Young said he thought he deserved a rematch, a suggestion seconded by both Ali and promoter Don King. But with Ali's projected schedule for the rest of the year, a rematch seems unlikely.

Ali, in fact, contended his biggest mistake was "contracting myself to fight too much this year."

In addition to the bout against Young and the likely one with Norton, Ali also will take on Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki in Tokyo on June 26.

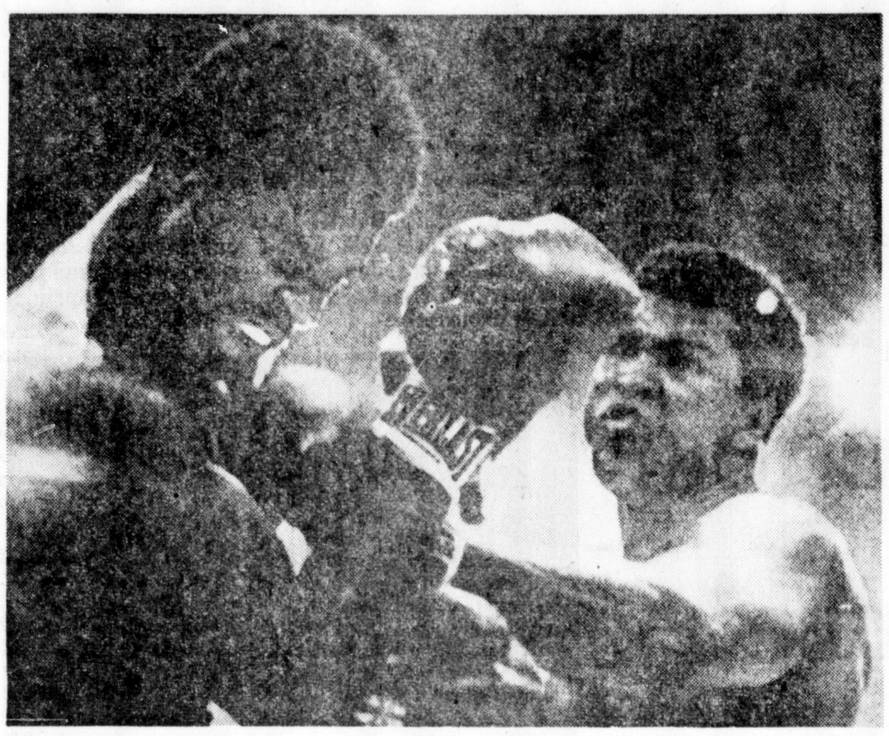

Norton outclassed Ron Stander and won a technical knockout at 1:19 of the fifth round of their preliminary bout.

Cut in about five places, Stander's face was a bloody pulp by the time referee Harry Chechini stopped the mismatch.

Young Thought He Had Won Ali's Title

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Challenger Jimmy Young said he really thought he had taken the heavyweight championship away from Muhammad Ali. Many of the spectators thought so, also.

Young, a 27-year-old Philadelphian, figured to be just another bout for Ali, who proudly proclaimed during the two weeks before the fight he would beat him easily in keeping his schedule of a match per month.

Young, however, surprised the overweight Ali. The champion had to go the full 15 rounds of their title fight Friday night before narrowly retaining his crown with a unanimous but controversial decision.

"I really thought y'all had a new heavyweight champion," said Young, who didn't appear outwardly downheartened by the loss. "I really thought I won the fight.

"I had told everyone the last five rounds would decide it," he said. "After the tenth round, I thought I would pull it out.

"I was never hurt, although I was dazed early in about the sixth round when he hit me with a solid shot. But I was hurt more in the gym than I was tonight. I'm not marked up," said Young.

Ali, who came into the fight at the heaviest weight in his career, 230, admitted afterwards that "I underestimated Jimmy Young. I didn't know that Jimmy Young was as awkward and as hard to hit as he was. He's fast. I took him too lightly.

"I was too heavy, eating ice cream and stuff," he said. "I almost sloughed it up and lost the fight."

Ali said "the way Young was fighting tonight he would have beaten Ken Norton, George Foreman and Joe Frazier. He hits awfully hard. My people said he couldn't hit, but he could."

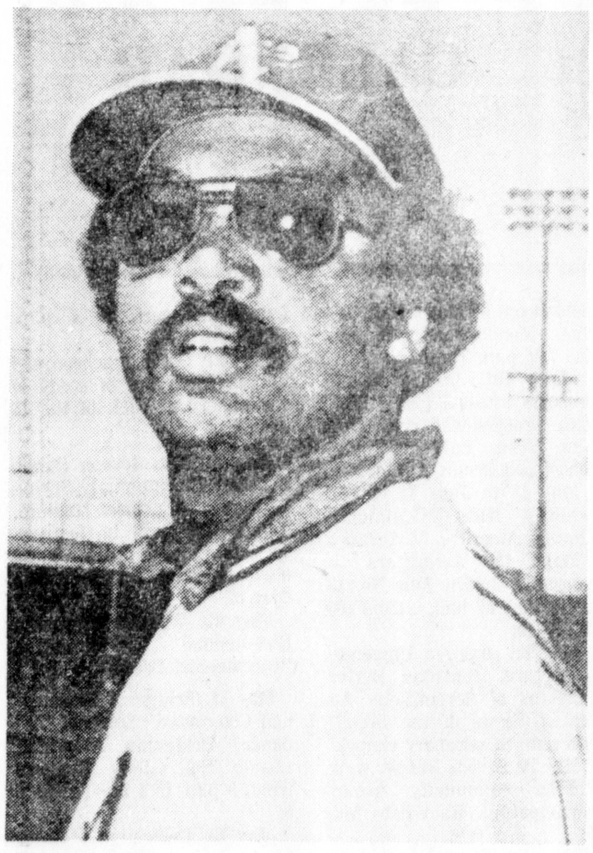

Ali said, however, that he thought he had won the fight because "I was the most aggressive."

Ali also said Young hurt his cause several times because he kept ducking through the ropes. "They counted that as a knockdown so that hurt him."

The challenger said the ducking through the ropes was part of his strategy "to keep the pressure off me. I had a few tricks, I even used the rope-a-dope."

Young said he believed he should have a return fight. Ali agreed, as did Don King, who promoted the bout here.

"The man is good and y'all know it," said Ali as he sat next to Young. "I predict he is the next champion of the world as soon as I retire."

Edge Past Pistons 118-116 In Overtime

Warriors Capture NBA Series

From Associated Press

DETROIT (AP) — A man named Smith and a guy named Gus have sent the Detroit Pistons on a four-month vacation and have put Golden State in the semifinals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"We gave it all we had but that was not enough," moaned Pistion center Bob Lanier, whose 30 points, 16 rebounds and seven blocked shots nearly kept Detroit alive in the best-of-seven quarterfinal.

But, with the consistency of Phil Smith and a super scoring spurt by substitute Gus Williams, Golden State nipped the Pistons, 118-116, Friday in overtime to win their quarterfinal round four games to two.

The Warriors now take on the Phoenix Suns in one semifinal, with that best-of-seven series beginning Sunday in Oakland.

Detroit, meanwhile, has until next fall to regroup.

"We've been a strange ballclub," Lanier said. "I forget who wrote it, but they were right. We were like Heckle and Jeckle."

He meant the Pistons were like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in the series. They were totally outclassed in the opener, 127-103, then came back to soundly beat the Warriors, 123-111. Golden State won the third game easily, 113-96, and the Pistons came back to win the next, 106-102. Wednesday they were stomped, 128-109, only to play the Warriors on a nearly even par in the finale.

"We were in this for our lives," said Warrior Coach Al Attles. "Nothing came easy for us. It seemed like a 10-game series..."

Warrior forward Rick Barry, booed throughout the second half after protesting a foul call, said: "We won four games and they made us battle all the way. They made us earn this victory."

Piston Coach Herb Brown said, "I wouldn't do anything differently if we had to do it over again, and I don't think that Attles would, either."

There wasn't much Detroit could do about Smith. The 6-foot-4, second-year guard from San Francisco had seven assists and poured in 37 points — giving him 177 for the six games, a 28.3 average.

Williams, a 6-2 rookie guard from Southern Cal, didn't play in the first half but scored 14 of his 16 points in the third quarter when Golden State pulled ahead. It was then nip-and-tuck to the end. Detroit had led by as many as 16 points in the second period.

"I'm glad my coach had confidence in me," Williams said. "...I don't think I ever had a game like this one personally, certainly never a quarter."

The 6-11 Lanier said Smith was the key: "...Phil Smith is the guy who kills you. He's a guy you can't stop. He crushes us. That's the way it's been all year."

In the opposite locker room Attles was saying: "Bob Lanier dominated this game and the series. He caused us some problems."

Lanier blocked two Derrek Dickey shots in the closing seconds of regulation to send the game into overtime at 110-110. Jamaal Wilkes scored four of the Warriors' eight overtime points. Smith got two and Cliff Ray two. Detroit could only manage one basket in the last 2:47.

Wilkes wound up with 18 points and Barry had 21. Howard Porter scored 27, Eric Money 16 and Curtis Rowe 14 for Detroit.

Dave Cowens was a big lift for the Boston Celtics and a big letdown for the Buffalo Braves.

"Dave Cowens is just Dave Cowens — what else can you say? He was just great!" exulted Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn after his brawny center helped the Celtics beat the Braves 99-88 in the National Basketball Association playoffs Friday night.

Cowens scored 30 points and picked off 16 rebounds as Boston took a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven-game Eastern Conference semifinals.

"He's just great at his job," Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay said of Cowens. "Their two guys — Paul Silas and Cowens — get morbffensive rebounds than any two guys in the league. We have to run better and execute better in our next game in Buffalo if we expect to return to Boston for a seventh game."

The Celtics have a shot to wrap up the series in Buffalo Sunday afternoon. If a seventh game is necessary, it will be played in Boston next Wednesday night. The winner will face the Cleveland Cavaliers for the East championship.

Bob McAdoo led Buffalo scorers with 23 points.

Sox Break Losing Streak By Turning Back Tigers

From Associated Press

Baseball being a game of percentages, it had to happen to the Detroit Tigers sooner or later, and the Chicago White Sox blasted the Tigers 8-4 Friday night.

"It just wasn't our night," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk. "We were due for a game like that. A lot of their hits just fell in...down the line or bloopers over second base.

"That's the first time we've lost a game by more than one run this year," said Houk, who thought for a second and added, "Still, if Alex Johnson could have gotten on base in the ninth, that would have brought Willie (Horton) to the plate with the tying run."

Johnson didn't get on and Horton didn't get to bat again and the White Sox, behind solid hitting and good pitching by Terry Forster, shattered a five-game losing streak.

Forster, who worked only 37 innings all last season because of arm trouble, was backed by four double plays and hurled as far as the eighth inning when he decided to throw Horton a straight changeup with a man in base.

Horton obliged with his fifth homer of the year and Forster left in favor of Dave Hamilton, who finished the game, though he was nicked for a run in the ninth on doubles by John Wockenfuss and Ron LeFlore.

"I would never have given him that straight change if we didn't have a big lead," said a happy Forster, who has been inserted in the starting rotation at the age of 24 after toiling for five years in the White Sox bullpen.

"I felt good. My control was around the plate and I was hitting the corners. I guess I got a little tired near the end. But those double plays really helped," said Forster.

Sox Manager Paul Richards agreed, adding, "A good offense gives your defense a chance. We got some hitting for a change. Forster pitched very well and Pete Varney has been hitting well all season."

Varney, who Richards says "is a good handler of pitchers, but we still have to work on his throwing," has emerged as the team's leading slugger.

Varney hit a pair of doubles Friday night to go along with his team-leading three homers and a .300 average.

Jorge Orta's homer in the fourth inning got the Sox started against loser Ray Bare, who was raked for two more runs in the inning on a double by Carlos May and singles by Jim Spencer and Bucky Dent.

The Sox added two more runs in the fifth on singles by Pat Kelly, Ralph Garr, a couple of walks and another single by Spencer. They wrapped it up with three more runs in the sixth on doubles by Varney and Kelly, a single by Orta and an error which led to two unearned runs.

Any hopes the Tigers might have had of catching up were erased by four inning-ending double plays in the first, fourth, fifth and seventh innings.

The two clubs meet again Saturday with Bart Johnson, 1-1, hurling for the Sox against Detroit's Vern Ruhle, 0-0.

Mike Torrez came home to Baltimore Friday night and found the Orioles to be congenial hosts. In fact, Torrez almost continued straight on to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Ferguson Jenkins, however, was welcomed rudely on his return to Texas.

Torrez, 20-9 in his only year in Baltimore, pitched 5 2-3 nohit innings and finished with a two-hitter as the Oakland A's crushed the Orioles 11-1.

Meanwhile, the Rangers tattooed Jenkins for nine hits and five runs in 61-3 innings, then held on for a 6-5 triumph over the Boston Red Sox and the hurler who won 42 games in a Texas uniform the last two seasons.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees beat the Kansas City Royals 5-3 and the Cleveland Indians downed the California Angels 5-2. Milwaukee and Minnesota were not scheduled.

Torrez' no-hit bid was spoiled when Al Bumbry slashed a hopping single off shortstop Bert Campaneiis' glove with two out in the sixth inning.

"When I saw it hit off Campy's glove I just closed my eyes and thought, 'There it goes.' Still, this was by far my best game this year and it gave me a lot of satisfaction to be able to pitch that way," Torrez said.

The A's scored their first four runs off Jim Palmer and wrapped it up with seven in the ninth, two on a homer by Sal Bando.

The big blows off Jenkins were Tom Grieve's solo homer and John Ellis' three-run double. The Rangers built a 6-0 lead behind Jim Umbarger and then withstood a four-run Boston rally in the ninth.

Fred Stanley and Mickey Rivers belted consecutive triples and Thurman Munson slugged a two-run homer as the Yankees rallied for three runs in the fifth inning. That was enough to give Catfish Hunter his second victory in five decisions on a six-hitter.

George Hendrick blasted a three-run homer off reliever Dick Drago in the bottom of the ninth after Buddy Bell doubled and Rico Carty, attempting to sacrifice, beat out a bunt. Jim Kern picked up the victory with 32-3 innings of scoreless relief. Bobby Bonds homered for the Angels.

Judge Byrns To New Americans: 'Liberty' Doesn't Mean 'License'

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns presided over ceremonies at the old county courthouse here yesterday as 18 county residents became U.S. citizens.

The naturalization ceremonies in the 1839 courthouse, probably the oldest public building in Michigan still in use, launched a series of activities scheduled during the next two weeks in observance of national Law Day.

Following the ceremony, Judge Byrns told the new citizens that the rights and privileges of being an American citizen "will not continue without individual sacrifice, hard work, responsibility, respect for the rights of others, and obedience to the laws of man and nature."

Speaking on "The Abuse of Rights," Byrns said: "To no nation in history have so many rights been given to so many and yet been so abused, exploited and prostituted as in these United States."

"Our legal system should, of course, strive for perfection;" Byrns said. "We must recognize, however, that absolutely perfect justice is a divine quality. It is not a human achievement. Therefore, the creation, as we have witnessed, of many technical and artificial rules and procedures has not in balance gained greater justice for the innocent.

They have, however, proven golden opportunities for the guilty who in turn have turned many areas of our young nation into wild jungles. They have created mass disrespect for the law, and the courts and lawyers, not only by the criminals, but also by much of the society who commit no crimes.

"A free press is surely the best sentinel of freedom our democracy can have," Byrns stated. "The freedom to inquire, to report and to criticize must be preserved at all costs. But surely this does not mean that the right of a free press must include seeing on the same newsstand as the New York Times and other newspapers, the front covers of a large variety of magazines showing 'in vivid, living color,' the raw male and female sexual organs by themselves or in various forms of copulation.

"The right to free speech carries with it the duty of responsibility. I cannot agree with those who claim, directly or indirectly, that it includes the right to misrepresent or the right to destroy without good cause the honor or credibility of another man, or institution or of this nation.

"Patrick Henry, who undoubtedly was the greatest orator of the revolutionary era, would never agree that free speech gives the right to encourage or to incite people to arson, riot, pillage, bomb and destroy, or maim and kill in order to compell their will or goals on a free society such as ours.

"Last week I was in the city of Boston, which to many Americans in a historical sense is the cradle of American freedom. Here is a city, famed for its culture and sense of civilization, where the abuse of so called rights has so damaged civic responsibility that the courthouse was bombed the day before I arrived. In the same week in Boston mobs in racial hate attacked and severely injured innocent people. This distinguished city is a city full of hatred resulting from an abuse and misunderstanding of what the rights of citizenship really are.

"The liberty we honor, especially this Bicentennial year, is not a license or freedom to crime," Byrns said. "It is not the right to pollute the minds with printed or pictorial filth. It is not the right to destroy or terrorize a political or an economic system, which has given us two centuries of greatness, freedom and prosperity, unknown ever to mankind.

"It is popular today to shift the blame for the moral disintegration around us to corruption among some leaders in government summed up in the word 'Watergate.' This won't wash. It ignores the fact that in a free nation, where the people chose their leaders, corruption does not come from the leaders down to the people but rather from the people up to the government.

"The liberty this nation's fathers created and the rights that flow from it is the right to be free to develop your physical, intellectual and spiritual talents to their best potential. It is the right to create and build and to enjoy the fruits of your work and talents. It is the right to responsibly speak and write against that which threatens the nation; its form of government or its people or yourself.

"As the late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes said, 'Liberty implies the absence of arbitrary restraint, not the immunity from reasonable regulations and prohibitions imposed in the interests of the community.'

"Today, then, let us speak and think of rights as responsibilities; as opportunities for self development and for development of our community and nation," Byrns concluded. "Let us use our rights as the means for preventing this nation and its form of government from ever being injured or destroyed, either from forces outside our boundaries, or, more probably, from within the nation itself."

WARNS AGAINST ABUSES: Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns presided at naturalization ceremony Friday for 18 new U.S. citizens by warning against abuses of constitutional rights.

Four More Are Fined

Four more hunters pleaded guilty Friday in Berrien Fifth District court to charges of violation of the 1976 wild turkey drawing rules by submitting their names more than once for a permit.

Sentenced to fine and costs of $33 were Garry D. Kanyuh, 17, of 1764 Colfax, and James Visin, 17, of 2235 Meadowbrook, both of Benton township; Harry A. Lausman Jr., 28, of 1890 Santa Maria drive, Stevensville; and Samuel E. Miracle, 42, of Hillandale road, Eau Claire.

According to Bill Edwards, state conservation officer, persons trying for a permit in the annual drawing can only submit one application under Department of Natural Resources' regulations.

Bangor Outlasts Shamrocks To Win Blossomtime Relays

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — With all the suspense of a Hollywood movie script, Bangor had to wait until the final event was finished before winning the 24th running of the Blossomtime Relays held here Friday night.

The Vikings ended up with 42 points, just edging out Berrien Springs which totaled 40 points. Watervliet was third with 34 points and Bridgman and Lake Michigan Catholic tied for fourth with 32 points.

The meet came down to the pole vault which finished by automobile headlight an hour past the last running event. Bangor led the Shamrocks 42-38 going into the pole vault so Berrien needed to finish at least two places ahead of Bangor to tie for top spot.

To add to the drama, both schools and Watervliet ended up tieing for fourth spot at a combined height of 20' 6". In a complicated decision involving less misses throughout the competition, Watervliet took fourth spot, Berrien Springs was fifth and Bangor was sixth.

The Shamrocks thus earned two points for their finish and Bangor received none, but the Vikings still ended up winning the relays.

This year two events were changed and Bangor's head coach, Terry Glidden, felt that both benefited his team. The pole vault was made a two-man relay instead of three and the sprint medley was shortened.

In past years the medley had been a 440-220-220-440, but this year the sponsoring Jaycees started and ended it with a 110.

"When they changed the sprint medley, it really helped us," grinned Glidden. "We are strong in the sprints, but not that strong in the quarter mile."

Bangor showed its sprint strength by winning the 880, 440 and sprint medley relays. James Crawford, David Gregory, Tom Tripp and Gary Lowder combined to win both the 880 and 440 and Gregory, Crawford and Lowder combined with Leon Huntley to take the sprint medley.

"The sprinters did the job," Glidden said. "But what surprised me was taking second in the sprint distance because we haven't been that strong in the distance.

"I never dreamed we would win," he added.

Berrien Springs only took one first place, but it broke a five-year old record. The distance medley team of Kevin Carmichael, Rick Ruhl, Arden Paustian and Pat Pennington ran an 11:39.1, bettering the old mark of 11:44.7 set by Bangor in 1971.

The only other record set was by Decatur's half-mile medley relay team of Mike Wilson, Dennis Warkentien, Paul Gardner and Corney Phelps. They ran a 1:42.2, bettering the old record of 1:42.8 set by Bangor in 1970.

FRIDAY'S RESULTS

McAdams Fires No-Hitter

Al McAdams pitched Decatur right back into the thick of the SAC baseball race Friday.

McAdams, a senior righthander, hurled a no-hitter at Martin as the Raiders captured a 2-0 decision.

The victory upped Decatur's league mark to 4-1, while Martin fell for the first time in four SAC games. Bloomingdale, which ripped Lawton 11-4 Friday, remains on top in the league race with a perfect 4-0 record.

In other league play Friday, Lawrence outlasted Marcellus 19-12 and Gobles swept a non-league doubleheader from Grand Rapids Baptist Academy by scores of 18-1 and 14-0.

McAdams fanned four and walked just two in his near-perfect effort. He faced just 25 batters.

"It's easily the best he's looked all year," Decatur coach Jack Gleason said. "He's really coming into his own now. He's keeping the ball down and is thinking more."

Decatur gave McAdams the only run he needed in the first inning when Kurt Wiese, now batting .714, singled, stole second and scored on a single by Mike High.

Jeff Melvin drove in four runs with a triple and two singles in Bloomingdale's victory. Mike Stone added three RBIs with a double and two singles and Pat Barnes collected three singles for the winners.

A total of 31 runs, 26 hits and 17 errors were amassed in the wild Lawrence-Marcellus contest. Lawrence broke a tie with seven runs in the sixth inning and held on for the win.

Dave Congdon blasted a double and three singles and drove in four runs for the winners. Matt Mills added three singles.

Rick Thompson slapped three singles and drove in three runs for Marcellus.

Jim Hansen pitched a no-hitter in the first game and Doug Adams hurled a one-hitter in the second as Gobles swept the twin bill to run its overall record to 4-4.

Hansen fanned 12 and walked just two, while Adams struck 11 and issued just two free passes.

Brian Clement was the hitting star in the doubleheader for Gobles. All Clement did was collect a double, two singles and four walks in eight trips to the plate. He also stole eight bases and scored seven runs.

Comets Get By Eddies

COLOMA — Dan Saiz pitched a one-hitter Friday to spark Coloma to a 5-4 Blossomland conference baseball win over Edwardsburg here.

The win moved the Comets into a second-place tie in the league with River Valley. Both stand 5-2 and trail first-place Buchanan (6-1) by one game.

Saiz struck out eight and walked four, but still trailed 4-0 after the Edwardsburg half of the fourth inning. But the Comet bats came to life in the home half of the frame.

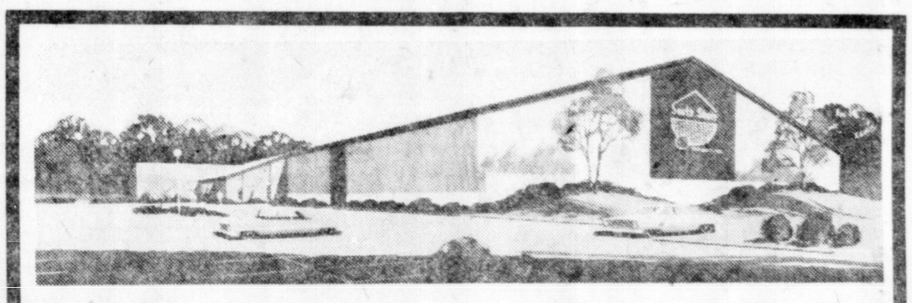

Bill Genovese's double and a pair of walks loaded the bases. Dewey Wheeler drove in one run with a single and Gregg Woodward and Dan Davis each plated a pair with consecutive singles for the final 5-4 margin.

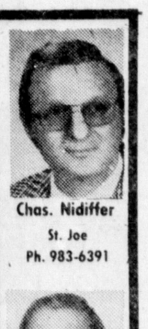

Dan Correll took the loss for the Eddies (2-4), despite striking out 13.

Lethargic Ali Wins Unanimous Decision

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Jimmy Young, virtually ignored by Muhammad Ali during the final week of training for their heavyweight title bout, finally caught the champ's attention.

Ducking under many punches and hitting just as hard as Ali, Young fought the longest and best bout of an undistinguished career Friday night before losing a unanimous decision which added little or nothing to Ali's stature.

It did, however, add $1.6 million to Ali's always-enlarging bank account. Young made just $75,000, but still enjoyed his best payday ever.

"I underestimated Jimmy Young," Ali admitted. "I didn't know he was so awkward and hard to hit. I took him too lightly. I almost lost the fight."

Angelo Dundee, Ali's veteran trainer, went much further in analyzing the champion's lacklustre effort in the first heavyweight championship bout in the Washington, D.C., area since 1941.

"It was probably the worst fight of his career," Dundee said. "He's had better nights, and I hope he never has any worse ones. But I'm glad he got this out of the way, so he can be better in Munich."

The reference was to Ali's next title defense in Germany on May 25 against European champion Richard Dunn.

The Dunn bout and an expected fall match against Ken Norton, one of two boxers to best Ali in 53 career bouts, was very much on the champion's mind as he trained for Young.

Overweight as well as overconfident, Ali learned that Young is a much better fighter than when they opposed each other in three 1973 exhibitions.

Judge Larry Barrett gave Ali the edge by only 70-68, judge Terry Moore gave the champion the edge 71-64, and referee Tom Kelly called it 77-65. The Associated Press saw it for Young, 69-66.

After the bout before 12,472 fans in Capital Centre, Young told a noisy news conference attended by many fans and other outsiders gathered in the arena delivery runway that he thought he had won.

"I really thought y'all had a new heavyweight champion," said the 27-year-old from Philadelphia. "I really thought I had won."

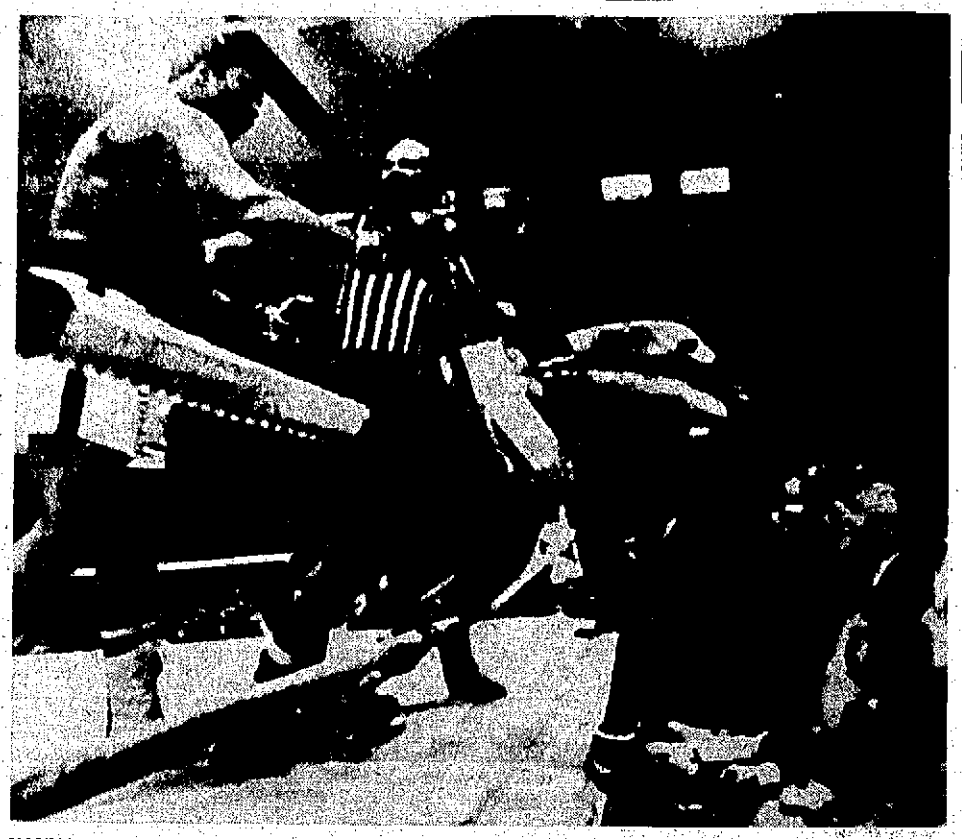

Young said he thought he deserved a rematch, a suggestion seconded by both Ali and promoter Don King. But with Ali's projected schedule for the rest of the year, a rematch seems unlikely.

Ali, in fact, contended his biggest mistake was "contracting myself to fight too much this year."

In addition to the bout against Young and the likely one with Norton, Ali also will take on Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki in Tokyo on June 26.

Norton outclassed Ron Stander and won a technical knockout at 1:19 of the fifth round of their preliminary bout.

Cut in about five places, Stander's face was a bloody pulp by the time referee Harry Chechini stopped the mismatch.

Edge Past Pistons 118-116 In Overtime

Warriors Capture NBA Series

From Associated Press

DETROIT (AP) — A man named Smith and a guy named Gus have sent the Detroit Pistons on a four-month vacation and have put Golden State in the semifinals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"We gave it all we had but that was not enough," moaned Piston center Bob Lanier, whose 30 points, 16 rebounds and seven blocked shots nearly kept Detroit alive in the best-of-seven quarterfinal.

But, with the consistency of Phil Smith and a super scoring spurt by substitute Gus Williams, Golden State nipped the Pistons, 118-116, Friday in overtime to win their quarterfinal round four games to two.

The Warriors now take on the Phoenix Suns in one semifinal, with that best-of-seven series beginning Sunday in Oakland.

Detroit, meanwhile, has until next fall to regroup.

"We've been a strange ballclub," Lanier said. "I forget who wrote it, but they were right. We were like Heckle and Jeckle."

He meant the Pistons were like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in the series. They were totally outclassed in the opener, 127-103, then came back to soundly beat the Warriors, 123-111. Golden State won the third game easily, 113-96, and the Pistons came back to win the next, 106-102. Wednesday they were stomped, 128-109, only to play the Warriors on a nearly even par in the finale.

"We were in this for our lives," said Warrior Coach Al Attles. "Nothing came easy for us: It seemed like a 10-game series..."

Warrior forward Rick Barry, booed throughout the second half after protesting a foul call, said: "We won four games and they made us battle all the way. They made us earn this victory."

Piston Coach Herb Brown said, "I wouldn't do anything differently if we had to do it over again, and I don't think that Attles would, either."

There wasn't much Detroit could do about Smith. The 6-foot-4, second-year guard from San Francisco had seven assists and poured in 37 points — giving him 177 for the six games, a 28.3 average.

Williams, a 6-2 rookie guard from Southern Cal, didn't play in the first half but scored 14 of his 16 points in the third quarter when Golden State pulled ahead. It was then nip-and-tuck to the end. Detroit had led by as many as 16 points in the second period.

"I'm glad my coach had confidence in me," Williams said. "...I don't think I ever had a game like this one personally, certainly never a quarter."

The 6-11 Lanier said Smith was the key: "...Phil Smith is the guy who kills you. He's a guy you can't stop. He crushes us. That's the way it's been all year."

In the opposite locker room Attles was saying: "Bob Lanier dominated this game and the series. He caused us some problems."

Lanier blocked two Derrek Dickey shots in the closing seconds of regulation to send the game into overtime at 110-110. Jamaal Wilkes scored four of the Warriors' eight overtime points. Smith got two and Cliff Ray two. Detroit could only manage one basket in the last 2:47.

Wilkes wound up with 18 points and Barry had 21. Howard Porter scored 27, Eric Money 16 and Curtis Rowe 14 for Detroit.

Dave Cowens was a big lift for the Boston Celtics and a big letdown for the Buffalo Braves.

"Dave Cowens is just Dave Cowens — what else can you say? He was just great!" exulted Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn after his brawny center helped the Celtics beat the Braves 99-88 in the National Basketball Association playoffs Friday night.

Cowens scored 30 points and picked off 16 rebounds as Boston took a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven-game Eastern Conference semifinals.

"He's just great at his job," Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay said of Cowens. "Their two guys — Paul Silas and Cowens — get morbffensive rebounds than any two guys in the league. We have to run better and execute better in our next game in Buffalo if we expect to return to Boston for a seventh game."

The Celtics have a shot to wrap up the series in Buffalo Sunday afternoon. If a seventh game is necessary, it will be played in Boston next Wednesday night. The winner will face the Cleveland Cavaliers for the East championship.

Bob McAdoo led Buffalo scorers with 23 points.

Young Thought He Had Won Ali's Title

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Challenger Jimmy Young said he really thought he had taken the heavyweight championship away from Muhammad Ali. Many of the spectators thought so, also.

Young, a 27-year-old Philadelphian, figured to be just another bout for Ali, who proudly proclaimed during the two weeks before the fight he would beat him easily in keeping his schedule of a match per month.

Young, however, surprised the overweight Ali. The champion had to go the full 15 rounds of their title fight Friday night before narrowly retaining his crown with a unanimous but controversial decision.

"I really thought y'all had a new heavyweight champion," said Young, who didn't appear outwardly downhearted by the loss. "I really thought I won the fight.

"I had told everyone the last five rounds would decide it," he said. "After the tenth round, I thought I would pull it out.

"I was never hurt, although I was dazed early in about the sixth round when he hit me with a solid shot. But I was hurt more in the gym than I was tonight. I'm not marked up," said Young.

Ali, who came into the fight at the heaviest weight in his career, 230, admitted afterwards that "I underestimated Jimmy Young. I didn't know that Jimmy Young was as awkward and as hard to hit as he was. He's fast. I took him too lightly.

"I was too heavy, eating ice cream and stuff," he said. "I almost slaughted it up and lost the fight."

Ali said "the way Young was fighting tonight he would have beaten Ken Norton, George Foreman and Joe Frazier. He hits awfully hard. My people said he couldn't hit, but he could."

Ali said, however, that he thought he had won the fight because "I was the most aggressive."

Ali also said Young hurt his cause several times because he kept ducking through the ropes. "They counted that as a knockdown so that hurt him."

The challenger said the ducking through the ropes was part of his strategy "to keep the pressure off me. I had a few tricks, I even used the rope-a-dope."

Young said he believed he should have a return fight. Ali agreed, as did Don King, who promoted the bout here.

"The man is good and y'all know it," said Ali as he sat next to Young. "I predict he is the next champion of the world as soon as I retire."

Sox Break Losing Streak By Turning Back Tigers

From Associated Press

Baseball being a game of percentages, it had to happen to the Detroit Tigers sooner or later, and the Chicago White Sox blasted the Tigers 8-4 Friday night.

"It just wasn't our night," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk. "We were due for a game like that. A lot of their hits just fell in...down the line or bloopers over second base.

"That's the first time we've lost a game by more than one run this year," said Houk, who thought for a second and added, "Still, if Alex Johnson could have gotten on base in the ninth, that would have brought Willie (Horton) to the plate with the tying run."

Johnson didn't get on and Horton didn't get to bat again and the White Sox, behind solid hitting and good pitching by Terry Forster, shattered a five-game losing streak.

Forster, who worked only 37 innings all last season because of arm trouble, was backed by four double plays and hurled as far as the eighth inning when he decided to throw Horton a straight changeup with a man in base.

Horton obliged with his fifth homer of the year and Forster left in favor of Dave Hamilton, who finished the game, though he was nicked for a run in the ninth on doubles by John Wockenfuss and Ron LeFlore.

"I would never have given him that straight change if we didn't have a big lead," said a happy Forster, who has been inserted in the starting rotation at the age of 24 after toiling for five years in the White Sox bullpen.

"I felt good. My control was around the plate and I was hitting the corners. I guess I got a little tired near the end. But those double plays really helped," said Forster.

Sox Manager Paul Richards agreed, adding, "A good offense gives your defense a chance. We got some hitting for a change. Forster pitched very well and Pete Varney has been hitting well all season."

Varney, who Richards says "is a good handler of pitchers, but we still have to work on his throwing," has emerged as the team's leading slugger.

Varney hit a pair of doubles Friday night to go along with his team-leading three homers and a .300 average.

Jorge Orta's homer in the fourth inning got the Sox started against loser Ray Bare, who was raked for two more runs in the inning on a double by Carlos May and singles by Jim Spencer and Bucky Dent.

The Sox added two more runs in the fifth on singles by Pat Kelly, Ralph Garr, a couple of walks and another single by Spencer. They wrapped it up with three more runs in the sixth on doubles by Varney and Kelly, a single by Orta and an error which led to two unearned runs.

Any hopes the Tigers might have had of catching up were erased by four inning-ending double plays in the first, fourth, fifth and seventh innings.

The two clubs meet again Saturday with Bart Johnson, 1-1, hurling for the Sox against Detroit's Vern Ruhle, 0-0.

Mike Torrez came home to Baltimore Friday night and found the Orioles to be congenial hosts. In fact, Torrez almost continued straight on to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Ferguson Jenkins, however, was welcomed rudely on his return to Texas.

Torrez, 20-9 in his only year in Baltimore, pitched 5 2-3 nohit innings and finished with a two-hitter as the Oakland A's crushed the Orioles 11-1.

Meanwhile, the Rangers tattooed Jenkins for nine hits and five runs in 6 1-3 innings, then held on for a 6-5 triumph over the Boston Red Sox and the hurler who won 42 games in a Texas uniform the last two seasons.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees beat the Kansas City Royals 5-3 and the Cleveland Indians downed the California Angels 5-2. Milwaukee and Minnesota were not scheduled.

Torrez' no-hit bid was spoiled when Al Bumbry slashed a hopping single off shortstop Bert Campaneris' glove with two out in the sixth inning.

"When I saw it hit off Campy's glove I just closed my eyes and thought, 'There it goes.' Still, this was by far my best game this year and it gave me a lot of satisfaction to be able to pitch that way," Torrez said.

The A's scored their first four runs off Jim Palmer and wrapped it up with seven in the ninth, two on a homer by Sal Bando.

The big blows off Jenkins were Tom Grieve's solo homer and John Ellis' three-run double. The Rangers built a 6-0 lead behind Jim Umbarger and then withstood a four-run Boston rally in the ninth.

Fred Stanley and Mickey Rivers belted consecutive triples and Thurman Munson slugged a two-run homer as the Yankees rallied for three runs in the fifth inning. That was enough to give Catfish Hunter his second victory in five decisions on a six-hitter.

George Hendrick blasted a three-run homer off reliever Dick Drago in the bottom of the ninth after Buddy Bell doubled and Rico Carty, attempting to sacrifice, beat out a bunt. Jim Kern picked up the victory with 32-3 innings of scoreless relief, Bobby Bonds homered for the Angels.

Golf Lesson Helps Bench Tee-Off

Reuschel, Cubs Hand San Francisco Fifth Straight Loss

From Associated Press

A basic golf lesson helped Johnny Bench turn Riverfront Stadium into his personal driving range.

"It's just like golf — if I don't stay still with the head, I don't hit," Bench said Friday night after teeing off on Montreal pitching for two home runs.

The cannon shots, Bench's third and fourth homers of the year, led the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-2 victory over the Expos and boosted the catcher's April production to 16 RBI — second best in his career for baseball's opening month.

"Because of my shoulder operation (over the winter), I've developed a bad habit of pulling off the ball," said Bench, "so my golf game has helped me. I feel like things have been going good all week."

The fairway-long drives off Montreal's Dan Warthen reaffirmed Expo Manager Karl Kuehl's faith in Bench Power.

In the other National League games, the New York Mets beat the Houston Astros 3-1; the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the San Diego Padres 4-3 and the Chicago Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 5-2. The game between Philadelphia and Atlanta was rained out.

Bench's three RBI provided the winning runs for Gary Nolan, 2-1, who beat the Expos for the fifth straight time. The Cincinnati right-hander helped his cause by driving in a run with a single while blanking the Expos for seven innings. He gave up three hits in the first three innings, then retired 13 men in a row before Tim Foli singled in the eighth and Ellis Valentine crashed a two-run home run.

Nolan, who gave way to Rawley Eastwick in the ninth, has not lost to the Expos since September 2, 1972. Warthen, 0-2, was the loser.

Jon Matlack scattered seven hits and Del Unser drove in two runs to lead New York to its seventh straight victory. Matlack, 3-0, struck out four Houston batters and walked two. Joe Niekro, 1-4, took the loss.

Rick Rhoden fired a six-hitter and Los Angeles collected 12 hits in beating St. Louis for its seventh straight victory. Former Cardinal Ted Sizemore had three of the Dodgers' hits and drove in a run.

Jim Rooker and Ramon Hernandez held San Diego to five hits before Bob Moose snuffed out a ninth-inning rally as Pittsburgh nipped the Padres.

Bill Madlock belted a pair of doubles and a single and Jose Cardenal and Manny Trillo each knocked in two runs to boost the Chicago Cubs to a 5-2 victory.

Rick Reuschel, 1-1, scattered seven hits and survived some early trouble in handing the Giants their fifth straight defeat.

Madlock singled, stole second, went to third on Jerry Morales' sacrifice and scored on Trillo's safety squeeze for a 1-0 lead in the third off loser Ed Halicki, 2-3.

The Giants tied it in the bottom of the inning on Dave Rader's double, Halicki's sacrifice and Von Joshua's single, but the Cubs went ahead to stay in the fifth, on Madlock's double and Trillo's two-out single.

Chicago added three runs in the sixth. Singles by Steve Swisher and Dave Rosello and a walk to Reuschel loaded the bases with none out. Cardenal cracked a two-run single with one away and Morales capped the rally with his sacrifice fly.

The Giants added a run in the seventh on Chris Speier's double and Ken Reitz' single.

Two-Horse Race Expected Today

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Honest Pleasure, winner of nine straight races, and Bold Forbes, the Wood Memorial winner, were expected to go to the front at the start of today's $216,700 Kentucky Derby and battle to the wire before more than 100,000 fans at Churchill Downs.

There was a good chance of rain for the 102nd running of the 1¼-mile event which has drawn a field of nine 3-year-old colts. Post time was set for 5:40 p.m., EDT.

"It's not a match race," said Leroy Jolley, who trains Honest Pleasure for owner Bert Firestone. "In a match race, the only thing you have behind you are the tractors unless the pony boy gets into the act."

"Bold Forbes can have as many lengths as he wants in the first part — they pay off on the last part of the race. I'm satisfied with him. He's a fresh horse coming into this race and that's what I wanted."

Braulio Baeza had the mount on Honest Pleasure, who was coming off stakes triumphs in the Flamingo, Florida Derby and Blues Grass.

Angel Cordero rode Bold Forbes, owned by Puerto Rico's E. Rodriguez Tizol. Trainer Laz Barrera said of his colt, "Bold Forbes has enough speed that, if he breaks good, he'll be on the lead. If that other horse (Honest Pleasure) wants the lead, he's going to have to go on."

In pre-Derby mutuel wagering held Friday, Honest Pleasure's odds dropped from an early line of 3-5 to 1-2. Bold Forbes went from 9-5 to 7-2 as a record crowd for the day before the Derby — 43,793 — bet $318,367.

Eugene Cashman's Elocutionist, the Arkansas Derby winner, remained the third pick with his odds dropping from 12-1 to 10-1. John Lively had the mount.

The remainder of the field, with jockeys and new odds: Elmendorf Farm's Play The Red, Jorge Velasquez, 12-1; Balmak Stable's On The Sly, Greg McCarron, 20-1; Jim Irvin's Amano, Larry Melancon, 30-1; Entremont Stable's Cojak, Chris McCarron, 30-1; Charles Jarrel's Inca Roca, Will Nemeti, 45-1, and Sared Stable's Bidson, Don MacBerth, 50-1.

All were to carry 126 pounds. The winning purse was to be $165,200 with second place worth $30,000, $15,000 for third and $7,500 to fourth.

Leader Niles, St. Joseph Post Big Seven Triumphs

Arnie White continues to make Niles the team to beat in the Big Seven baseball race.

White hurled a three-hitter Friday as the Vikings blanked Portage Northern 3-0 to run their league record to 5-0.

Now 4-0 in league play himself, White fanned six and walked just three in the shutout performance.

In other Big Seven action Friday, St. Joseph rallied to top Kalamazoo Loy Norrix 7-5 and Battle Creek Lakeview toppled Holland 7-3.

White helped his own cause at bat, slamming a double and a single and driving in one run. Duff Plummer doubled in another run for the winners, now 7-2 overall.

Rick Dyer was St. Joe's hero. Dyer slammed two home runs and a double and drove in five runs as the Bears ran their Big Seven record to 2-2.

Dyer's three-run homer gave the Bears a quick lead in the first inning. St. Joe made it 5-0 in the third on a single by Mike Coller, Dyer's double and a single by Steve Toney.

After Norrix tied the game with a five-run fifth inning, St. Joe pulled it out with two runs in the seventh. Collier tripled and then scored on an overthrow. Dyer then added an insurance run with his second homer.

Herb Ross chipped in pair of singles for the Bears, now 3-6 overall.

Shamrocks Bury Bridgman To Stay Perfect In Arrow

Berrien Springs kept a firm grip on the Red Arrow baseball lead Friday night, blasting Bridgman 10-4.

The win was Berrien's sixth without a loss in the league, while Bridgman fell to 2-4.

Barry Adams picked up the victory for the Shamrocks and also helped his own cause at the plate, banging out a pair of singles and driving in three runs.

Tim Sunday added a triple and a single to the Berrien attack.

Dan Kamradt slugged out a double and two singles for the Bees, while Tom Meredith, Mark Krieger and Neal Smith each chipped in a pair of hits.

In other Red Arrow play Friday, New Buffalo stopped Galien 4-2 behind the combined pitching of Carl Underwood and Rennie Robinson. Underwood went the first four innings to pick up the win and Robinson finished up.

New Buffalo actually scored enough runs to clinch the verdict in the first inning. Don Rogers singled and scored on DuWayne Mangold's two-run homer. Robinson then singled, advanced to second on an error and scored on a fielder's choice.

Denny Williams paced the Galien attack with a double and a single, knocking in both runs. Randy Chase upped his batting average to .608 with a single, while Craig Schau moved his to .444 with one hit.

St. Joe Girls Beat Bucks

St. Joseph exploded for eight runs in the sixth inning and went on to beat Buchanan 15-8 Friday in a girls softball game at the St. Joe Field.

Kate Bartz slugged a double and a pair of singles and Elaine Morrison added a double and a single for the winners.

Patience Vanderbush, now batting .514, belted three singles for the Bucks.

The Bears are now 3-5, while Buchanan stands 4-6.

Lancer Girls Place Third At Otsego

OTSEGO — Lakeshore got a first from its sprint medley relay team and went on to place third in the Second Annual Bulldog Relays held here Friday night.

The team of Janel Root, Sue Farrow, Rhonda Edwards and Peggy Root toured the track in 2:58.

The Lancers were second in the shot put relay with Mimi Beutter, Deb Swishelm and Karen Wall combining for a distance of 91' 5", the discus relay of Kim Foster, Ivy Schewe and Kathy Mensinger with a combined distance of 258' 8" and in the shuttle hurdle relay with Marlene Peldys, Lynn Kemp, Julie Bonczkowski and Linda Harris going 1:10.9.

Third place awards were won in the 880-yard relay and the high jump.

Dowagiac's girls placed fifth in the meet. The Chiefs won the 440-yard relay, finished third in the shot put and discus and fourth in the 880 relay.

Sturgis won the meet with 34 points while Hastings totaled 32 for second while Lakeshore had 24 points.

Reggie Ends Long Holdout

BALTIMORE (AP) — Reggie Jackson has arrived, toting 21 suitcases and an apparent determinination to make Baltimore his last stop as a major league slugger.

"I'm not here to be a detriment," the superstar outfielder said Friday as he ended a fourweek holdout and reported to the Orioles. "I came here to stay here, to play baseball, to get into post season play and the classic series in the fall."

At the same time, however, the power-hitting outfielder admitted that his holdout had not aided the Orioles, a team he says he wants to lead back to a World Series championship.

"It didn't help the team," he said. "I held out for the betterment of my life in the future. This is a sport that I love, but it's not a game for me. It's a business."

The Orioles obtained Jackson in a six-player deal with the Oakland A's April 2, but Jackson balked at reporting to the East Coast club and remained in Arizona.

He still hasn't signed a 1976 contract, but Jackson is believed to have agreed to play this season for around $200,000 while continuing to negotiate a long-term pact with Baltimore.

Jackson didn't want to talk about the negotiations when he arrived here about 2½ hours before the Orioles played his former Oakland teammates.

He did, however, say he and Orioles' General Manager Hank Peters were "very close" to an agreement on a multi-year contract, and that he was hoping to end his career with the Orioles.

"I don't want to stand in their way if they believe they can better themselves by sending me somewhere else," he said. "But I'm not just going to play this year while negotiating with another team.

"I believe a contract can be worked out. I don't want to drive around in a pickup truck and see who throws in the most $100 bills."

Asked what made him decide to end the holdout, Jackson replied: "Money was involved, but it wasn't the main issue. Money's not the bottom line. The bottom line for me is honesty and consistency. It took me three weeks to learn Hank Peters is an honest, consistent man. I want to make Hank Peters look good."

Jackson arrived from Arizona at Baltimore-Washington International Airport and checked into a posh Baltimore hotel, lugging 21 suitcases with his personal belongings. His baseball equipment had arrived earlier.

He suited up and sat on the Orioles' bench as they lost 11-1 to Oakland, then went through an hour of batting practice with Coach Jim Frey throwing and stadium attendants shagging the hits.

Bangor Outlasts Shamrocks To Win Blossomtime Relays

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — With all the suspense of a Hollywood movie script, Bangor had to wait until the final event was finished before winning the 24th running of the Blossomtime Relays held here Friday night.

The Vikings ended up with 42 points, just edging out Berrien Springs which totaled 40 points. Watervliet was third with 34 points and Bridgman and Lake Michigan Catholic tied for fourth with 32 points.

The meet came down to the pole vault which finished by automobile headlight an hour past the last running event. Bangor led the Shamrocks 42-38 going into the pole vault so Berrien needed to finish at least two places ahead of Bangor to tie for top spot.

To add to the drama, both schools and Watervliet ended up tieing for fourth spot at a combined height of 20' 6". In a complicated decision involving less misses throughout the competition, Watervliet took fourth spot, Berrien Springs was fifth and Bangor was sixth.

The Shamrocks thus earned two points for their finish and Bangor received none, but the Vikings still ended up winning the relays.

This year two events were changed and Bangor's head coach, Terry Glidden, felt that both benefited his team. The pole vault was made a two-man relay instead of three and the sprint medley was shortened.

In past years the medley had been a 440-220-220-440, but this year the sponsoring Jaycees started and ended it with a 110.

"When they changed the sprint medley, it really helped us," grinned Glidden. "We are strong in the sprints, but not that strong in the quarter mile."

Bangor showed its sprint strength by winning the 880, 440 and sprint medley relays. James Crawford, David Gregory, Tom Tripp and Gary Lowder combined to win both the 880 and 440 and Gregory, Crawford and Lowder combined with Leon Huntley to take the sprint medley.

"The sprinters did the job," Glidden said. "But what surprised me was taking second in the sprint distance because we haven't been that strong in the distance.

"I never dreamed we would win," he added.

Berrien Springs only took one first place, but it broke a five-year old record. The distance medley team of Kevin Carmichael, Rick Ruhl, Arden Paustian and Pat Pennington ran an 11:39.1, bettering the old mark of 11:44.7 set by Bangor in 1971.

The only other record set was by Decatur's half-mile medley relay team of Mike Wilson, Dennis Warkentien, Paul Gardner and Corney Phelps. They ran a 1:42.2, bettering the old record of 1:42.8 set by Bangor in 1970.

McAdams Fires No-Hitter

Al McAdams pitched Decatur right back into the thick of the SAC baseball race Friday.

McAdams, a senior righthander, hurled a no-hitter at Martin as the Raiders captured a 2-0 decision.

The victory upped Decatur's league mark to 4-1, while Martin fell for the first time in our SAC games. Bloomingdale, which ripped Lawton 11-4 Friday, remains on top in the league race with a perfect 4-0 record.

In other league play Friday, Lawrence outlasted Marcellus 19-12 and Gobles swept a non-league doubleheader from Grand Rapids Baptist Academy by scores of 18-1 and 14-0.

McAdams fanned four and walked just two in his near-perfect effort. He faced just 25 batters.

"It's easily the best he's looked all year," Decatur coach Jack Gleason said. "He's really coming into his own now. He's keeping the ball down and is thinking more."

Decatur gave McAdams the only run he needed in the first inning when Kurt Wiese, now batting .714, singled, stole second and scored on a single by Mike High.

Jeff McIvin drove in four runs with a triple and two singles in Bloomingdale's victory. Mike Stone added three RBIs with a double and two singles and Pat Barnes collected three singles for the winners.

A total of 31 runs, 26 hits and 17 errors were amassed in the wild Lawrence-Marcellus contest. Lawrence broke a tie with seven runs in the sixth inning and held on for the win.

Dave Congdon blasted a double and three singles and drove in four runs for the winners. Matt Mills added three singles. Rick Thompson slapped three singles and drove in three runs for Marcellus.

Jim Hansen pitched a no-hitter in the first game and Doug Adams hurled a one-hitter in the second as Gobles swept the twin bill to run its overall record to 4-4.

Hansen fanned 12 and walked just two, while Adams struck 11 and issued just two free passes.

Brian Clement was the hitting star in the doubleheader for Gobles. All Clement did was collect a double, two singles and four walks in eight trips to the plate. He also stole eight bases and scored seven runs.

Comets Get By Eddies

COLOMA — Dan Saiz pitched a one-hitter Friday to spark Coloma to a 5-1 Blossomland conference baseball win over Edwardsburg here.

The win moved the Comets into a second-place tie in the league with River Valley. Both stand 5-2 and trail first-place Buchanan (6-1) by one game.

Saiz struck out eight and walked four, but still trailed 4-0 after the Edwardsburg half of the fourth inning. But the Comet bats came to life in the home half of the frame.

Bill Genovese's double and a pair of walks loaded the bases. Dewey Wheeler drove in one run with a single and Gregg Woodward and Dan Davis each plated a pair with consecutive singles for the final 5-4 margin.

Dan Correll took the loss for the Eddies (2-4), despite striking out 13.

South Haven Projects Get Preliminary HUD Approval

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the preliminary application of the city of South Haven for a Community Block Program grant, according to acting City Manager Howard McDougall.

The city has been invited to submit a final application for projects totaling $286,500. The city's preliminary application had included projects totaling $300,000, but HUD deleted a proposed riverfront beautification program and improvement of Water street.

Projects and their value that are eligible for the final application include: residential rehabilitation loans and grants, $124,500; blighted structure demolition, $9,000; expanded code enforcement program, $14,000; street construction, sewer improvements and new street lights on Indiana avenue, $107,000; creation of a tot lot for pre-school children on the city's southwest side, $14,000; administration and contingency, $17,500.

City council will be asked to authorize preparation of the final application at its meeting Monday night, according to McDougall. The final application must be filed by June 15.

HUD officials noted that acceptance of such a large portion of the South Haven proposal was unique. The agency said it received 60 applications for projects totaling $12 million throughout Michigan and that only $3,424,000 was funded.

Four-County Area Residents Get $5,735,401 In Lottery Prizes

LANSING — Of the $240 million in prize money paid out since the Michigan lottery began in November, 1972, residents in the four counties in southwestern Michigan have won $5,735,401.

According to figures released by the lottery bureau this week, $4,045,244 in prize money has been won by Berrien county residents, $404,362 has been won by Allegan county residents, $499,401 by Cass county residents, and $786,394 by Van Buren residents.

Those totals, which reflect payouts from 1972 to April, 1976, do not include the new Michigan "Landmarks" game which began April 20.

Wayne county, the state's most populous, continues to account for about one-third of the prize total, or $83,257,945, the lottery bureau said. Twenty-six of the state's 83 counties have surpassed the million dollar mark.

The profit to the state's general fund since the lottery began is about $240 million, the same as prizes won, the lottery bureau said. The profit for the present fiscal year which will end June 30 is estimated at about $95 million.

Jackson Drops Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington has withdrawn from the May 18 Michigan presidential primary, a member of Jackson's organization reported. The member of Jackson's campaign organization said Jackson has cancelled a $50-a-ticket fund-raising dinner scheduled for Monday night in Southfield. The staffer said Jackson's Michigan campaign chairman, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, was informed Friday that the senator wanted to cancel the dinner and that he would not campaign in the state.

Computer Errors Halts Bulk Mail Delivery To Five Towns

DETROIT (AP) — Five small Michigan communities didn't get any bulk mail deliveries for up to three weeks during April because of a computer programming error, postal officials revealed Friday.

Instead, some 200 bags of third class mail, magazines, circulars and parcel post were shuttled back and forth between the central post office in downtown Detroit and the highly mechanized new $43 million bulk mail center in suburban Allen Park.

Much of the mail was damaged in the process, postal officials reported.

When deliveries finally resumed earlier this week to the communities of Azalia, Bridgewater, Dundee, Lakeland and Manchester, the local post offices were glutted.

For example, in Dundee in Monroe County the post office usually receives eight or nine bags of third class and parcel post each day. But local postmaster Paul Mominee said he received a total of 255 bags Tuesday and Wednesday.

In Azalia, also in Monroe County, the post office is located in a grocery store and usually receives one bag a day. On Wednesday and Thursday the crossroads town received a total of seven or eight bags of parcel post and third class mail.

"We got a bunch of stuff that looked like it got run over by a lawnmower," said Robert Noble, son of the Azalia postmaster.

James W. Russelburg, officer in charge of the Detroit Post Office, said programmers apparently forgot to add the five cities to the computer which runs the Allen Park facility when their mail started going through the modernized operation early in April.

"No letter mail to those cities was affected, and all lower priority mail was involved," he said. "Stringent corrective measures have been taken to prevent reoccurrence."

Emile Asa, Detroit postal director, said the mail was being bagged for the proper communities but the computer didn't know where to send it. Somehow, the mail apparently was transferred back and forth between Allen Park and Detroit, he said.

The Allen Park facility opened Jan. 3. U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., head of the House postal services subcommittee, later made a surprise visit to the facility and said thousands of packages were being damaged because of its faulty operation.

Asbestos workers at Chrysler Corp., coke oven workers at Ford Motor Co. and forge workers throughout the industry are demanding full retirement rights after 25 years of service.

Golf Lesson Helps Bench Tee-Off

Reuschel, Cubs Hand San Francisco Fifth Straight Loss

From Associated Press

A basic golf lesson helped Johnny Bench turn Riverfront Stadium into his personal driving range.

"It's just like golf — if I don't stay still with the head, I don't hit," Bench said Friday night after teeing off on Montreal pitching for two home runs.

The cannon shots, Bench's third and fourth homers of the year, led the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-2 victory over the Expos and boosted the catcher's April production to 16 RBI — second best in his career for baseball's opening month.

"Because of my shoulder operation (over the winter), I've developed a bad habit of pulling off the ball," said Bench, "so my golf game has helped me. I feel like things have been going good all week."

The fairway-long drives off Montreal's Dan Warthen reaffirmed Expo Manager Karl Kuehl's faith in Bench Power.

In the other National League games, the New York Mets beat the Houston Astros 3-1; the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the San Diego Padres 4-3 and the Chicago Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 5-2. The game between Philadelphia and Atlanta was rained out.

Bench's three RBI provided the winning runs for Gary Nolan, 2-1, who beat the Expos for the fifth straight time. The Cincinnati right-hander helped his cause by driving in a run with a single while blanking the Expos for seven innings. He gave up three hits in the first three innings, then retired 13 men in a row before Tim Foli singled in the eighth and Ellis Valentine crashed a two-run home run.

Nolan, who gave way to Hawley Eastwick in the ninth, has not lost to the Expos since September 2, 1972, Warthen, 0-2, was the loser.

Jon Matlack scattered seven hits and Del Unser drove in two runs to lead New York to its seventh straight victory. Matlack, 3-0, struck out four Houston batters and walked two. Joe Niekro, 1-4, took the loss.

Rick Rhoden fired a six-hitter and Los Angeles collected 12 hits in beating St. Louis for its seventh straight victory. Former Cardinal Ted Sizemore had three of the Dodgers' hits and drove in a run.

Jim Rooker and Ramon Hernandez held San Diego to five hits before Bob Mouse snuffed out a ninth-inning rally as Pittsburgh nipped the Padres.

Bill Madlock belted a pair of doubles and a single and Jose Cardenal and Manny Trillo each knocked in two runs to boost the Chicago Cubs to a 5-2 victory.

Rick Reuschel, 1-1, scattered seven hits and survived some early trouble in handing the Giants their fifth straight defeat.

Madlock singled, stole second, went to third on Jerry Morales' sacrifice and scored on Trillo's safety squeeze for a 1-0 lead in the third off loser Ed Halicki, 2-3.

The Giants tied it in the bottom of the inning on Dave Rader's double, Halicki's sacrifice and Von Joshua's single, but the Cubs went ahead to stay in the fifth, on Madlock's double and Trillo's two-out single.

Chicago added three runs in the sixth. Singles by Steve Swisher and Dave Rosello and a walk to Reuschel loaded the bases with none out. Cardenal cracked a two-run single with one away and Morales capped the rally with his sacrifice fly.

The Giants added a run in the seventh on Chris Speier's double and Ken Reitz' single.

PASSING ALONG SOME LUCK: Former jockey Roscoe Troxler, left, winner of the 1906 Kentucky Derby on Sir Huon, gives a lucky horseshoe to Don MacBeth as the young rider packs his gear at Gulfstream Park in Hallandale, Fla., for trip to Churchill Downs in Louisville where he will ride longshot Bidson in today's Derby. Troxler, 93, remains active in racing at Gulfstream where he is a stewards aide. The 26-year-old MacBeth is from Alberta, Canada. (AP Wirephoto)

Two-Horse Race Expected Today

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Honest Pleasure, winner of nine straight races, and Bold Forbes, the Wood Memorial winner, were expected to go to the front at the start of today's $216,700 Kentucky Derby and battle to the wire before more than 100,000 fans at Churchill Downs.

There was a good chance of rain for the 102nd running of the 1¼-mile event which has drawn a field of nine 3-year-old colts. Post time was set for 5:40 p.m., EDT.

"It's not a match race," said Leroy Jolley, who trains Honest Pleasure for owner Bert Firestone. "In a match race, the only thing you have behind you are the tractors unless the pony boy gets into the act."

"Bold Forbes can have as many lengths as he wants in the first part — they pay off on the last part of the race. I'm satisfied with him. He's a fresh horse coming into this race and that's what I wanted."

Braulio Baeza had the mount on Honest Pleasure, who was coming off stakes triumphs in the Flamingo, Florida Derby and Blues Grass.

Angel Cordero rode Bold Forbes, owned by Puerto Rico's E. Rodriguez Tizol. Trainer Laz Barrera said of his colt, "Bold Forbes has enough speed that, if he breaks good, he'll be on the lead. If that other horse (Honest Pleasure) wants the lead, he's going to have to go on."

In pre-Derby mutuel wagering held Friday, Honest Pleasure's odds dropped from an early line of 3-5 to 1-2. Bold Forbes went from 9-5 to 7-2 as a record crowd for the day before the Derby — 43,793 — bet $318,367.

Eugene Cashman's Elocutionist, the Arkansas Derby winner, remained the third pick with his odds dropping from 12-1 to 10-1. John Lively had the mount.

The remainder of the field, with jockeys and new odds: Elmendorf Farm's Play The Red, Jorge Velasquez, 12-1; Balmak Stable's On The Sly, Greg McCarron, 20-1; Jim Irvin's Amano, Larry Melancon, 30-1; Entremont Stable's Cojak, Chris McCarron, 30-1; Charles Jarrel's Inca Roca, Will Nemeti, 45-1, and Sared Stable's Bidson, Don MacBeth, 50-1.

All were to carry 126 pounds. The winning purse was to be $165,200 with second place worth $30,000, $15,000 for third and $7,500 to fourth.

Leader Niles, St. Joseph Post Big Seven Triumphs

Arnie White continues to make Niles the team to beat in the Big Seven baseball race.

White hurled a three-hitter Friday as the Vikings blanked Portage Northern 3-0 to run their league record to 5-0.

Now 4-0 in league play himself, White fanned six and walked just three in the shutout performance.

In other Big Seven action Friday, St. Joseph rallied to top Kalamazon Loy Norrix 7-5 and Battle Creek Lakeview toppled Holland 7-3.

White helped his own cause at bat, slamming a double and a single and driving in one run. Duff Plummer doubled in another run for the winners, now 7-2 overall.

Rick Dyer was St. Joe's hero. Dyer slammed two home runs and a double and drove in five runs as the Bears ran their Big Seven record to 2-2.

Dyer's three-run homer gave the Bears a quick lead in the first inning. St. Joe made it 5-0 in the third on a single by Mike Caller, Dyer's double and a single by Steve Toney.

After Norrix tied the game with a five-run fifth inning, St. Joe pulled it out with two runs in the seventh. Collier tripled and then scored on an overthrow. Dyer then added an insurance run with his second homer.

Herb Ross chipped in pair of singles for the Bears, now 3-6 overall.

Shamrocks Bury Bridgman To Stay Perfect In Arrow

Berrien Springs kept a firm grip on the Red Arrow baseball lead Friday night, blasting Bridgman 10-4.

The win was Berrien's sixth without a loss in the league, while Bridgman fell to 2-4.

Barry Adams picked up the victory for the Shamrocks and also helped his own cause at the plate, banging out a pair of singles and driving in three runs.

Tim Sunday added a triple and a single to the Berrien attack.

Dan Kamradt slugged out a double and two singles for the Bees, while Tom Meredith, Mark Krieger and Neal Smith each chipped in a pair of hits.

In other Red Arrow play Friday, New Buffalo stopped Galien 4-2 behind the combined pitching of Carl Underwood and Rennie Robinson. Underwood went the first four innings to pick up the win and Robinson finished up.

New Buffalo actually scored enough runs to clinch the verdict in the first inning. Don Rogers singled and scored on DuWayne Mangold's two-run homer. Robinson then singled, advanced to second on an error and scored on a fielder's choice.

Denny Williams paced the Galien attack with a double and a single, knocking in both runs. Randy Chase upped his batting average to .868 with a single, while Craig Schau moved his to .444 with one hit.

St. Joe Girls Beat Bucks

St. Joseph exploded for eight runs in the sixth inning and went on to beat Buchanan 15-8 Friday in a girls softball game at the St. Joe Field.

Kate Bartz slugged a double and a pair of singles and Elaine Morrison added a double and a single for the winners.

Patience Vanderbush, now batting .514, belted three singles for the Bucks.

The Bears are now 3-5, while Buchanan stands 4-6.

Lancer Girls Place Third At Otsego

OTSEGO — Lakeshore got a first from its sprint medley relay team and went on to place third in the Second Annual Bulldog Relays held here Friday night.

The team of Janel Hoot, Sue Farrow, Rhonda Edwards and Peggy Root toured the track in 2:58.

The Lancers were second in the shot put relay with Mimi Beutler, Deb Swisheim and Karen Wall combining for a distance of 91' 5", the discus relay of Kim Foster, Ivy Schewe and Kathy Mensinger with a combined distance of 258' 8" and in the shuttle hurdle relay with Marlene Peldys, Lynn Kemp, Julie Banczkowski and Linda Harris going 1:10.9.

Third place awards were won in the 880-yard relay and the high jump.

Dowagiac's girls placed fifth in the meet. The Chiefs won the 440-yard relay, finished third in the shot put and discus and fourth in the 880 relay.

Sturgis won the meet with 34 points while Hastings totaled 32 for second while Lakeshore had 24 points.

Reggie Ends Long Holdout

BALTIMORE (AP) — Reggie Jackson has arrived, toting 21 suitcases and an apparent determination to make Baltimore his last stop as a major league slugger.

"I'm not here to be a detriment," the superstar outfielder said Friday as he ended a four-week holdout and reported to the Orioles. "I came here to stay here, to play baseball, to get into post season play and the classic series in the fall."

At the same time, however, the power-hitting outfielder admitted that his holdout had not aided the Orioles, a team he says he wants to lead back to a World Series championship.

"It didn't help the team," he said. "I held out for the betterment of my life in the future. This is a sport that I love, but it's not a game for me. It's a business."

The Orioles obtained Jackson in a six-player deal with the Oakland A's April 2, but Jackson balked at reporting to the East Coast club and remained in Arizona.

He still hasn't signed a 1976 contract, but Jackson is believed to have agreed to play this season for around $200,000 while continuing to negotiate a long-term pact with Baltimore.

Jackson didn't want to talk about the negotiations when he arrived here about 2½ hours before the Orioles played his former Oakland teammates.

He did, however, say he and Orioles' General Manager Hank Peters were "very close" to an agreement on a multi-year contract, and that he was hoping to end his career with the Orioles.

"I don't want to stand in their way if they believe they can better themselves by sending me somewhere else," he said. "But I'm not just going to play this year while negotiating with another team.

"I believe a contract can be worked out. I don't want to drive around in a pickup truck and see who throws in the most $100 bills."

Asked what made him decide to end the holdout, Jackson replied: "Money was involved, but it wasn't the main issue. Money's not the bottom line. The bottom line for me is honesty and consistency. It took me three weeks to learn Hank Peters is an honest, consistent man. I want to make Hank Peters look good."

Jackson arrived from Arizona at Baltimore-Washington International Airport and checked into a posh Baltimore hotel, lugging 21 suitcases with his personal belongings. His baseball equipment had arrived earlier.

He suited up and sat on the Orioles' bench as they lost 11-1 to Oakland, then went through an hour of batting practice with Coach Jim Frey throwing and stadium attendants shagging the hits.

South Haven Projects Get Preliminary HUD Approval

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the preliminary application of the city of South Haven for a Community Block Program grant, according to acting City Manager Howard McDougall.

The city has been invited to submit a final application for projects totaling $286,500. The city's preliminary application had included projects totaling $300,000, but HUD deleted a proposed riverfront beautification program and improvement of Water street.

Projects and their value that are eligible for the final application include: residential rehabilitation loans and grants, $124,500; blighted structure demolition, $9,000; expanded code enforcement program, $14,000; street construction, sewer improvements and new street lights on Indiana avenue, $107,000; creation of a lot for pre-school children on the city's southwest side, $14,000; administration and contingency, $17,500.

City council will be asked to authorize preparation of the final application at its meeting Monday night, according to McDougall. The final application must be filed by June 15.

HUD officials noted that acceptance of such a large portion of the South Haven proposal was unique. The agency said it received 60 applications for projects totaling $12 million throughout Michigan and that only $3,424,000 was funded.

Decatur Schedules Roundup Of Kindergartners, Parents

DECATUR — The Decatur elementary school has scheduled an introduction to kindergarten day on Wednesday, May 5, for parents and next year's kindergarten students. The program begins at 1 p.m. and will be the only opportunity that next year's kindergartners will have to visit the classrooms before next September, the school said. On the following two days, May 6 and 7, there will be an early registration for kindergartners from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the K-3 building. Elementary Principal Richard Jacobsen said he recommends a child be five years old on or before Oct. 15 to start kindergarten in September. Each registering kindergartner will be tested on his or her readiness to enter school. Birth certificates and immunization records will be required, the school said.

Four-County Area Residents Get $5,735,401 In Lottery Prizes

LANSING — Of the $240 million in prize money paid out since the Michigan lottery began in November, 1972, residents in the four counties in southwestern Michigan have won $5,735,401.

According to figures released by the lottery bureau this week, $4,045,244 in prize money has been won by Berrien county residents, $404,362 has been won by Allegan county residents, $499,401 by Cass county residents, and $786,394 by Van Buren residents.

Those totals, which reflect payouts from 1972 to April, 1976, do not include the new Michigan "Landmarks" game which began April 20.

Wayne county, the state's most populous, continues to account for about one-third of the prize total, or $83,257,945, the lottery bureau said. Twenty-six of the state's 83 counties have surpassed the million dollar mark.

The profit to the state's general fund since the lottery began is about $240 million, the same as prizes won, the lottery bureau said. The profit for the present fiscal year which will end June 30 is estimated at about $95 million.

Jackson Drops Michigan

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington has withdrawn from the May 18 Michigan presidential primary, a member of Jackson's organization reported. The member of Jackson's campaign organization said Jackson has cancelled a $50-a-ticket fund-raising dinner scheduled for Monday night in Southfield. The staffer said Jackson's Michigan campaign chairman, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, was informed Friday that the senator wanted to cancel the dinner and that he would not campaign in the state.

Computer Errors Halts Bulk Mail Delivery To Five Towns

DETROIT (AP) — Five small Michigan communities didn't get any bulk mail deliveries for up to three weeks during April because of a computer programming error, postal officials revealed Friday.

Instead, some 200 bags of third class mail, magazines, circulars and parcel post were shuttled back and forth between the central post office in downtown Detroit and the highly mechanized new $43 million bulk mail center in suburban Allen Park.

Much of the mail was damaged in the process, postal officials reported.

When deliveries finally resumed earlier this week to the communities of Azalia, Bridgewater, Dundee, Lakeland and Manchester, the local post offices were glutted.

For example, in Dundee in Monroe County the post office usually receives eight or nine bags of third class and parcel post each day. But local postmaster, Paul Mominee said he received a total of 255 bags Tuesday and Wednesday.

In Azalia, also in Monroe County, the post office is located in a grocery store and usually receives one bag a day. On Wednesday and Thursday the crossroads town received a total of seven or eight bags of parcel post and third class mail.

"We got a bunch of stuff that looked like it got run over by a lawnmower," said Robert Noble, son of the Azalia postmaster.

James W. Russelburg, officer in charge of the Detroit Post Office, said programmers apparently forgot to add the five cities to the computer which runs the Allen Park facility when their mail started going through the modernized operation early in April.

"No letter mail to those cities was affected, and all lower priority mail was involved," he said. "Stringent corrective measures have been taken to prevent reoccurrence."

Emile Asa, Detroit postal director, said the mail was being bagged for the proper communities but the computer didn't know where to send it. Somehow, the mail apparently was transferred back and forth between Allen Park and Detroit, he said.

The Allen Park facility opened Jan. 3. U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., head of the House postal services subcommittee, later made a surprise visit to the facility and said thousands of packages were being damaged because of its faulty operation.

Asbestos workers at Chrysler Corp., coke oven workers at Ford Motor Co. and forge workers throughout the industry are demanding full retirement rights after 25 years of service.

Defendant Denies Being At Site Of Schadler Shooting

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The man accused of shooting Benton Harbor Det. Thomas Schadler took the stand Friday during his trial and testified that on the day of the shooting he had not been in the store where Schadler was shot. Maurice H. Carter, 31, of Gary, was on the stand for about 30 minutes and was only briefly cross-examined by Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert McDowell.

Carter, charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder stemming from the Dec. 20, 1973, shooting of Schadler and a shot allegedly fired at Schadler's wife, was one of the last witnesses during the fourth day of trial in Berrien Circuit court. Attorneys for both sides finished calling witnesses yesterday, and Judge Julian Hughes said the case should go to the jury on Tuesday.

Schadler was shot six times while he and his wife, Ruth, were Christmas shopping at the Harbor Wigs and Record shop in downtown Benton Harbor. The Schadlers have identified Carter as the assailant, but a clerk in the store previously testified Carter was not the gunman. Another man who in district court had identified Carter as the assailant, Thursday repudiated his earlier testimony and said Carter was not in the area of the record shop on Dec. 20.

Carter, who gave his occupation as a bus driver, confirmed that version and testified that he was sleeping and was awakened in the afternoon by Wilbur Gillespie, the man who repudiated his own previous testimony.

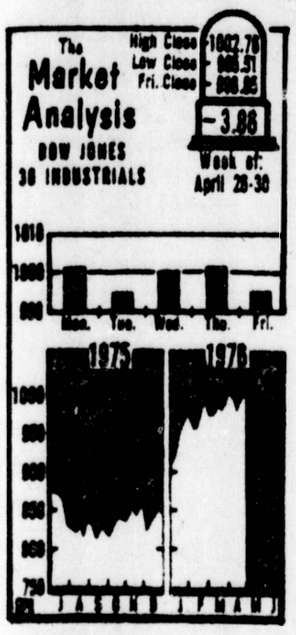

Both Carter's testimony and Gillespie's were almost the same: Carter was awakened in his room at the Harbor hotel, the two left the hotel and were confronted by police officers who released them after questioning, the pair went to Gillespie's apartment for awhile, and Carter then left and went to the Ponderosa bar.

Carter on the stand denied ever being in the record store on Dec. 20 or even being anywhere in the vicinity. He also said he never saw either of the Schadlers. Carter added that sometime around Dec. 22 he left the Benton Harbor area to visit relatives in Oklahoma.

He was arrested in Gary on Jan. 5, 1976, more than two years after Schadler was shot.

Both McDowell and Defense Atty. James Jesse said they will give their closing arguments to the jury on Tuesday morning and the case should be submitted to the jury immediately after that.

CRITICISM UNLIKELY

U.S. Agency To Study Steel Price Hikes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The government's inflation-monitoring agency announced a study on steel industry price increases just as two more producers joined the list of those raising prices on sheet steel. Wheeling-Pittsburgh, the company that started the round of increases with an 8.3 per cent boost, is rolling back part of its hike to remain competitive with firms which scheduled smaller price boosts of about 6 per cent.

The federal Council on Wage and Price Stability in Washington said Friday that it will study the price hikes, which affect a range of products widely used in the automotive and appliance industries, though criticism of the increases is unlikely.

The Council said it would ask the companies to provide data on costs and other trends affecting the industry, but its announcement did not suggest that the price hikes might be out of line.

Last fall, the council pressured U.S. Steel and Armco into reducing announced hikes of 9 per cent on sheet steel to about 6.5 per cent. Most of the current price hikes are scheduled to take effect June 14.

Wheeling-Pittsburgh, the nation's ninth-largest steelmaker, had announced Monday that it was raising prices an average of 8.3 per cent. U.S. Steel, Inland Steel and Armco Steel followed during the week, as did Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin on Friday.

However, those increases were lower, all averaging about 6 per cent, and Wheeling-Pittsburgh cited competitive pressures in announcing the rollback Friday.

"To become competitive in the marketplace, we will be effecting a rollback from announced prices amounting to about 20 per cent" of that originally announced 8.3 per cent increase, said Wheeling-Pittsburgh chairman Robert Lauterbach.

Among the nation's major steelmakers only Bethlehem, National and Youngstown-Lykes have not announced some sort of increase on sheet steel.

The Wage-Price Council also said it would undertake a long-term study of other metals such as copper, zinc and aluminum "to determine whether the timing and magnitude of the recent rises are consistent with the price movements which occurred during earlier recoveries."

All of the steel firms have cited higher costs in announcing their increases.

"These price increases are not sufficient to cover the increases in costs that have occurred since last year," J&L said in a statement. "With costs continuing to rise, and employment costs going up Aug. 1, additional increases will be needed later in the year."

Farm Wins Centennial Recognition

LANSING — A farm owned by Christena Merrill of Route 2, Box 64, Eau Claire, has been designated a Centennial Farm by the Division of Michigan history.

The farm, located in Bainbridge townshi, Berrien county, has been in th possession of the family since 1876. It was originally purchased in 1876 by Lucinda Morlock, a relative of the present owner.

Secretary of State Richard Austin, whose department administers the Centennial Farm program, said the program was inaugurated in 1948. Since then, more than 3,000 Michigan farms have been certified as Centennial Farms.

Certificates are provided by the Division of Michigan History. Large metal markers are provided by the Detroit Edison and Consumers Power companies.

Explains Austin, "A Centennial Farm is one which has been in the continuous possession of the same family for 100 years or more."

For this purpose, the Michigan History Division considers a farm to be either 10 or more acres having estimated farm product sales of more than $50 yearly, or less than 10 acres having estimated sales of at least $250 yearly. A Centennial Farm comprises only the land and not the farm buildings, which may be remodeled or even new.

Applications for Centennial Farm recognition are obtainable from Centennial Farm Program, Division of Michigan History, Michigan Department of State, Lansing, MI 48918.

DEPRESSED: Rabbi Baruch Korff tells a Los Angeles news conference Friday that former President Richard Nixon is depressed about recent accounts of his relationship with his wife and his purported heavy drinking during last days in office. Korff also said publicity surrounding the book "The Final Days" has resulted in contributions drying up for Nixon's legal fund. (AP Wirephoto)

Great Lakes Port Use Supported

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Delegates to an inland shipping conference have supported the establishment of a marketing program to sell shippers on the benefits of using Great Lakes ports.

Participants at the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway shipping conference agreed to the creation of a Great Lakes-Seaway Marketing Corp. to carry out the program.

The marketing effort would be financed entirely by private industry as an estimated cost of $1.4 million over the next five years.

Delegates to the four-day conference, which ended this week, also urged greater industrial participation in the Great Lakes Task Force, an organization set up several years ago to work with Congress and federal regulatory agencies.

The Task Force, which currently operates on a budget of $7,000 a year, should be backed by $1.5 million — mostly from private industry — in the next five years if it is to be effective, conference speakers said.

Conference members also assigned high priority to continued efforts to extend the navigation season, particularly through the Seaway, and to the development of life-saving capsules to help prevent loss of life in shipwrecks.

The purpose of the conference was to establish a fiveyear program of priorities to guide federal agencies in developing shipping regulations.

Cuban Loses Legs In Bomb Blast

MIAMI (AP) — The latest in a long series of unsolved bomb blasts has blown the legs off the outspoken Cuban exile who is a news director and commentator for Miami's largest Spanish-language radio station.

Emilio Milian, 44, finished his daily hour-long program, "The People Speak," over Station WQBA late Friday, walked down a flight of stairs and into his car in a parking lot behind the two-story building.

A powerful bomb blew the car up when he turned the ignition.

PINNED BETWEEN CARS

Covert Man Injured In Benton Mishap

Fletcher A. Thompson, 29, of 7226 Maple street, Covert, suffered apparently minor injuries in Benton township last night when pinned between his car and another at the Clark service station, 985 East Napier avenue.

Township police said Thompson was putting air in a rear tire and was pinned momentarily when another auto was backed up. The driver was identified as Pamela Ann Romeo, 17, of 397 Searles avenue, Fairplain. Police said Thompson indicated he would seek his own medical aid. No tickets were issued. The accident was reported at 9:02 p.m.

St. Joseph police said Barbara Ellen Lawrence, 28, of 5621 Golden Crest, Stevensville, was treated at Memorial hospital for injuries received in a collision between her auto and another on Main street at Price street, about 4:45 p.m. Friday.

Police said the other driver, Floyd A. Sumrill, 73, Central Lake, Mich., was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

St. Joseph police said a city resident was arrested early this morning, after an auto jumped a curb and knocked down four traffic signs on Main street, near South State street.

Booked on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants was Randy Lee Christianson, 19, of 1109 Lake boulevard. Police who witnessed the accident said the car continued north on Main and was stopped a short distance from the accident scene. The accident occurred about 12:35 a.m.

Benton township police said they are looking for the driver of an auto, reportedly involved in a hit and run traffic accident on Crystal avenue, just south of East Britain avenue, about 10:20 p.m. Friday.

LeRoy L. Stack, 29, Box 360 Hill street, Coloma, said he was turning into a lot, when his car was struck by another auto, described as a dark yellow Plymouth. The driver continued south on Crystal without stopping, officers were told. Stack was reported unhurt.

Jail Inmate Sued Over CB Radio

An inmate in the Berrien county jail, already facing theft charges, is being sued for $175 by a woman who claims he sold her a stolen citizens band radio.

Theresa Evans, 29, 655 Baushke avenue, Benton township, filed suit yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court's small claims division against Matthew B. Yow, 18, of 356 Riverside road, Benton Harbor.

Yow was arrested last month on charges of larceny of a citizens band radio from a car and possession of burglary tools, according to court records.

Mrs. Evans said that a week prior to the arrest she had traded a $175 rifle to Yow in exchange for a citizens band radio. She said that after she learned of the arrest she turned the radio over to police who told her it had been reported stolen.

Yow, who was treated and released from the hospital last weekend for burns allegedly inflicted by another jail inmate, remains jailed under bonds totaling $15,000.

Two Burned In Furnace Explosion

SOUTH HAVEN — Two men were burned yesterday in the explosion of a furnace at a Geneva township house, according to South Haven firemen.

William Reimer, 24, of Coloma, was listed in fairly good condition today at South Haven Community hospital. He suffered burns to the face and hands.

Firemen said Reimer was a service man for the Town and Country Gas Service, Inc., Coloma, and was in the process of attempting to light a furnace in a crawl space under the Howard Watson home, 62nd street, Geneva township, when an explosion occurred about 11:30 a.m.

A neighbor, Guy Wishon, pulled Reimer from the crawl space, firemen said.

Wishon suffered burns to his arms and face, but refused medical treatment.

Firemen said a sofa in the Watson living room caught fire, but damage to the house was minimal.

POLICE ROUNDUP

BH Man Accused Of Assaulting Officer

Benton Harbor Patrolman Greg Platts said a man he arrested late last night for allegedly being disorderly suffered a cut thumb and faces charges as a result of a scuffle with officers in the garage of the Berrien county jail.

Platts said Bernard Jourdan, 58, Benton Harbor, was booked on charges of assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest, after being treated for the thumb cut at Mercy hospital. It's not known how the thumb was cut during the scuffle, Platts said.

Jourdan was initially arrested at 11:45 p.m. at 515½ Whitcomb court, where a disturbance was reported and a window was broken, Platts said.

The officer said the scuffle occurred as Jourdan was removed from a patrol car in the garage. Platts said he was assisted during the scuffle by a jail turnkey and three Bridgman police officers who were bringing in another prisoner. Jourdan gave two Benton Harbor addresses, Platts said.

James Barnett, 44, of 2986 Pier road, Hagar township, told Benton Harbor police at 2:15 a.m. today, he was knocked down and robbed of $40 by three men, while walking on Territorial road, between Water and Fifth streets. The three fled on foot, police were told.

Two Benton Harbor boys, ages 13 and 14, were arrested at midnight Friday, by city police who broke up a reported dice game on a sidewalk at East May street and McAlister avenue. Two other boys escaped on foot, police said.

The boys arrested were booked on charges of disorderly gambling and remanded to their parents.

Cash and property totaling some $2,000 were reported stolen in three separate thefts yesterday.

Russell Weaver told Benton Harbor police $1,300 in cash, a $100 television set and a $65 sports jacket were stolen from his apartment, 190½ Territorial road. Weaver told police the cash included one $100 bill and two $50 bills, with the remainder in $10 and $20 bills.

Douglas Splitzer, Box 114 Berrien Springs, told Benton Harbor police a citizens' band radio valued at $249 was stolen from his pickup truck, parked on the 100 block of Colfax avenue.

Donovan Moon, Box 14 Berrien township, told Berrien sheriff's deputies a 15-foot outboard boat, valued at $100 was stolen from a St. Joseph river bank near Berrien Springs.

Benton Harbor police said a rock was hurled against the windshield of a Hasse's Standard service wrecker truck, while being driven by Erwin Hasse on Paw Paw avenue at Miller street, about 9:50 p.m. Friday. Police said Hasse was not injured, but the windshield was shattered.

Man Found Guilty In Savings Plot

A Benton Harborite who attempted to withdraw $400 from a savings account which contained no money was convicted Friday in Berrien Circuit court of attempting to obtain more than $100 under false pretenses.

Jurors in Judge Chester J. Byrns' court deliberated about two hours before returning the guilty verdict against George Malone Jr., 22, of 781 East Main street. He was continued free on $2,000 bond to await sentencing of up to five years in prison.

Malone was accused of attempting, in October, to withdraw $400 from a savings account at the branch of the Farmers & Merchants bank at Colfax avenue and Hinkley street in Benton Harbor. He claimed there was $413 in the account but records indicated the account had no money at the time of the withdrawl request.

Opposing counsel during the two-day trial were Assistant Prosecutor Scott Beatty and St. Joseph Atty. Paul Jancha.

Prison For Ford Threat

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal judge has sentenced a 26-year-old Kalkaska man to five years in prison for threatening to shoot President Ford. Patrick M. Scott was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles to the maximum prison term on the charge of threatening the President. Scott, a Vietnam veteran, was convicted by a federal jury last December. The charge was filed last July just before the President visited Mackinac Island. Scott was accused of telling several persons on nearby Bois Blanc Island that he planned to shoot the President from a lighthouse.

Defendant Denies Being At Site Of Schadler Shooting

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The man accused of shooting Benton Harbor Det. Thomas Schadler took the stand Friday during his trial and testified that on the day of the shooting he had not been in the store where Schadler was shot. Maurice H. Carter, 31, of Gary, was on the stand for about 30 minutes and was only briefly cross-examined by Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert McDowell.

Carter, charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder stemming from the Dec. 20, 1973, shooting of Schadler and a shot allegedly fired at Schadler's wife, was one of the last witnesses during the fourth day of trial in Berrien Circuit court. Attorneys for both sides finished calling witnesses yesterday, and Judge Julian Hughes said the case should go to the jury on Tuesday.

Schadler was shot six times while he and his wife, Ruth, were Christmas shopping at the Harbor Wigs and Record shop in downtown Benton Harbor. The Schadlers have identified Carter as the assailant, but a clerk in the store previously testified Carter was not the gunman. Another man who in district court had identified Carter as the assailant, Thursday repudiated his earlier testimony and said Carter was not in the area of the record shop on Dec. 20.

Carter, who gave his occupation as a bus driver, confirmed that version and testified that he was sleeping and was awakened in the afternoon by Wilbur Gillespie, the man who repudiated his own previous testimony.

Both Carter's testimony and Gillespie's were almost the same: Carter was awakened in his room at the Harbor hotel, the two left the hotel and were confronted by police officers who released them after questioning, the pair went to Gillespie's apartment for awhile, and Carter then left and went to the Ponderosa bar.

Carter on the stand denied ever being in the record store on Dec. 20 or even being anywhere in the vicinity. He also said he never saw either of the Schadlers. Carter added that sometime around Dec. 22 he left the Benton Harbor area to visit relatives in Oklahoma.

He was arrested in Gary on Jan. 5, 1976, more than two years after Schadler was shot.

Both McDowell and Defense Atty. James Jesse said they will give their closing arguments to the jury on Tuesday morning and the case should be submitted to the jury immediately after that.

CRITICISM UNLIKELY

U.S. Agency To Study Steel Price Hikes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The government's inflation-monitoring agency announced a study on steel industry price increases just as two more producers joined the list of those raising prices on sheet steel. Wheeling-Pittsburgh, the company that started the round of increases with an 8.3 per cent boost, is rolling back part of its hike to remain competitive with firms which scheduled smaller price boosts of about 6 per cent.

The federal Council on Wage and Price Stability in Washington said Friday that it will study the price hikes, which affect a range of products widely used in the automotive and appliance industries, though criticism of the increases is unlikely.

The Council said it would ask the companies to provide data on costs and other trends affecting the industry, but its announcement did not suggest that the price hikes might be out of line.

Last fall, the council pressured U.S. Steel and Armco into reducing announced hikes of 9 per cent on sheet steel to about 6.5 per cent. Most of the current price hikes are scheduled to take effect June 14.

Wheeling-Pittsburgh, the nation's ninth-largest steelmaker, had announced Monday that it was raising prices an average of 8.3 per cent. U.S. Steel, Inland Steel and Armco Steel followed during the week, as did Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin on Friday.

However, those increases were lower, all averaging about 6 per cent, and Wheeling-Pittsburgh cited competitive pressures in announcing the rollback Friday.

"To become competitive in the marketplace, we will be effecting a rollback from announced prices amounting to about 20 per cent" of that originally announced 8.3 per cent increase, said Wheeling-Pittsburgh chairman Robert Lauterbach.

Among the nation's major steelmakers only Bethlehem, National and Youngstown-Lykes have not announced some sort of increase on sheet steel.

The Wage-Price Council also said it would undertake a long-term study of other metals such as copper, zinc and aluminum "to determine whether the timing and magnitude of the recent rises are consistent with the price movements which occurred during earlier recoveries."

All of the steel firms have cited higher costs in announcing their increases.

"These price increases are not sufficient to cover the increases in costs that have occurred since last year," J&L said in a statement. "With costs continuing to rise, and employment costs going up Aug. 1, additional increases will be needed later in the year."

Farm Wins Centennial Recognition

LANSING — A farm owned by Christena Merrill of Route 2, Box 84, Eau Claire, has been designated a Centennial Farm by the Division of Michigan history.

The farm, located in Bainbridge township, Berrien county, has been in th possession of the family since 1876. It was originally purchased in 1876 by Lucinda Morlock, a relative of the present owner.

Secretary of State Richard Austin, whose department administers the Centennial Farm program, said the program was inaugurated in 1948. Since then, more than 3,000 Michigan farms have been certified as Centennial Farms.

Certificates are provided by the Division of Michigan History. Large metal markers are provided by the Detroit Edison and Consumers Power companies.

Explains Austin, "A Centennial Farm is one which has been in the continuous possession of the same family for 100 years or more."

For this purpose, the Michigan History Division considers a farm to be either 10 or more acres having estimated farm product sales of more than $50 yearly, or less than 10 acres having estimated sales of at least $250 yearly. A Centennial Farm comprises only the land and not the farm buildings, which may be remodeled or even new.

Applications for Centennial Farm recognition are obtainable from Centennial Farm Program, Division of Michigan History, Michigan Department of State, Lansing, MI 48918.

Great Lakes Port Use Supported

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Delegates to an inland shipping conference have supported the establishment of a marketing program to sell shippers on the benefits of using Great Lakes ports.

Participants at the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway shipping conference agreed to the creation of a Great Lakes-Seaway Marketing Corp. to carry out the program.

The marketing effort would be financed entirely by private industry as an estimated cost of $1.4 million over the next five years.

Delegates to the four-day conference, which ended this week, also urged greater industrial participation in the Great Lakes Task Force, an organization set up several years ago to work with Congress and federal regulatory agencies.

The Task Force, which currently operates on a budget of $7,000 a year, should be backed by $1.5 million — mostly from private industry — in the next five years if it is to be effective, conference speakers said.

Conference members also assigned high priority to continued efforts to extend the navigation season, particularly through the Seaway, and to the development of life-saving capsules to help prevent loss of life in shipwrecks.

The purpose of the conference was to establish a fiveyear program of priorities to guide federal agencies in developing shipping regulations.

Cuban Loses Legs In Bomb Blast

MIAMI (AP) — The latest in a long series of unsolved bomb blasts has blown the legs off the outspoken Cuban exile who is a news director and commentator for Miami's largest Spanish-language radio station.

Emilio Milian, 44, finished his daily hour-long program, "The People Speak," over Station WQBA late Friday, walked down a flight of stairs and into his car in a parking lot behind the two-story building.

A powerful bomb blew the car up when he turned the ignition.

PINNED BETWEEN CARS

Covert Man Injured In Benton Mishap

Fletcher A. Thompson, 29, of 7226 Maple street, Covert, suffered apparently minor injuries in Benton township last night when pinned between his car and another at the Clark service station, 985 East Napier avenue.

Township police said Thompson was putting air in a rear tire and was pinned momentarily when another auto was backed up. The driver was identified as Pamela Ann Romeo, 17, of 387 Searles avenue, Fairplain. Police said Thompson indicated he would seek his own medical aid. No tickets were issued. The accident was reported at 9:02 p.m.

St. Joseph police said Barbara Ellen Lawrence, 28, of 5621 Golden Crest, Stevensville, was treated at Memorial hospital for injuries received in a collision between her auto and another on Main street at Price street, about 4:45 p.m. Friday.

Police said the other driver, Floyd A. Sumrill, 73, Central Lake, Mich., was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

St. Joseph police said a city resident was arrested early this morning, after an auto jumped a curb and knocked down four traffic signs on Main street, near South State street.

Booked on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants was Randy Lee Christianson, 19, of 1108 Lake boulevard. Police who witnessed the accident said the car continued north on Main and was stopped a short distance from the accident scene. The accident occurred about 12:35 a.m.

Benton township police said they are looking for the driver of an auto, reportedly involved in a hit and run traffic accident on Crystal avenue, just south of East Britain avenue, about 10:20 p.m. Friday.

LeRoy L. Stack, 29, Box 360 Hill street, Coloma, said he was turning into a lot, when his car was struck by another auto, described as a dark yellow Plymouth. The driver continued south on Crystal without stopping, officers were told. Stack was reported unhurt.

Jail Inmate Sued Over CB Radio

An inmate in the Berrien county jail, already facing theft charges, is being sued for $175 by a woman who claims he sold her a stolen citizens band radio.

Theresa Evans, 29, 655 Baushke avenue, Benton township, filed suit yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court's small claims division against Matthew B. Yow, 18, of 350 Riverside road, Benton Harbor.

Yow was arrested last month on charges of larceny of a citizens band radio from a car and possession of burglary tools, according to court records.

Mrs. Evans said that a week prior to the arrest she had traded a $175 rifle to Yow in exchange for a citizens band radio. She said that after she learned of the arrest she turned the radio over to police who told her it had been reported stolen.

Yow, who was treated and released from the hospital last weekend for burns allegedly inflicted by another jail inmate, remains jailed under bonds totaling $13,000.

Two Burned In Furnace Explosion

SOUTH HAVEN — Two men were burned yesterday in the explosion of a furnace at a Geneva township house, according to South Haven firemen.

William Reimer, 24, of Coloma, was listed in fairly good condition today at South Haven Community hospital. He suffered burns to the face and hands.

Firemen said Reimer was a service man for the Town and Country Gas Service, Inc., Coloma, and was in the process of attempting to light a furnace in a crawl space under the Howard Watson home, 62nd street, Geneva township, when an explosion occurred about 11:30 a.m.

A neighbor, Guy Wishon, pulled Reimer from the crawl space, firemen said.

Wishon suffered burns to his arms and face, but refused medical treatment.

Firemen said a sofa in the Watson living room caught fire, but damage to the house was minimal.

POLICE ROUNDUP

BH Man Accused Of Assaulting Officer

Benton Harbor Patrolman Greg Platts said a man he arrested late last night for allegedly being disorderly suffered a cut thumb and faces charges as a result of a scuffle with officers in the garage of the Berrien county jail.

Platts said Bernard Jourdan, 58, Benton Harbor, was booked on charges of assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest, after being treated for the thumb cut at Mercy hospital. It's not known how the thumb was cut during the scuffle, Platts said.

Jourdan was initially arrested at 11:45 p.m. at 515½ Whitcomb court, where a disturbance was reported and a window was broken, Platts said.

The officer said the scuffle occurred as Jourdan was removed from a patrol car in the garage. Platts said he was assisted during the scuffle by a jail turnkey and three Bridgman police officers who were bringing in another prisoner. Jourdan gave two Benton Harbor addresses, Platts said.

James Barnett, 44, of 2986 Pier road, Hagar township, told Benton Harbor police at 2:15 a.m. today, he was knocked down and robbed of $40 by three men, while walking on Territorial road, between Water and Fifth streets. The three fled on foot, police were told.

Two Benton Harbor boys, ages 13 and 14, were arrested at midnight Friday, by city police who broke up a reported dice game on a sidewalk at East May street and McAlister avenue. Two other boys escaped on foot, police said.

The boys arrested were booked on charges of disorderly gambling and remanded to their parents.

Cash and property totaling some $2,000 were reported stolen in three separate thefts yesterday.

Russell Weaver told Benton Harbor police $1,300 in cash, a $100 television set and a $65 sports jacket were stolen from his apartment, 1901½ Territorial road. Weaver told police the cash included one $100 bill and two $50 bills, with the remainder in $16 and $20 bills.

Douglas Spitzer, Box 114 Berrien Springs, told Benton Harbor police a citizens' band radio valued at $249 was stolen from his pickup truck, parked on the 100 block of Colfax avenue.

Donovan Mann, Box 14 Berrien township, told Berrien sheriff's deputies a 16-foot outboard boat, valued at $100 was stolen from a St. Joseph river bank near Berrien Springs.

Benton Harbor police said a rock was hurled against the windshield of a Hasse's Standard service wrecker truck, while being driven by Erwin Hasse on Paw Paw avenue at Miller street, about 9:50 p.m. Friday. Police said Hasse was not injured, but the windshield was shattered.

Man Found Guilty In Savings Plot

A Benton Harborite who attempted to withdraw $400 from a savings account which contained no money was convicted Friday in Berrien Circuit court of attempting to obtain more than $100 under false pretenses.

Jurors in Judge Chester J. Byrns' court deliberated about two hours before returning the guilty verdict against George Malone Jr., 22, of 781 East Main street. He was continued free on $2,000 bond to await sentencing of up to five years in prison.

Malone was accused of attempting, in October, to withdraw $400 from a savings account at the branch of the Farmers & Merchants bank at Colfax avenue and Hinkley street in Benton Harbor. He claimed there was $413 in the account but records indicated the account had no money at the time of the withdrawl request.

Opposing counsel during the two-day trial were Assistant Prosecutor Scott Beatty and St. Joseph Atty. Paul Jancha.

Prison For Ford Threat

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal judge has sentenced a 26-year-old Kalkaska man to five years in prison for threatening to shoot President Ford. Patrick M. Scott was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles to the maximum prison term on the charge of threatening the President. Scott, a Vietnam veteran, was convicted by a federal jury last December. The charge was filed last July just before the President visited Mackinac Island. Scott was accused of telling several persons on nearby Bois Blanc Island that he planned to shoot the President from a lighthouse.

Formula Offered For State Lottery

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It won't make you a winner in the state lottery, but a little mathematical doodling may help you pick up a few extra bucks on spare-time wagers.

Lottery officials have acknowledged there's a definite relationship between the three-digit numbers at the bottom of the 50-cent green ticket and the millionaite drawing number at the top.

"It's very simple," says David Hansen of the lottery. "Take either of the three-digit numbers at the bottom of the ticket, multiply them by 13, add 597 and the last three digits will give you three digits in the million dollar number."

Hansen gives as an example a ticket with the numbers 525-194 at the bottom. Multiplying 525 by 13 gives you 6,825. Adding 597 equals 7,422. Eliminate the first digit and you get 422 — the first three digits in the million dollar number. Following the same equation, the second number comes out as 119.

Another method is to multiply the lower numbers by 13 and subtract 403, using only the last three digits.

Matching one set of the three-digit numbers qualifies an entrant to $25. Matching both means at least $10,000 and perhaps $200,000, while hitting the million-dollar digits means at least $5,000 and a chance at $1 million.

GALS: If you wear glasses, black frames are best if you're a light blonde; red, green or gold flatter dark-eyed brunettes; and pink or rose frames suit a blue-eyed blonde . . . Formula Offered For State Lottery

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It won't make you a winner in the state lottery, but a little mathematical doodling may help you pick up a few extra bucks on spare-time wagers.

Lottery officials have acknowledged there's a definite relationship between the three-digit numbers at the bottom of the 50-cent green ticket and the millionaire drawing number at the top.

"It's very simple," says David Hansen of the lottery. "Take either of the three-digit numbers at the bottom of the ticket, multiply them by 13, add 597 and the last three digits will give you three digits in the million dollar number."

Hansen gives as an example a ticket with the numbers 525-194 at the bottom. Multiplying 525 by 13 gives you 6,825. Adding 597 equals 7,422. Eliminate the first digit and you get 422 — the first three digits in the million dollar number. Following the same equation, the second number comes out as 119.

Another method is to multiply the lower numbers by 13 and subtract 403, using only the last three digits.

Matching one set of the three-digit numbers qualifies an entrant to $25. Matching both means at least $10,000 and perhaps $200,000, while hitting the million-dollar digits means at least $5,000 and a chance at $1 million.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR DANIEL SCHORR

I'm sure you didn't leak the House Intelligence Committee report on the C.I.A. to "The Village Voice" just for the publicity—but how does it feel to be at the center of a controversy in which some are calling you a martyr?—J. B. Held, Washington, D.C.

Diana H. Walker

● The joys of martyrdom are vastly overrated. The publicity has turned my world upside down. I'm working harder than ever and enjoying it less. I feel tired all the time from the strain of being a cause célèbre, and I'm lonely for my family even though they are right in the house—I haven't time for them. Worst of all, I guess, is that I have lost my free speech and can't even say anything without checking it out with my lawyer.

FOR JOHN WAYNE

Is it fair to show films with deceased stars? Isn't it painful for their relatives and friends?—M. E. Wallace, Los Angeles, Calif.

● No. I see no reason why it should be a "painful" experience. It might even recall pleasant experiences in their lives, and it enables all of us who survive to remember them as they were.

FOR NATALIE COLE, singer

Have you ever encountered any racial prejudice?—R.G., Tupelo, Miss.

● Once. My girlfriend invited me to spend the day at her uncle's Florida home. When I arrived, he whispered to my friend that blacks weren't allowed in his house and that I had to go. I went—keeping my cool outside but boiling inside. Do you know what annoyed me? Not the prejudice bit but the fact that he didn't have enough nerve to tell me what he thought to my face. What a coward!

FOR JIMMIE WALKER, star of "Good Times"

Did your parents' divorce upset you?—R.T., Hutchinson, Kans.

● Not one bit. It was nothing to get excited about. Divorce has very little effect on children, as long as they can still eat, play and have somewhere to sleep. I was either in the street playing or else in my room sleeping. People always expect something outrageous when they hear of a childhood shadowed by divorce. The only change in my home life was that my father wasn't there. Also, my mother remarried, and I had a stepfather.

FOR POLLY BERGEN

How have men changed since you first started going out with them?—B.S., Anderson, Ind.

● Not very much. Guys still take me to dimly lit restaurants, where they play smoochy dance music, and send me flowers. I think the biggest difference between then and now is that the waiting time has shortened. Years ago, a gal met a guy and two weeks later he worked up courage for that first kiss. Now that (and perhaps more) happens in one evening.

FOR SEN. LOWELL P. WEICKER (R.-Conn.)

Your performance during the Watergate investigations won you many admirers. Would you ever consider running for President?—Lynn Picune, Mahwah, N.J.

● No, for four reasons: 1) As I stated three years ago, no one should benefit from Watergate. People must believe we acted out of conviction, not ambition. 2) Representing a small state like Connecticut personalizes what is a difficult job and makes it fun. 3) I'm a bad partisan. 4) Having 90 percent of my life belonging to the public is enough.

FOR ARTHUR HERZOG, author of "Earthsound"

Is it really possible that a serious earthquake could strike the U.S.?—Barbara House, Framingham, Mass.

● Definitely—and not just in the West. Early in the 19th century an enormous earthquake struck the whole Midwest. Eyewitness accounts actually claim that the Mississippi River ran backwards for a short time during and after the convulsion.

FOR HILDEGARDE

I'm your age and would like to know how you always manage to look so well-dressed.—D.R., Sacramento, Calif.

● The first thing to remember is that you're not 20 years old any more. When miniskirts came out, I avoided them (knees are like a birth certificate). I always make sure my upper arms are covered (this hides anything that's sagging, and softens the face). I stay away from narrow pants and feel best in something with long, flowing lines.

FOR MEAN JOE GREENE, pro football player

I can't understand why you won't give autographs to fans. Don't you think you have an obligation to do so?—Bill Connolly, Bridgeport, Conn.

● No, I don't. If I don't want to be left in as a tackle when we play a game, then somebody else will play my position. And it's the same way with those people who don't want to take their $7.15 and buy a seat. Somebody else will be there. Just as it's their prerogative to ask for an autograph, it's my prerogative to refuse.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Was drinking responsible for Richard Burton's latest break-up with Liz?—S.J., Scottsbluff, Neb.

● No. Burton, who admits to leaning heavily on the bottle for five years, claims he now has only a glass of rare Burgundy wine now and again. He looks back on those five years as a horrible experience, one he never wants to repeat. Dick blames a personality clash for the split: "She's loving and lovable. Gives back exactly what she receives. The truth of the matter is that we find it impossible to live together—and can't live apart, either." The separation came just before Burton's Broadway opening in "Equus." He gave a flawless performance in spite of his marital problems. Said his friend, Producer Alex Cohen: "Liz and Dick are such pros that nothing in their private lives has any effect whatever on their work."

Clues, in Her Writing, To the Real "Squeaky" Fromme

Huntington Hartford Analyzes the Handwriting Of the Girl Who Wrote Us From Prison

FAMILY WEEKLY Editors showed Lynette Fromme's letter to the famous financier and art patron Huntington Hartford, who also happens to be a handwriting expert and the author of "You Are What You Write," (Macmillan, $4.95). Here is Mr. Hartford's analysis:

By Huntington Hartford
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

In analyzing "Squeaky" Fromme's handwriting, my attention was immediately directed to the fact that I was dealing with a most unusual script—and personality. I thought of that cliché about genius and madness being closely allied. The madness here is clear—for what sane person would attempt to assassinate a President with the horrendous and certain prospect of a lifetime in prison? But, to a graphologist, the intelligence and creativity of this script are also apparent. Squeaky Fromme must indeed possess some kind of evil genius to have been able to assume (as I heard she did) the mantle of her lover Charlie Manson on behalf of his gang; and, indeed, the attempt itself on the President's life was hardly the work of a petty crook.

Yes, we see intelligence here in the indentation of paragraphs and margins. We see a sort of alertness and character in the ebb and flow of the writing's rhythm, giving a beauty to the page, reminiscent of the controlled flourishes of some ancient manuscript. Though not abundant, we do see occasional "figure-8 g's" —where the small "g" is made like a figure 8 or some portion of it. This is often a sign of intellectual depth.

We see an even, forward-leaning slant, very common among outstanding people. We see many long T-bars (though almost all with a certain flourish of questionable meaning), a sign of strength rarely ignored by the graphologist.

Where, then, is the madness in Squeaky Fromme's writing?

Before I answer this question, let me point out that graphologists have done little work on the relationship of handwriting and mental disease, and there is extremely little literature on the subject to draw from. But the madness in Miss Fromme's writing is fully as apparent as the sanity. For example, the script is abounding not only in unnecessary beginning strokes (or marks of immaturity) at the beginning of words, but the beginning strokes themselves are often highly abnormal.

At the beginning of "said" in the first few lines of the letter, for instance, is something which looks like a small "i" without a dot. Again, most of the primary beginning strokes (before the letters "a," "c," "d" and "g") are attached not to the left edge of the word—or the beginning edge—but to the right edge, hanging like a bit of string below the line. And frequently the beginning strokes which do start at the front of words are flying belligerently in the air instead of rising meekly from the basic line, as they usually do.

Next, the rhythm. Rhythm in writing may sometimes tend toward angularity, arcades, arches or garlands, visualized in terms of the small letter "m." An extreme mechanical roundness in the form of arcades is generally looked upon negatively by graphologists. They see the personality of the writer hiding beneath the arch in a manner that suggests hypocrisy. The clockwise nature of the pen in the movement suggests slow, cautious writing which, if accompanied by other factors, is often equated with mental disease or crime.

I also see many signs of violence and stubbornness. I assume from the general nature of the script that Miss Fromme is fairly well-educated. Why, then, the "misplaced" capitals at the beginning of certain words, such as Life and Earth and Everyone and Public Opinion? Graphology has paid little attention to this characteristic, but I made a thorough study of it a number of years ago at Sing Sing prison, and I became convinced that the sudden and impetuous upward strokes of these capitals had an antisocial origin. Admittedly, it is hard to know to what extent illiteracy plays a part, but illiteracy was certainly no excuse for the much capitalized writing of Errol Flynn, whose favorite hobby was stealing the pens of innocent fans!

The Article to Which Miss Fromme Responded

Last December 7, FAMILY WEEKLY ran an article titled "How America Should Spend Its 200th Birthday: The Bicentennial Through a Child's Eyes." The article consisted of letters from children, compiled by Jane Montgomery, a first-grade teacher in Elizabethton, Tenn.

We received many complimentary letters about the article, but none more laudatory—or more surprising—than a rambling handwritten letter from a woman who signed herself "Lynette Fromme."

Lynette, also known as "Squeaky," is serving a life sentence for the attempted assassination of President Ford. Is it a contradiction in terms that she was "reached" by those innocent, funny letters from children?

How America Should Spend Its 200th Birthday:

The Bicentennial, Through a Child's Eyes

A Special Section for the Holiday Season

By Shane

(compiled by Jane Montgomery, First Grade Teacher at the East Side School, Elizabethton, Tenn.)

What Squeaky Wrote . . .

Dear Jane Montgomery—

I read a series of comments by your kids (on the bicentennial) and it was the most meaningful literature I've read in a long while.

That is what is lacking in all the drivel that is printed & said these days—meaning—and it's the lack of it that is killing Life.

A very close friend of mine wrote me once:

"The word 'God' holds all the other words up. Without any real truth, trust, faith, wisdom & love—all the words MEAN NOTHING. Words w/o truth are baby's goo—and even baby's goo goo or a bird's song or a dog's bark are more truth than the Earth's money minds."

I can assume you're a "nice" person who doesn't like to look at the bad side—but I can guarantee you that the condition of the country will get worse because people are refusing to face the bad—as it is shameful what we are pouring into our Earth's vital bloodstreams—the waters. The real horror or sadness or outrage (whichever stage you might be in after apathy) is that Everyone Knows it—the kids most of all and no amount of $ in the world is excuse for depriving them of a clean world. Juvenile crime is up because of it. A self-destructive world forces them to either inflict the problems on themselves—or back on the parents & governments.

Much must be understood. It is not that I come to this country & world with a barrage of the problems everyone knows without solution. I have been yelling solution but am not faced. My solution has been lied of, slandered and sensationalized, sold for money, & murdered w/o understanding because folks don't want to hear of the bad side in order to clean it up. My friend is my solution—that he be heard—as he has deep thought understanding of all of the thoughts that motivate people—yet he sees through the eyes of a child. When he was 9 years old he was put in reform school for having no parents. He has been locked up for 29 years, & he knows the bad. I never called my friend Christ. But I ask this—where did Jesus Christ pass before leaving us last? Barrabas was with Public Opinion in the money.

Lynette Fromme

Finally, I am sure that Squeaky Fromme's writing is one of the most stubborn on record. Many of the words have long downward initial or ending strokes which remind me of stakes driven into the ground: these include: Montgomery, meaningful, read, drivel, printed, said, Life, God, and, will, shameful, all, world, slandered, and, murdered, child, parents, bad. This list, gives dire warning of the bubbling and sultry depths of that very active volcano called Lynette Fromme.

Who can explain the phenomenon of such violence, the complex motives that caused this slender girl, this would-be latter-day Charlotte Corday, to make such an attempt on the life of the mildest and gentlest President who ever flew through the air on skis or bumped his head on an offending doorway?

I can't. Can you?

INCREDIBLY SOFT!

Clues, in Her Writing, To the Real "Squeaky" Fromme

Huntington Hartford Analyzes the Handwriting Of the Girl Who Wrote Us From Prison

FAMILY WEEKLY Editors showed Lynette Fromme's letter to the famous financier and art patron Huntington Hartford, who also happens to be a handwriting expert and the author of "You Are What You Write" (Macmillan, $4.95). Here is Mr. Hartford's analysis:

By Huntington Hartford
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

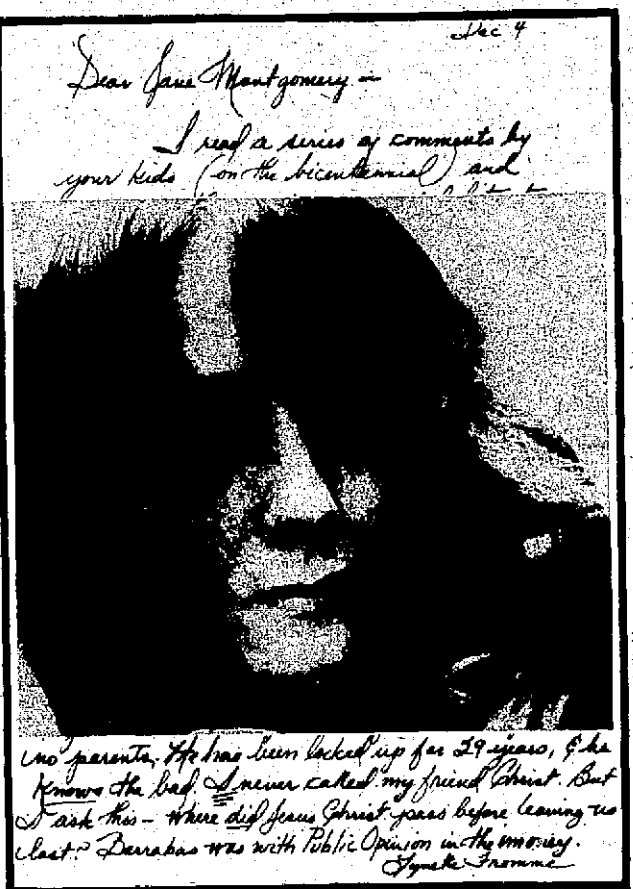

In analyzing "Squeaky" Fromme's handwriting, my attention was immediately directed to the fact that I was dealing with a most unusual script—and personality. I thought of that cliché about genius and madness being closely allied. The madness here is clear—for what sane person would attempt to assassinate a President with the horrendous and certain prospect of a lifetime in prison? But, to a graphologist, the intelligence and creativity of this script are also apparent. Squeaky Fromme must indeed possess some kind of evil genius to have been able to assume (as I heard she did) the mantle of her lover Charlie Manson on behalf of his gang; and, indeed, the attempt itself on the President's life was hardly the work of a petty crook.

Yes, we see intelligence here in the indentation of paragraphs and margins. We see a sort of alertness and character in the ebb and flow of the writing's rhythm, giving a beauty to the page, reminiscent of the controlled flourishes of some ancient manuscript. Though not abundant, we do see occasional "figure-8 g's" —where the small "g" is made like a figure 8 or some portion of it. This is often a sign of intellectual depth.

We see an even, forward-leaning slant, very common among outstanding people. We see many long T-bars (though almost all with a certain flourish of questionable meaning), a sign of strength rarely ignored by the graphologist.

Where, then, is the madness in Squeaky Fromme's writing?

Before I answer this question, let me point out that graphologists have done little work on the relationship of handwriting and mental disease, and there is extremely little literature on the subject to draw from. But the madness in Miss Fromme's writing is fully as apparent as the sanity. For example, the script is abounding not only in unnecessary beginning strokes (or marks of immaturity) at the beginning of words, but the beginning strokes themselves are often highly abnormal.

Dear Jane Montgomery —

I read a series of comments by your kids (on the bicentennial) and no parents. He has been locked up for 29 years, & he knows the bad. I never asked my friend Christ. But I ask this — Where did Jesus Christ pass before leaving us last? Barrabas was with Public Opinion in the morning.

Lynette Fromme

Wide World

Miss Fromme, along with the opening and closing of her letter to Jane Montgomery.

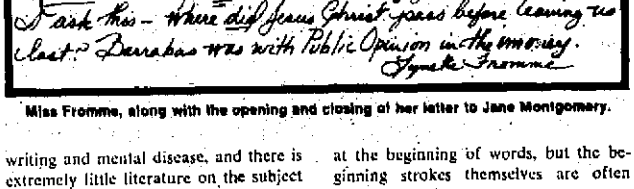

At the beginning of "said" in the first few lines of the letter, for instance, is something which looks like a small "i" without a dot. Again, most of the primary beginning strokes (before the letters "a," "c," "d" and "g") are attached not to the left edge of the word—or the beginning edge—but to the right edge, hanging like a bit of string below the line. And frequently the beginning strokes which do start at the front of words are flying belligerently in the air instead of rising meekly from the basic line, as they usually do.

That is what is lacking in all the drivel that is printed & said these days — meaning — and it's the lack of it that is killing Life.

A very close friend of mine

Next, the rhythm. Rhythm in writing may sometimes tend toward angularity, arcades, arches or garlands, visualized in terms of the small letter "m." An extreme mechanical roundness in the form of arcades is generally looked upon negatively by graphologists. They see the personality of the writer hiding beneath the arch in a manner that suggests hypocrisy. The clockwise nature of the pen in the movement suggests slow, cautious writing which, if accompanied by other factors, is often equated with mental disease or crime.

I also see many signs of violence and stubbornness. I assume from the general nature of the script that Miss Fromme is fairly well-educated. Why, then, the "misplaced" capitals at the beginning of certain words, such as Life and Earth and Everyone and Public Opinion? Graphology has paid little attention to this characteristic, but I made a thorough study of it a number of years ago at Sing Sing prison, and I became convinced that the sudden and impetuous upward strokes of these capitals had an antisocial origin. Admittedly, it is hard to know to what extent illiteracy plays a part, but illiteracy was certainly no excuse for the much capitalized writing of Errol Flynn, whose favorite hobby was stealing the pens of innocent fans!

How to Raise a TV Star

A Chat With TV's Melissa Gilbert and Her Mom

"It's harder for me to make and keep friends because other children get jealous and resent me. A few of my old friends have turned against me."

By Patricia Baum

Before Melissa Gilbert won the part of Laura Ingalls on "Little House on the Prairie," she was a typical little girl. She collected dollhouse furniture, played ball with neighborhood children on her front lawn and enjoyed walks and picnics with her friends and pet beagle. Today, after working on the show for two years, 11-year-old Melissa is the best-known child actress on TV. In fact, she and Tatum O'Neal of the movies are perhaps the only real child "stars" around today.

Yet despite her stature, Melissa is still basically the same, unaffected girl. Really! When I visited her recently, I saw no resemblance to the foot-stomping, tantrum-throwing Child Star. Instead, she seemed surprisingly natural. After rattling off a favorite joke, putting her dog through his repertoire of tricks and showing off her baby sister Sarah, she said, "You see? My life at home is just like everyone else's."

Melissa's life at home includes 8-year-old Jonathan, who appears occasionally on "Little House" as Willie Oleson. "We fight as much as other brothers and sisters do," explains Melissa. "Jonathan knows just what bothers me, and so he does exactly that. At dinner he gobbles his food down in one bite and makes weird noises. He runs into my room and throws a pillow at me. And he sneaks in and takes my things. Once I found my favorite doll in his room with the head pulled off. So I've been paying him back by taking his toys!"

Then she added, "But I think in about four years I'll be old enough to appreciate him more. Once he fell and cut his head open on the coffee table. I was so relieved when I learned he wasn't going to die and only needed three stitches. Then there was the time he got hit in the eye by a swing I was on. I felt so guilty. I went into his room with an ice pack and popsicle for him. But instead of putting the ice on his eye, I accidentally stuck the popsicle in it, and then I felt even worse than before!"

Unlike child stars of the past, Melissa does not live in an adult world. She manages, for the most part, to enjoy an active social life with friends from the neighborhood and from the private school she attends during work-breaks. "But it's harder for me to make and keep friends," she said, "because other children get jealous and resent me. A few of my old friends have turned against me. They go around saying, 'Melissa is a conceited brat and a weirdo.' Or they'll call up and say, 'I think "Little House on the Prairie" is a bunch of baloney!' Then I'll tell them, 'One more call and I'll have your number traced and you'll be eaten by the police!' "

But Melissa feels that losing some friends and some privacy are small prices to pay for her work, which she loves intensely. "I am Laura," she said. "We're both outgoing and somewhat mischievous. We both like the outdoors and all kinds of animals. And I love 'living' in the 1870's, when there was no pollution and everyone rode around on horses and in covered wagons."

She also likes the cast and crew. "Michael Landon is the most wonderful man! I just love him. He's always saying funny things and playing games with us. And when he's directing, he explains very clearly what's happening. Sometimes if it's a sad scene he can make me cry just listening to his description!"

"I only went to one acting class—and I was a total flop."

Melissa's career began at the tender age of 2, when her mother at the urging of a friend, let Melissa appear in a baby-clothing commercial. When she was 7, her mother took her to an agent. She promptly got 10 commercials in a row, then began appearing in dramatic parts on programs such as "Gunsmoke" and "Emergency." "I only went to one acting class," she said, "and I was a total flop. I was asked to pretend I was in my room looking for my pet elephant. I checked the drawers and closets and under the bed. Later I realized what I did was really dumb because a pet elephant would be standing out where I could see it!"

Melissa's great natural talent may be inherited from her comedian father, Paul Gilbert, or from her mother, Barbara Abeles (former actress Barbara Crane). "I first became aware of Melissa's gift for acting," said Barbara, "when she appeared on 'Emergency.' She did a scene in which her father was picked up for being drunk. Her expression was extremely touching."

Despite Melissa's interest and ability, Barbara took a cautious attitude toward her career. "I carefully limited the number of assignments I let her take. I didn't want her schooling to suffer. In fact, I was reluctant to let her work in a series at all! But this one was so special! So far, she has managed to do well both in her lessons on the set—she gets three hours a day by law—and at the school she attends when not working."

Barbara considers it best to remain in the background and not involve herself too closely in Melissa's work. "In the beginning," she says, "I gave her some advice about acting—about how to let go of her emotions and really feel she is Laura instead of just pretending. But I don't make a habit of analyzing and discussing her work. I don't even hang around the set. And when Melissa went on location for three weeks, I stayed for one week and then sent a governess to be with her the other two weeks. I'm not the typical doting stage mother at all because I have the rest of the family to look after and because I don't want to give Melissa the idea that she's the center of everything."

Around home, too, Barbara has treated Melissa in an ordinary way. "Although we have help, Melissa has certain chores she must do, such as clearing the table," she says. "I see that she makes her bed and keeps her room clean. And if she doesn't do what she's supposed to, I'll deny her privileges."

What does she think her daughter is like today? "Melissa has perhaps one little shortcoming," says Barbara. "At times she is somewhat careless with her belongings. She'll break a toy or lose an article of clothing. But I certainly wouldn't consider her spoiled in any way. And she has many good and unusual qualities for a child. She is very responsible—she learns her lines and performs well because so many people depend on her. And she's extremely level-headed. She considers her work a great experience while it lasts and knows she will always have wonderful memories of it. But her happiness doesn't depend on it. So if all this ended tomorrow, Melissa would just get excited about something else."

The Article to Which Miss Fromme Responded

Last December 7, FAMILY WEEKLY ran an article titled "How America Should Spend Its 200th Birthday: The Bicentennial Through a Child's Eyes." The article consisted of letters from children, compiled by Jane Montgomery, a first-grade teacher in Elizabethton, Tenn.

We received many complimentary letters about the article, but none more laudatory—or more surprising—than a rambling handwritten letter from a woman who signed herself "Lynette Fromme."

Lynette, also known as "Squeaky," is serving a life sentence for the attempted assassination of President Ford. Is it a contradiction in terms that she was "reached" by those innocent, funny letters from children?

How America Should Spend Its 200th Birthday:

The Bicentennial, Through a Child's Eyes

A Special Section for the Holiday Season

What Squeaky Wrote . . .

Dear Jane Montgomery—

I read a series of comments by your kids (on the bicentennial) and it was the most meaningful literature I've read in a long while.

That is what is lacking in all the drivel that is printed & said these days—meaning—and it's the lack of it that is killing Life.

A very close friend of mine wrote me once:

"The word 'God' holds all the other words up. Without any real truth, trust, faith, wisdom & love—all the words MEAN NOTHING. Words w/o truth are baby's goo—and even baby's goo goo or a bird's song or a dog's bark are more truth than the Earth's money minds."

I can assume you're a "nice" person who doesn't like to look at the bad side—but I can guarantee you that the condition of the country will get worse because people are refusing to face the bad—as it is shameful what we are pouring into our Earth's vital bloodstreams—the waters. The real horror or sadness or outrage (whichever stage you might be in after apathy) is that Everyone Knows it—the kids most of all and no amount of $ in the world is excuse for depriving them of a clean world. Juvenile crime is up because of it. A self-destructive world forces them to either inflict the problems on themselves—or back on the parents & governments.

Much must be understood. It is not that I come to this country & world with a barrage of the problems everyone knows without solution. I have been yelling solution but am not faced. My solution has been lied of, slandered and sensationalized, sold for money, & murdered w/o understanding because folks don't want to hear of the bad side in order to clean it up. My friend is my solution—that he be heard—as he has deep thought understanding of all of the thoughts that motivate people—yet he sees through the eyes of a child. When he was 9 years old he was put in reform school for having no parents. He has been locked up for 29 years, & he knows the bad. I never called my friend Christ. But I ask this—where did Jesus Christ pass before leaving us last? Barrabas was with Public Opinion in the money.

Lynette Fromme

Finally, I am sure that Squeaky Fromme's writing is one of the most stubborn on record. Many of the words have long downward initial or ending strokes which remind me of stakes driven into the ground: these include: Montgomery, meaningful, read, drivel, printed, said, Life, God, and, will, shameful, all, world, slandered, and, murdered, child, parents, bad. This list, gives dire warning of the bubbling and sultry depths of that very active volcano called Lynette Fromme.

Who can explain the phenomenon of such violence, the complex motives that caused this slender girl, this would-be latter-day Charlotte Corday, to make such an attempt on the life of the mildest and gentlest President who ever flew through the air on skis or bumped his head on an offending doorway? I can't. Can you?

JIM "CATFISH" HUNTER:

How He Learned "Control" On the Farm

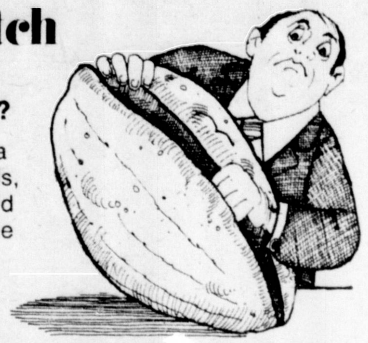

Jim "Catfish" Hunter became the highest-paid baseball player in history when he signed with the New York Yankees last year for an estimated $3.75 million, but he continues to live the quiet, homespun life of a North Carolina farmer. In the off-season, he runs his soybean and peanut farm in his home town of Hertford and spends his spare hours hunting and fishing. Even during the baseball season in New York, he skips the expensive night spots and goes right to his home in Norwood, N.J. He followed the same pattern when he was with the Oakland A's. "I only went into the city of San Francisco once in the seven years I was out there," he says. "I just don't like cities." . . . Hunter got off to a slow start last season, but he soon regained his form and wound up with 23 victories and a 2.58 earned-run average. It was the fifth year in a row that he had won 20 or more games. . . . Hunter is not as fast as a lot of other pitchers: the key to his success is his remarkable control. "I learned control around the farm," he recalls. "We had a little hole in the barn door, and we'd all throw at it and see who could hit the hole. I had four brothers, and the one who couldn't hit the hole had to do all the chores, so I really worked hard to develop perfect aim." Hunter also feels that his hunting skill has helped sharpen his mound talent. "When you turn the ball loose, your arm's out in front of you just like a rifle. You have to line up your eye, the ball and the plate the way you line up your eye, the rifle sight and the target." . . . Hunter's career record in post-season play is 7-1, with a perfect 4-0 World Series mark. He has been selected for seven All-Star teams and won the Cy Young award in 1974. . . . He's done little with his new-found wealth. "I'm not a man who's about to change his life style," he says.

Can the "Shell Game" Help You Lose Weight?

If a hostess offered you a dish of unshelled almonds, would you be less inclined to accept a few than if she offered you a dish of shelled ones? In tests made by Dr. Devendra Singh, an associate professor of psychology at the University of Texas in Austin, it appears that obese people are so unwilling to work to get food, that when 19 obese people were offered unshelled nuts, 18 refused them. But when they were offered shelled almonds, virtually all the obese people ate them. Further research by Dr. Singh reveals that when an obese person knows that shelled or unwrapped food can be obtained, his emotional reaction is to spurn the food that's wrapped or still in the shell. "It is rather impressive," comments Dr. Singh, "that merely by wrapping cashews we can induce a dramatic reduction in eating by obese subjects." When giving a party where you generally serve candy and nuts, why not reduce temptation by filling bowls with unshelled nuts? And if you want to wrap cashews in silver foil, you can always tell your guests you've discovered they stay fresher that way.

People and You

Can You Really Let the Kids Decide?

You may be confusing your children by acting like one of their pals instead of their parent. Child psychiatrist Milton Engel of Georgetown University says many children are in emotional trouble because their mothers and fathers have been so busy acting like friends, the children have been left witho the adult guidance they need. These pal-parents react to controversial topics with, "Oh, we have faith in their ability. We let them decide that for themselves." Under t guise of being the child's friend, the parent escapes the hassle of making decisions and enforcing standards. And the parents mistakenly believe it also gains them th child's love. It doesn't work like that, says Dr. Engel. Instead youngsters who are allowed to "decide for them selves" often develop a variety of problems from being forced to make decisions that are beyond their young ability. Unable to judge the consequences properly, they are then thrown into experiences that they are too immature to cope with. This can lead to "a distorted view of the world and their parents."

Asking for a Raise: How Men and Women Differ

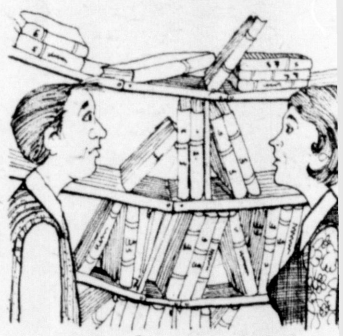

There's a difference between the way men and women go after the pay they think they deserve. A man may take a while collecting his courage, but eventually he'll ask the boss. Most women, however, use an approach that has been dubbed If-I'm-Efficient-I'll-Be-Noticed-and-Rewarded. Probably because of social conditioning, women fail to ask for pay increases or promotions they sincerely believe they've earned. Instead they toil conscientiously and wait for their supervisor to offer a raise or promotion. If the boss is a man, he's probably totally unaware of the women's viewpoint. There are always exceptions, but the usual boss's outlook is, "If subordinates don't ask for a raise, they must be satisfied." This situation can explode in both the manager's and women's faces. The boss may one day discover a valued woman subordinate is suddenly giving notice and is off to a better job. This comes as a perfidious shock to him. After all, she never intimated she wasn't perfectly content. And of course the woman leaves feeling "unappreciated"—when that may not have been the case at all.

When "Saving" Wastes Money

Is it ever a mistake to be thrifty? Yes, say financial experts—when you go to extremes to show how careful you can be about spending money. "See how-economical-I-am" is often a trap that turns saving into wasting. For example, when a carpenter estimated it would cost $400 to build bookshelves and storage cabinets across a couple's living-room wall, the couple decided they could do it themselves for half the price. After many weekends of work—plus $220 worth of lumber and hardware—the job was finished. But soon the couple noticed that cabinet doors didn't close right, and the bookshelves were sagging and warping. They had to get the carpenter to fix things. Their total cost was $430—more than the original estimate. Here are some other instances of when over-economizing can be poor judgment: "doing-it-yourself" to save on home repairs when you aren't really handy; buying "bargains" that aren't; compromising on quality when it only means having to replace the item sooner; and pouring money into repairs on old appliances when it would be more sensible financially to buy new ones.

JIM "CATFISH" HUNTER:

How He Learned "Control" On the Farm

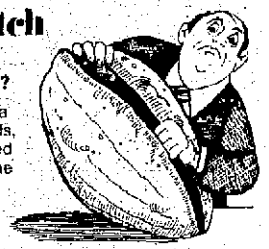

Jim "Catfish" Hunter became the highest-paid baseball player in history when he signed with the New York Yankees last year for an estimated $3.75 million, but he continues to live the quiet, homespun life of a North Carolina farmer. In the off-season, he runs his soybean and peanut farm in his home town of Hertford and spends his spare hours hunting and fishing. Even during the baseball season in New York, he skips the expensive night spots and goes right to his home in Norwood, N.J. He followed the same pattern when he was with the Oakland A's. "I only went into the city of San Francisco once in the seven years I was out there," he says, "I just don't like cities." . . . Hunter got off to a slow start last season, but he soon regained his form and wound up with 23 victories and a 2.58 earned-run average. It was the fifth year in a row that he had won 20 or more games. . . . Hunter is not as fast as a lot of other pitchers; the key to his success is his remarkable control. "I learned control around the farm," he recalls. "We had a little hole in the barn door, and we'd all throw at it and see who could hit the hole. I had four brothers, and the one who couldn't hit the hole had to do all the chores, so I really worked hard to develop perfect aim." Hunter also feels that his hunting skill has helped sharpen his mound talent. "When you turn the ball loose, your arm's out in front of you just like a rifle. You have to line up your eye, the ball and the plate the way you line up your eye, the rifle sight and the target." . . . Hunter's career record in post-season play is 7-1, with a perfect 4-0 World Series mark. He has been selected for seven All-Star teams and won the Cy Young award in 1974. . . . He's done little with his new-found wealth. "I'm not a man who's about to change his life style," he says.

More cigarette vs. your cigarette.

1. Is your cigarette as long and as lean as our cigarette for more pleasure, more style?
2. Does your cigarette draw as easy as our cigarette for more tobacco enjoyment?
3. Does your cigarette smoke slower than a 100 mm cigarette for more smoking time?
4. Does your cigarette come in a burnished brown wrap so it looks as good as it smokes?
5. Does your cigarette sit neat in your hand like it was made for it and fit your face like it found a home?
6. Does your cigarette give you all this yet cost no more than a 100 mm cigarette (which means more for your money)?

If the answer to all these questions is yes, your cigarette is probably More. Because there's only one cigarette that's so much more. More.

Novelist James Farrell

By James T. Farrell:
Finding My Irish Past Along Shannon's Shores

In a recent trip to Ireland, novelist James T. Farrell, best known for his "Studs Lonigan" trilogy, took a boat trip with friends, Sean and Pat, down the Shannon River. It was his third trip to Ireland—but the first in 20 years. Here are some eloquent excerpts from letters he wrote home to his wife.

Dearest,

We drove through the town of Mullingar. My grandmother had spoken often of the Mullingar Fair. Sometimes she would seem sad, at other times excited as she described the wonders of Mullingar.

Mullingar turned out to be a small town, with a steady flow of automobile traffic along its main street. It was part of another, newer world, much different from the Mullingar of my grandmother's girlhood.

Driving through it, my thoughts had been of the change which is measured by time. But once beyond the town, once the greenness and the stillness had reappeared, my thoughts were full of a past unknown to me, a past of the little town of Mullingar, of Westmeath and of the River Shannon more than a hundred years ago. I felt an almost emotional pain for a lost past that I could never know. I was traveling to board the launch, to spend a few days on the River Shannon in the present; but I was also looking for that vanished, all-but-forgotten past. I, like millions of other Americans abroad, prowl the past so that we can understand today. I was hoping to know my own feelings and emotions, and to experience new feelings and emotions and to imagine the feelings of others, now long since dead, who had shadowed my own life . . . and of still others who are yet to be born in my fiction.

It was late afternoon when we picked up our boat in Newton Falls. Soon I was on a launch moving over the dark, wrinkling surface of the River Shannon flowing. As a boy I used to play a record on our Victrola about the River Shannon flowing. It, along with "My Wild Irish Rose" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," was one of my favorite songs.

The River Shannon is one of the most beautiful rivers in the world. It has long been an inspiration for creativity and reflection, for meditation, for sentiment—and for sentimentality. And even though I had been in Ireland twice before, I had only seen the river from the air while landing or taking off from Shannon Airport.

Dearest,

From time to time the sky turns dark and threatening, but we've come to accept the weather as part of the atmosphere and as part of the charm and poetry of Ireland. Pat made the comment that if it weren't for the weather, Ireland would sink into the sea from the weight of the people on it.

Dearest,

I came down with a cold. I had no sooner set foot on the jetty at Carrick-on-Shannon when I met a stranger who happened to be a doctor. I explained my problem. I was just starting on a trip; I wanted to be comfortable; I would not like to burden my friends. Could he recommend something to suppress a developing cold? He led me to where his car was parked and opened the trunk. It was a veritable drugstore. Americans take far too many pills, he said, and he didn't approve of this. But, considering the circumstances, he would give me something.

Reaching for a bottle of pills, he asked me if I could stop after one or two brandies. I said yes.

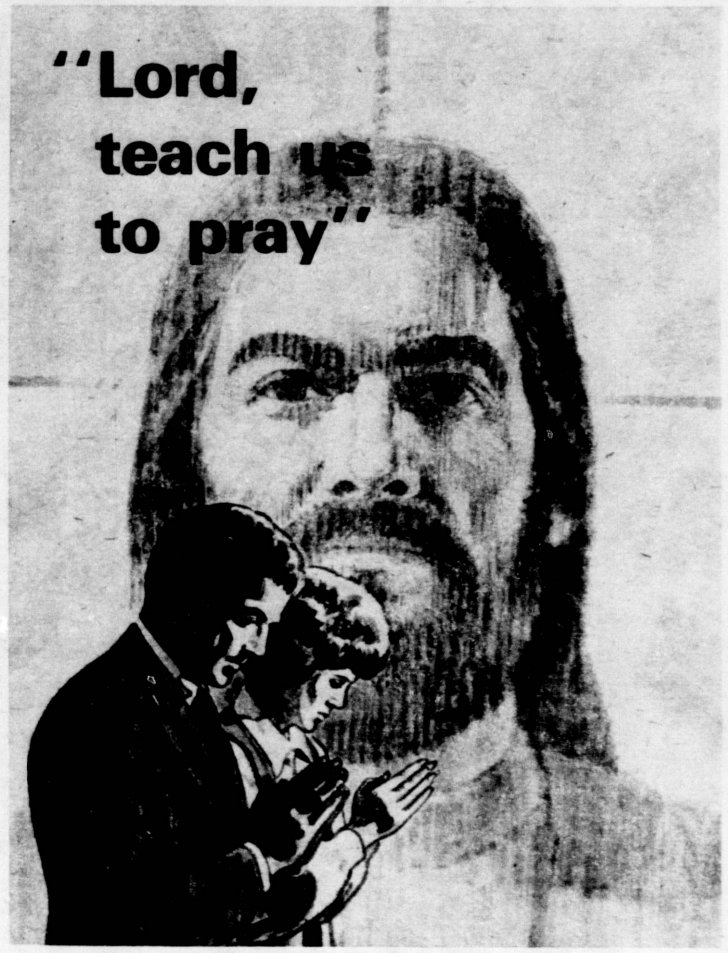

"Good, take a drink or two with these."

The next morning we awoke to a gray day. The sun appeared only fitfully, but it did not rain. We got off in the launch, still going downstream. Along the banks, the fields were green and beautiful. The sheer beauty along the Shannon is continuous. There are few houses to be seen. Fields and woods. Sun and sky and water. Herds of cattle grazed. Many seemed to be carved of stone, except for their flicking tails. From time to time, a gnarled tree with a branch twisted and turned and shaped like a wooden gargoyle would separate itself from other trees lining the banks. The world was infinitely quiet. The world beyond what was immediate and visible seemed to blur away, a blur of dimly remembered frictions and pressures. Other than the sounds of our motor, there were only the noises of nature. The past became now; and now became then. The thousands of days, of yesterdays, that had crowded over and disappeared above these waters were the same as these days. It seemed that there never had been, never could be, anything but quiet on these waters. And yet, the River Shannon has known the violence which marks the whole long history of man. There had been war by the Shannon. The Vikings sailed up the Shannon spreading fire and death. So had the English. And once there had been commercial traffic on the Shannon. Now, save for relatively few barges, there are only pleasure craft.

Clonmacnoise, one of the oldest ruins in Ireland, is on the Shannon beyond the city of Athlone. What interested me most in Athlone was the "Steeple of Athlone" of which my grandmother spoke. This is the Gothic tower of St. Mary's Cathedral, a Roman Catholic Church completed in 1860. I went to see the tower at midnight. It pointed towards a moonlit sky, through which thousands of bright shiny stars had been carelessly flung like jewels tossed upon an enormous rug. The tower seemed to belong to the sky. I looked at it. It had been one of the wonders of my grandmother's girlhood. It was a visible and tangible memorial of that lost past which I had been looking for.

And I had found it.

James Farrell, will have his 50th book, "The Dunne Family," published by Doubleday later this year.

The need for prayer—especially in time of danger or anxiety—is instinctive in almost everyone. Yet many people regard it chiefly as a means of obtaining God's favors. And when everything they pray for is not granted, they often wonder if God is really listening.

Christ's teachings on prayer, however, reveal that God does indeed hear and answer each of our prayers . . . but not necessarily by granting every favor we want or think we need.

To help you understand why this is so, we have prepared a special pamphlet explaining the true meaning and purpose of prayer. You will learn from it how Christ gave us the Lord's Prayer not merely as words to be recited, but as the model for perfect prayer. And you will learn, too, the truth of Our Lord's promise: "Ask, and it shall be given you."

Fitness is my business

I RECOMMEND BULLWORKER® BECAUSE IT'S FAST, IT'S EASY AND IT REALLY WORKS!

Bob Breton says "I earn my living by keeping top executives in peak physical shape. My clients insist on maximum results with minimum time and effort. I recommend Bullworker because it's fast, it's easy and it really works."

Most men know they're not getting enough exercise to keep their bodies in shape.

Ten years as a fitness coach has taught me one important fact: most men will not stick with a training program long enough for it to do them any good, unless the training is fast, easy and shows results right away.

Bullworker gets a top score on all three counts:

—it's fast: each exercise takes only 7 seconds and the complete workout can be done in about five minutes

—it's easy: any man between 15 and 65 in good general health can perform the full program without getting tired

—you see your results right from the very first day on the built-in Powermeter gauge. After two to three weeks of regular training, most men can expect to measure an extra inch or two of muscle on their shoulders, chest and biceps—and an inch or two less flab around the middle.

And that's just the start: there are specialized exercises for building-up or trimming-down any part of your body you want to. What's more since Bullworker training is progressive, you perform better each time. Yet the training always seems easy since with every workout your strength increases by about 1%—that's an increase of up to 50% in just three months, and I've seen many men go on to double and even triple their strength. For my money, Bullworker is the most advanced home trainer on the market. I use it and recommend it to any man who wants to get back in top shape fast.

Novelist James Farrell

By James T. Farrell: Finding My Irish Past Along Shannon's Shores

In a recent trip to Ireland, novelist James T. Farrell, best known for his "Studs Lonigan" trilogy, took a boat trip with friends, Sean and Pat, down the Shannon River. It was his third trip to Ireland—but the first in 20 years. Here are some eloquent excerpts from letters he wrote home to his wife.

Dearest,

We drove through the town of Mullingar. My grandmother had spoken often of the Mullingar Fair. Sometimes she would seem sad, at other times excited as she described the wonders of Mullingar.

Mullingar turned out to be a small town, with a steady flow of automobile traffic along its main street. It was part of another, newer world, much different from the Mullingar of my grandmother's girlhood.

Driving through it, my thoughts had been of the change which is measured by time. But once beyond the town, once the greenness and the stillness had reappeared, my thoughts were full of a past unknown to me, a past of the little town of Mullingar, of Westmeath and of the River Shannon more than a hundred years ago. I felt an almost emotional pain for a lost past that I could never know. I was traveling to board the launch, to spend a few days on the River Shannon in the present; but I was also looking for that vanished, all-but-forgotten past. I, like millions of other Americans abroad, prowl the past so that we can understand today. I was hoping to know my own feelings and emotions, and to experience new feelings and emotions and to imagine the feelings of others, now long since dead, who had shadowed my own life . . . and of still others who are yet to be born in my fiction.

It was late afternoon when we picked up our boat in Newton Falls. Soon I was on a launch moving over the dark, wrinkling surface of the River Shannon flowing. As a boy I used to play a record on our Victrola about the River Shannon flowing. It, along with "My Wild Irish Rose" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," was one of my favorite songs.

The River Shannon is one of the most beautiful rivers in the world. It has long been an inspiration for creativity and reflection, for meditation, for sentiment—and for sentimentality. And even though I had been in Ireland twice before, I had only seen the river from the air while landing or taking off from Shannon Airport.

Dearest,

From time to time the sky turns dark and threatening, but we've come to accept the weather as part of the atmosphere and as part of the charm and poetry of Ireland. Pat made the comment that if it weren't for the weather, Ireland would sink into the sea from the weight of the people on it.

Dearest,

I came down with a cold. I had no sooner set foot on the jetty at Carrick-on-Shannon when I met a stranger who happened to be a doctor. I explained my problem. I was just starting on a trip; I wanted to be comfortable; I would not like to burden my friends. Could he recommend something to suppress a developing cold? He led me to where his car was parked and opened the trunk. It was a veritable drugstore. Americans take far too many pills, he said, and he didn't approve of this. But, considering the circumstances, he would give me something.

Reaching for a bottle of pills, he asked me if I could stop after one or two brandies. I said yes.

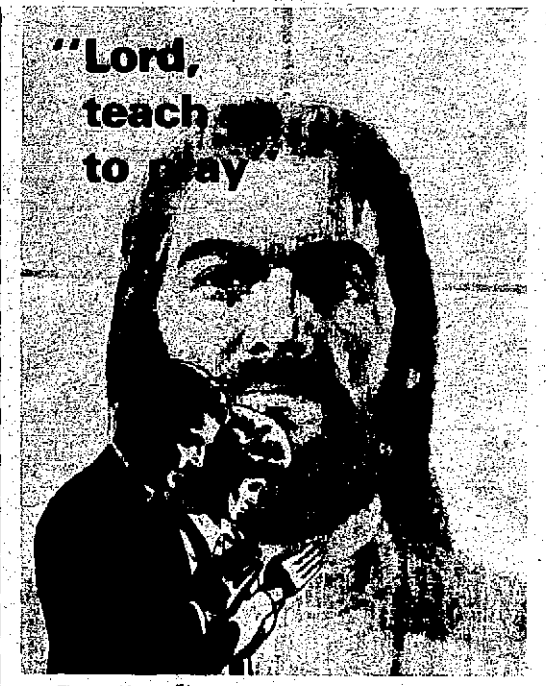

"Good, take a drink or two with these."

The next morning we awoke to a gray day. The sun appeared only fitfully, but it did not rain. We got off in the launch, still going downstream. Along the banks, the fields were green and beautiful. The sheer beauty along the Shannon is continuous. There are few houses to be seen. Fields and woods. Sun and sky and water. Herds of cattle grazed. Many seemed to be carved of stone, except for their flicking tails. From time to time, a gnarled tree with a branch twisted and turned and shaped like a wooden gargoyle would separate itself from other trees lining the banks. The world was infinitely quiet. The world beyond what was immediate and visible seemed to blur away, a blur of dimly remembered frictions and pressures. Other than the sounds of our motor, there were only the noises of nature. The past became now; and now became then. The thousands of days, of yesterdays, that had crowded over and disappeared above these waters were the same as these days. It seemed that there never had been, never could be, anything but quiet on these waters. And yet, the River Shannon has known the violence which marks the whole long history of man. There had been war by the Shannon. The Vikings sailed up the Shannon spreading fire and death. So had the English. And once there had been commercial traffic on the Shannon. Now, save for relatively few barges, there are only pleasure craft.

Clonmacnoise, one of the oldest ruins in Ireland, is on the Shannon beyond the city of Athlone. What interested me most in Athlone was the "Steeple of Athlone" of which my grandmother spoke. This is the Gothic tower of St. Mary's Cathedral, a Roman Catholic Church completed in 1860. I went to see the tower at midnight. It pointed towards a moonlit sky, through which thousands of bright shiny stars had been carelessly flung like jewels tossed upon an enormous rug. The tower seemed to belong to the sky. I looked at it. It had been one of the wonders of my grandmother's girlhood. It was a visible and tangible memorial of that lost past which I had been looking for.

And I had found it.

James Farrell, will have his 50th book, "The Dunne Family," published by Doubleday later this year.

The need for prayer—especially in time of danger or anxiety—is instinctive in almost everyone. Yet many people regard it chiefly as a means of obtaining God's favors. And when everything they pray for is not granted, they often wonder if God is really listening.

Christ's teachings on prayer, however, reveal that God does indeed hear and answer each of our prayers . . . but not necessarily by granting every favor we want or think we need.

To help you understand why this is so, we have prepared a special pamphlet explaining the true meaning and purpose of prayer. You will learn from it how Christ gave us the Lord's Prayer not merely as words to be recited, but as the model for perfect prayer. And you will learn, too, the truth of Our Lord's promise; "Ask, and it shall be given you."

Fitness is my business

I RECOMMEND BULLWORKER® BECAUSE IT'S FAST, IT'S EASY AND IT REALLY WORKS!

Bob Breton says "I earn my living by keeping top executives in peak physical shape. My clients insist on maximum results with minimum time and effort. I recommend Bullworker because it's fast, it's easy and it really works."

Most men know they're not getting enough exercise to keep their bodies in shape.

Ten years as a fitness coach has taught me one important fact: most men will not stick with a training program long enough for it to do them any good, unless the training is fast, easy and shows results right away.

Bullworker gets a top score on all three counts:

—it's fast: each exercise takes only 7 seconds and the complete workout can be done in about five minutes

—it's easy: any man between 15 and 65 in good general health can perform the full program without getting tired

—you see your results right from the very first day on the built-in Power-meter gauge. After two to three weeks of regular training, most men can expect to measure an extra inch or two of muscle on their shoulders, chest and biceps—and an inch or two less flab around the middle.

And that's just the start: there are specialized exercises for building-up or trimming-down any part of your body you want to. What's more since Bullworker training is progressive, you perform better each time. Yet the training always seems easy since with every workout your strength increases by about 1%—that's an increase of up to 50% in just three months, and I've seen many men go on to double and even triple their strength. For my money, Bullworker is the most advanced home trainer on the market. I use it and recommend it to any man who wants to get back in top shape fast.

Jackie's Horoscope shows... super fame and fortune were her destiny!

by Barbara Walthers

An astrological research team was recently assembled in Los Angeles to study Jackie's life. They found that at the very minute of her birth, her horoscope predicted, that super-fame and super-fortune were her destiny!

Let's take a look at some of the actual facts revealed by Jackie's horoscope. Jackie's Sun is in Leo, indicating a ruling role in life — and in her adult life she became as close to a queen as an American could get — the First Lady of the land!

In her horoscope, Pluto 18° Cancer, predicts that the men in her life will be connected with the liquid elements. This prediction certainly came true. The late John F. Kennedy was an avid amateur sailor and in the Second World War he first gained national attention for his daring exploits as a P.T. boat captain. And Jackie's second husband, the late and fabulously wealthy Aristotle Onassis, built his legendary fortune by establishing a vast shipping empire.

The planetary aspect Sun Sextile Jupiter in her horoscope shows that public service and publishing are major career interests. She won the Emmy Award for public service and has recently accepted an editorial position with a leading national publishing firm.

Jackie's rising sign is ascendant 28° Scorpio revealing that she loves travel and adventure. And her jet-setting life has been one of the world's most publicized adventures.

Venus 22° Gemini and Jupiter 10° Gemini in her horoscope indicate wealth in the house of partners — and both of Jackie's husbands have been wealthy.

One of the most telling predictions of all was the tragic day of John F. Kennedy's assassination. Transit Mars and Transit Venus were opposite Venus in Jackie's chart indicating grave danger to her husband. Transit Pluto was conjunct to her Mars, a heavy aspect of a dangerous situation in public groups.

HOW ASTROLOGY AFFECTS YOU

Jackie Onassis, of course, is not unique in the uncanny accuracy of her horoscope. Everyone born has a completely personal horoscope that is totally different from that of any other person in the entire world. To illustrate how astrology affects everyone, I'd like to share with you some of the research findings of the Institute for Applied Astrology.

"Hair" the most successful musical of all times had a full time astrologer. He advised them on every single step. He told them when and where to open. He got top credit right along with the writers and the director!

In 1908, an astrologer, John Hazelrig, said that every 20 years, when the Transits of Saturn and Jupiter are conjunct (come together) the President who took office that year would die in office. Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Harding, Franklin Roosevelt and Kennedy did exactly that!

Carol Richter is astrologer to Hollywood. Hundreds of the famous have used his Transit astrology. People like Marlene Dietrich, Gloria Swanson, Ronald Colman, Tyrone Power and Danny Kaye. Carol Richter became as astrologer because Evangeline Adams, who was astrologer to Kings, Queens and financiers, told him astrology was his vocation according to the stars.

Hitler was conquering Europe as long as he followed his Horoscope as prepared by Karl E. Kraft. But when Kraft's charts told Hitler it was not the time to turn East to Russia, Hitler fired him. That was the beginning of the end for Hitler. (See Wm. Shirers "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich".)

Countless brilliant scientists, writers and geniuses through the ages have believed in Astrology. Great men like St. Thomas Aquinas, Sir Roger Bacon (father of modern science), Shakespeare, Sir Isaac Newton, Carl Jung, Einstein, and J. P. Morgan have all openly agreed that astrology works!

JACKIE'S ASTRO-PORTRAIT

Jackie is probably the world's best known woman. But, like the rest of us, she was born into this world at a time and in a place over which she had no control. However, as shown in her horoscope cast by our astrological research group, fate had great plans for her future. To really get to know Jackie and her fabulous life you've got to read about what her horoscope says.

MODERN SCIENCE PROVES ASTROLOGY WORKS

Recently in France a famous scientist named Michel Gauquelin decided to prove that Astrology was a fake. So he attacked it scientifically! In France the time of birth is on every birth certificate, so he was able to hire Astrologers to cast the horoscopes of 576 famous teachers of medicine. He was astonished to discover that most of them had Mars and Saturn heavily influencing their character! These are the signs that show a natural talent for healing. He refused to believe his own evidence, so he checked the horoscopes of famous lawyers, soldiers, politicians and artists. He found that in every single instance the people that were successful, were "doing what comes naturally" as shown on their astrological charts. Unfortunately the opposite also holds true. The people who fail at their work and in their lives are the ones who do the wrong things. They are square pegs in round holes: they are plumbers who should be doctors, mechanics who should be engineers, etc.

HERE'S HOW ASTROLOGY WORKS

Most people have heard about the rich, famous and successful people who use astrology practically full time, but they still think that astrology is the "fortune cookie" horoscope they read in their daily paper, or the Natal horoscope that they can buy for a few dollars. But this is not true, for astrology is an exact and demanding science.

To prepare a true, in-depth, total personal horoscope for you, an astrologer must first make a chart showing the sun, the moon, and all eight planets as they were at the time and place of your birth. This is where all other computer horoscope companies stop. But that is only half the job.

Next, the astrologer must relate "Transits" to your basic chart. Transits are the changes in the positions of the sun, moon, and planets as they move away from the positions they were in at your birth. And only the Institute for Applied Astrology does this!

When this Total chart is finished it is completely personal, completely different, and completely about you! And the written evaluation is what astrologers call your Total Horoscope. Natal astrology alone is like reading a good book about big game hunting and then going to darkest Africa on your own. "Total" astrology is like having a top professional hunter to help guide you through the jungle. The special knowledge contained in this horoscope can change your life in many wonderful ways. We all know, for example, that while none of us are good at everything, each of us are good at something. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. And armed with that knowledge you can forge ahead and be at ease and happy while you do it.

Your horoscope delves deeply into your personality, revealing your hidden talents. It will tell you about the areas where you have ability but may have been uncertain and afraid to try — things like writing or acting, art, sex, leadership, public relations, advertising, athletics, etc.

Think of it this way: you only have one life to live, so why not get everything from it that you can! Why waste your time charging down blind alleys that can easily be avoided? You have a real duty to yourself and to your loved ones to make the most of each precious moment. And your Total horoscope can give you the edge you need to see your opportunities and take advantage of them.

For a limited time only, while the internationally known Institute for Applied Astrology is carrying on its extensive research program, you can get your Total Horoscope for only a duplicating cost. The casting and analyzing are done FREE! The article below tells you how to get your Horoscope. For the sake of your own personal happiness — don't pass up this unique opportunity. It's the kind of new chance for success that comes along only once in each person's life.

Limited Research Program Invitation

WHY WE GIVE YOU THE WORLD'S ONLY TOTAL HOROSCOPE FOR JUST OUR COPYING COST

by Lois Rodden, A.F.A.—P.A.I. Chief Astrologer

There are a lot of computer horoscopes on the market — and most of them are okay as far as they go. But that's just it — they really don't go far enough! Only the Institute for Applied Astrology can prepare your TOTAL HOROSCOPE for you because only we have "transits" stored in our giant computer.

Where the sun, moon and planets happen to be at the time of your birth is what makes up your Natal (birthdate) Horoscope. But that's only the beginning of a TOTAL HOROSCOPE, yet that's all you get from other computer horoscope companies. You see, the sun, moon and planets keep right on moving. They are in Transit. And day after day they keep forming new angles with your birth chart. These Transits show every single important period of your life! And no horoscope that does not include these transits is a TOTAL HOROSCOPE.

Now, for a limited time only, if you will help us with our research program, you can get your own personal TOTAL HOROSCOPE for just a duplicating charge. Since your TOTAL HOROSCOPE must be constructed anyway for our research you may have an exact duplicate copy for only $3.00 to cover our printing cost, plus just 55¢ for postage and handling. The preparation, the casting, and the professional analysis are provided without charge! To join our research program and get your TOTAL HOROSCOPE, here's all you do. Write down your time and place of birth, as exact as possible, on a piece of paper and send it to me. I'll cast and analyze your TOTAL HOROSCOPE as part of our current astrological research program.

Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will run from 14 to 18 pages — up to 10,000 words (three to four times larger than ordinary Natal [birthdate] Horoscopes) — and here are just a few of the important things it will do for you:

1 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will make you know yourself. That means you can make use of your strong points and fight off your weak ones.

2 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will analyze your character in depth giving you psychological facts that some people pay analysts a fortune for.

3 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will give you new insights into the talents and abilities you never before gave yourself credit for having.

4 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how and when to use these talents to open up a better life and future.

5 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how to get along with more people . . . thereby enriching your social, business and sexual life.

6 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you the people you are compatible with. It will make you understand how to use those people to get ahead. This covers every aspect of living — family, friends, business associates, partnerships, romances, etc.

7 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how to form meaningful and exciting personal and sexual relations with the right partners — and how to keep these relationships strong and satisfying.

8 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will not only give you practical vocational and career advice but will show you the best times to use that information for maximum effect.

9 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will be loaded with beneficial advice on money matters. It will tell you when to take chances and when to be careful. This is exceptionally important if you have a tendency to take risks.

10 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE covers all matters relating to your body and your health. It tells you the things to do and the things to avoid in order to enjoy the maximum in good health, normal weight and high energy.

11 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE gives you positive information. When it tells you of possible bad periods it also tells you how to avoid or overcome them.

The Institute needs your horoscope to help complete our huge research program looking into the practical applications of astrology (Applied Astrology). This research program has been going on for some time and has been presented in COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, FAMILY WEEKLY MAGAZINE, THE LOS ANGELES TIMES HOME MAGAZINE, THE NATIONAL ENQUIRER, and other papers and periodicals. Right now, for a limited time only, if you help us by providing your birth data, you can benefit by becoming eligible to get horoscopes for yourself and even your family and friends.

Here's all you do—IMPORTANT: PRINT ALL OF THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION CAREFULLY ON A PIECE OF PAPER — IN THIS ORDER — (1) Name; (2) Full Mailing Address; (3) Month / Day / Year / Time of Birth; and (4) City, State and Country of Birth. Jackie's Horoscope shows... super fame and fortune were her destiny!

by Barbara Walthers

An astrological research team was recently assembled in Los Angeles to study Jackie's life. They found that at the very minute of her birth, her horoscope predicted that super-fame and super-fortune were her destiny!

Let's take a look at some of the actual facts revealed by Jackie's horoscope. Jackie's Sun is in Leo, indicating a ruling role in life — and in her adult life she became as close to a queen as an American could get — the First Lady of the land!

In her horoscope, Pluto 18° Cancer, predicts that the men in her life will be connected with the liquid elements. This prediction certainly came true. The late John F. Kennedy was an avid amateur sailor and in the Second World War he first gained national attention for his daring exploits as a P.T. boat captain. And Jackie's second husband, the late and fabulously wealthy Aristotle Onassis, built his legendary fortune by establishing a vast shipping empire.

The planetary aspect Sun Sextile Jupiter in her horoscope shows that public service and publishing are major career interests. She won the Emmy Award for public service and has recently accepted an editorial position with a leading national publishing firm.

Jackie's rising sign is ascendant 28° Scorpio revealing that she loves travel and adventure. And her jet-setting life has been one of the world's most publicized adventures.

Venus 22° Gemini and Jupiter 10° Gemini in her horoscope indicate wealth in the house of partners — and both of Jackie's husbands have been wealthy.

One of the most telling predictions of all was the tragic day of John F. Kennedy's assassination. Transit Mars and Transit Venus were opposite Venus in Jackie's chart indicating grave danger to her husband. Transit Pluto was conjunct to her Mars, a heavy aspect of a dangerous situation in public groups.

HOW ASTROLOGY AFFECTS YOU

Jackie Onassis, of course, is not unique in the uncanny accuracy of her horoscope. Everyone born has a completely personal horoscope that is totally different from that of any other person in the entire world. To illustrate how astrology affects everyone, I'd like to share with you some of the research findings of the Institute for Applied Astrology.

"Hair" the most successful musical of all times had a full time astrologer. He advised them on every single step. He told them when and where to open. He got top credit right along with the writers and the director!

In 1908, an astrologer, John Hazelrig, said that every 20 years, when the Transits of Saturn and Jupiter are conjunct (come together) the President who took office that year would die in office. Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Harding, Franklin Roosevelt and Kennedy did exactly that!

Carol Richter is astrologer to Hollywood. Hundreds of the famous have used his Transit astrology. People like Marlene Dietrich, Gloria Swanson, Ronald Colman, Tyrone Power and Danny Kaye. Carol Richter became as astrologer because Evangeline Adams, who was 'astrologer to Kings, Queens and financiers, told him astrology was his vocation according to the stars.

Hitler was conquering Europe as long as he followed his Horoscope as prepared by Karl E. Krafft. But when Krafft's charts told Hitler it was not the time to turn East to Russia, Hitler fired him. That was the beginning of the end for Hitler. (See Wm. Shirers "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich".)

Countless brilliant scientists, writers and geniuses through the ages have believed in Astrology. Great men like St. Thomas Aquinas, Sir Roger Bacon (father of modern science), Shakespeare, Sir Isaac Newton, Carl Jung, Einstein, and J. P. Morgan have all openly agreed that astrology works!

JACKIE'S ASTRO-PORTRAIT

Jackie is probably the world's best known woman. But, like the rest of us, she was born into this world at a time and in a place over which she had no control. However, as shown in her horoscope cast by our astrological research group, fate had great plans for her future. To really get to know Jackie and her fabulous life you've got to read about what her horoscope says.

MODERN SCIENCE PROVES ASTROLOGY WORKS

Recently in France a famous scientist named Michel Gauquelin decided to prove that Astrology was a fake. So he attacked it scientifically! In France the time of birth is on every birth certificate. So he was able to hire Astrologers to cast the horoscopes of 576 famous teachers of medicine. He was astonished to discover that most of them had Mars and Saturn heavily influencing their character! These are the signs that show a natural talent for healing. He refused to believe his own evidence, so he checked the horoscopes of famous lawyers, soldiers, politicians and artists. He found that in every single instance the people that were successful, were "doing what comes naturally" as shown on their astrological charts. Unfortunately the opposite also holds true. The people who fail at their work and in their lives are the ones who do the wrong things. They are square pegs in round holes: they are plumbers who should be doctors, mechanics who should be engineers, etc.

HERE'S HOW ASTROLOGY WORKS

Most people have heard about the rich, famous and successful people who use astrology practically full time, but they still think that astrology is the "fortune cookie" horoscope they read in their daily paper, or the Natal horoscope that they can buy for a few dollars. But this is not true, for astrology is an exact and demanding science.

To prepare a true, in-depth, total personal horoscope for you, an astrologer must first make a chart showing the sun, the moon, and all eight planets as they were at the time and place of your birth. This is where all other computer horoscope companies slop. But that is only half the job.

Next, the astrologer must relate "Transits" to your basic chart. Transits are the changes in the positions of the sun, moon, and planets as they move away from the positions they were in at your birth. And only the Institute for Applied Astrology does this!

When this Total chart is finished it is completely personal, completely different, and completely about you! And the written evaluation is what astrologers call your Total Horoscope. Natal astrology alone is like reading a good book about big game hunting and then going to darkest Africa on your own. "Total" astrology is like having a top professional hunter to help guide you through the jungle. The special knowledge contained in this horoscope can change your life in many wonderful ways. We all know, for example, that while none of us are good at everything, each of us are good at something. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. And armed with that knowledge you can forge ahead and be at ease and happy while you do it.

Your horoscope delves deeply into your personality, revealing your hidden talents. It will tell you about the areas where you have ability but may have been uncertain and afraid to try — things like writing or acting, art, sex, leadership, public relations, advertising, athletics, etc.

Think of it this way: you only have one life to live, so why not get everything from it that you can! Why waste your time charging down blind alleys that can easily be avoided? You have a real duty to yourself and to your loved ones to make the most of each precious moment. And your Total horoscope can give you the edge you need to see your opportunities and take advantage of them.

For a limited time only, while the internationally known Institute for Applied Astrology is carrying on its extensive research program, you can get your Total Horoscope for only a duplicating cost. The casting and analyzing are done FREE! The article below tells you how to get your Horoscope. For the sake of your own personal happiness — don't pass up this unique opportunity. It's the kind of new chance for success that comes along only once in each person's life.

Limited Research Program Invitation

by Lois Rodden, A.F.A.—P.A.I. Chief Astrologer

There are a lot of computer horoscopes on the market — and most of them are okay as far as they go. But that's just it — they really don't go far enough! Only the Institute for Applied Astrology can prepare your TOTAL HOROSCOPE for you because only we have "transits" stored in our giant computer.

Where the sun, moon and planets happen to be at the time of your birth is what makes up your Natal (birthdate) Horoscope. But that's only the beginning of a TOTAL HOROSCOPE, yet that's all you get from other computer horoscope companies. You see, the sun, moon and planets keep right on moving. They are in Transit. And day after day they keep forming new angles with your birth chart. These Transits show every single important period of your life! And no horoscope that does not include these transits is a TOTAL HOROSCOPE.

Now, for a limited time only, if you will help us with our research program, you can get your own personal TOTAL HOROSCOPE for just a duplicating charge. Since your TOTAL HOROSCOPE must be constructed anyway for our research you may have an exact duplicate copy for only $3.00 to cover our printing cost, plus just 55¢ for postage and handling. The preparation, the casting, and the professional analysis are provided without charge! To join our research program and get your TOTAL HOROSCOPE, here's all you do. Write down your time and place of birth, as exact as possible, on a piece of paper and send it to me. I'll cast and analyze your TOTAL HOROSCOPE as part of our current astrological research program.

Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will run from 14 to 18 pages — up to 10,000 words (three to four times larger than ordinary Natal (birthdate) Horoscopes) — and here are just a few of the important things it will do for you:

1 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will make you know yourself. That means you can make use of your strong points and fight off your weak ones.

2 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will analyze your character in depth giving you psychological facts that some people pay analysts a fortune for.

3 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will give you new insights into the talents and abilities you never before gave yourself credit for having.

4 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how and when to use these talents to open up a better life and future.

5 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how to get along with more people . . . thereby enriching your social, business and sexual life.

6 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you the people you are compatible with. It will make you understand how to use those people to get ahead. This covers every aspect of living — family, friends, business associates, partnerships, romances, etc.

7 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how to form meaningful and exciting personal and sexual relations with the right partners — and how to keep these relationships strong and satisfying.

8 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will not only give you practical vocational and career advice but will show you the best times to use that information for maximum effect.

9 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will be loaded with beneficial advice on money matters. It will tell you when to take chances and when to be careful. This is exceptionally important if you have a tendency to take risks.

10 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE covers all matters relating to your body and your health. It tells you the things to do and the things to avoid in order to enjoy the maximum in good health, normal weight and high energy.

11 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE gives you positive information. When it tells you of possible bad periods it also tells you how to avoid or overcome them.

The Institute needs your horoscope to help complete our huge research program looking into the practical applications of astrology (Applied Astrology). This research program has been going on for some time and has been presented in COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, FAMILY WEEKLY MAGAZINE, THE LOS ANGELES TIMES HOME MAGAZINE, THE NATIONAL ENQUIRER, and other papers and periodicals. Right now, for a limited time only, if you help us by providing your birth data, you can benefit by becoming eligible to get horoscopes for yourself and even your family and friends.

Here's all you do—IMPORTANT: PRINT ALL OF THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION CAREFULLY ON A PIECE OF PAPER.— IN THIS ORDER — (1) Name; (2) Full Mailing Address; (3) Month / Day / Year / Time of Birth; and (4) City, State and Country of Birth. Send it to us with the $3.00 copying charge and 55¢ for postage and handling, for each person's horoscope you want. Note: If you don't know your exact time of birth use 12:00 noon. You may even charge it to your BankAmericard, Master Charge, or American Express by including the following: (1) Name of Card; (2) Card Number; (3) Card expiration date; (4) Cardholder's Signature.

Mail this material to: THE INSTITUTE FOR APPLIED ASTROLOGY, RESEARCH DIVISION: 6331 Hollywood Blvd., Dept.FWG, Hollywood, California 90028.

We will, at no cost to you, feed your birth information into our giant computer. The computer will then calculate your Natal Chart including the sun, moon and planetary aspects. Then it will calculate the transit positions of the heavenly bodies as they move through those positions. Next, it will examine 54 million possibilities in order to create your TOTAL HOROSCOPE! All you pay for your TOTAL HOROSCOPE is the cost of making a copy for you.

Your horoscope is covered by a full one year money back guarantee of complete satisfaction. If you have questions write or call Sanford Richter, (213) 276-2151, Research Director, the Institute for Applied Astrology. Act at once and avoid disappointment. Send for your horoscope before you forget. Thank you.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Anger: How to Spot It, Suppress It or Use It

True or False? A man will stand still for a lot more provocation from a woman than he will from another man. (See number 5.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The person who goes through life with a chip on his shoulder is actually mad at himself.

2. Anger is as contagious as the common cold.

3. When someone provokes you to the point where you're dangerously near exploding, you should laugh at him instead of "blowing your top."

4. The "assertive personality"—one who is quick to stand up for his rights, who takes the lead in discussions and has no difficulty in saying no to unreasonable requests—is the quickest to show anger.

5. A man will stand still for a lot more provocation from a woman than he will from another man.

6. If a fellow worker is mad at the boss, he's likely to take it out on you—if you look like the boss.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies show that a person's attitude toward himself tends to be projected to others. As one leading authority aptly observes, the extent to which a person likes or hates the world around him depends on the degree to which he likes or hates himself.

2. True. Studies show that being around angry people for any length of time is likely to make you angry, too. Hostility and aggression are just as contagious as any virus. You'll be much more likely to keep your temper if you stay away from people who are constantly on the verge of losing theirs.

3. True. As sociologist Joyce O. Hertzler notes in "Laughter: A Socio-Scientific Analysis": in such situations "the laughter of the individual, like profanity, at least momentarily relieves him in a serious situation which threatens his well-being. It keeps him from blowing a fuse." It's also pointed out that aggressive laughter serves to get the resentments and antipathies, which the other person has generated, out of one's system.

4. True—for women, but not for men, according to studies, conducted by investigators from two universities, on the relationship between assertiveness and aggression. It was found that assertiveness tended to go hand in hand with aggressiveness only for the females in the study.

5. True—as shown by a Kent State University study, which showed that "male subjects responded aggressively to provocation by male opponents and unaggressively to female opponents." Subjects were selected from a pool of 500 students and were divided into two groups: those who subscribed to the "male chauvinistic" view concerning women and those who embraced more liberal attitudes. Though tests showed the former to be generally more aggressive, both groups deferred to the ladies. One explanation offered for the male subjects' deferential treatment of female antagonists is "that males have been trained very early in their socialization to inhibit specifically their aggressiveness when provoked by a female."

6. True. A clinical study of the motives underlying human behavior has shown that anger transference is not uncommon. It's noted, for example, that "if the boss is the cause of anger, an employee may become aggressive toward certain of his fellow workers, particularly those who look like the boss." Or he may transfer his anger to someone outside the organization who is far removed from the source of his hostility.

I don't judge my cigarette by its length.

There's only one reason to smoke: taste. Not length. Not looks. Winston Super King gives me the real Winston taste I like and the extra length I want. So I get as much taste per millimeter as any cigarette can give. For me, Winston is for real.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Anger: How to Spot It, Suppress It or Use It

True or False? A man will stand still for a lot more provocation from a woman than he will from another man. (See number 5.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The person who goes through life with a chip on his shoulder is actually mad at himself.

2. Anger is as contagious as the common cold.

3. When someone provokes you to the point where you're dangerously near exploding, you should laugh at him instead of "blowing your top."

4. The "assertive personality"—one who is quick to stand up for his rights, who takes the lead in discussions and has no difficulty in saying no to unreasonable requests—is the quickest to show anger.

5. A man will stand still for a lot more provocation from a woman than he will from another man.

6. If a fellow worker is mad at the boss, he's likely to take it out on you—if you look like the boss.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies show that a person's attitude toward himself tends to be projected to others. As one leading authority aptly observes, the extent to which a person likes or hates the world around him depends on the degree to which he likes or hates himself.

2. True. Studies show that being around angry people for any length of time is likely to make you angry, too. Hostility and aggression are just as contagious as any virus. You'll be much more likely to keep your temper if you stay away from people who are constantly on the verge of losing theirs.

3. True. As sociologist Joyce O. Hertzler notes in "Laughter: A Socio-Scientific Analysis": in such situations "the laughter of the individual, like profanity, at least momentarily relieves him in a serious situation which threatens his well-being. It keeps him from blowing a fuse." It's also pointed out that aggressive laughter serves to get the resentments and antipathies, which the other person has generated, out of one's system.

4. True—for women, but not for men, according to studies, conducted by investigators from two universities, on the relationship between assertiveness and aggression. It was found that assertiveness tended to go hand in hand with aggressiveness only for the females in the study.

5. True—as shown by a Kent State University study, which showed that "male subjects responded aggressively to provocation by male opponents and unaggressively to female opponents." Subjects were selected from a pool of 500 students and were divided into two groups: those who subscribed to the "male chauvinistic" view concerning women and those who embraced more liberal attitudes. Though tests showed the former to be generally more aggressive, both groups deferred to the ladies. One explanation offered for the male subjects' deferential treatment of female antagonists is "that males have been trained very early in their socialization to inhibit specifically their aggressiveness when provoked by a female."

6. True. A clinical study of the motives underlying human behavior has shown that anger transference is not uncommon. It's noted, for example, that "if the boss is the cause of anger, an employee may become aggressive toward certain of his fellow workers, particularly those who look like the boss." Or he may transfer his anger to someone outside the organization who is far removed from the source of his hostility.

Offer expires June 15, 1976. Limited one to a family.

Here is an amazing offer! Fill in and mail the Certificate above together with $1.00 to cover mailing costs and we will send you three spoons honoring our first three Presidents — George Washington, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson! They are part of the magnificent American Bicentennial Collection of Presidential Spoons by International Silver — commemorating every American President from Washington to Nixon!

The Collection is a masterpiece of the silversmith art. There are 36 different Presidential spoons — each honoring an American President and the American WAY of Life! Each spoon, six inches long, is painstakingly cast in durable base metal, then richly plated with pure .999 fine silver. Portrayed in deep, sculptured relief at the top of the handle is a vivid likeness of an American President. The years that he held office are carved beneath each Presidential portrait with his name directly below.

WHY WE MAKE THIS GENEROUS OFFER!

We want to acquaint you with the Collection. What better way is there than to send you a few of the spoons to look over in your own home — to examine carefully. We hope that you will be delighted with them, that you will want to collect the others. If that is your decision, you can do so in sets of three spoons at a time for only $5.50 per spoon plus mailing cost. Details will be sent with your first set of three spoons.

To redeem your Certificate, fill in and mail it with $1.00 to: American Collectors Guild, Dept. FW-1, 1013 E. 26th St., Hialeah, Fla. 33013. Do it today before you forget! Allow 4 weeks for delivery.

A UNIQUE AND EXCLUSIVE FEATURE!

In the bowl, a notable excitement of a great historical event in the life of the President is presented in graphic detail. The John F. Kennedy spoon, for example, recaptures the historic flight of Col. John Glenn's "Friendship 7" — America's first orbit of the earth; on the Lincoln spoon, the stirring words of his immortal Gettysburg Address. Indeed, just to view these striking tributes is to refresh one's faith in the true meaning of America.

A sarong swimsuit, screen-printed with a Gauguin-like flourish, can easily lend its halter top or matching cover-up to double over pants or shorts. From Rose Marie Reid.

American ingenuity in fashion designing is at its height. How else to describe clothes that are destined to make vacations at home or away truly carefree? We shopped the intimate and swimwear market to present you with two imaginative ways to build a dawn-to-dusk travel wardrobe. How? By taking stay-at-home clothes and adapting them for outerwear (you simply add your favorite accessories), and by including quick-change top or bottom coordinates to multiply your outfits. Then you can stop worrying about what to wear on vacation.

Doctor's Amazing Reducing Plan Helps

DISSOLVE THE FAT RIGHT OUT OF YOUR BODY!

Yes, here it is—a Doctor's safe, effective substitute for high-powered Reducing Drugs!

Yes, lose as much as 10, 20, 30 even 50 pounds or more
■ without gruelling exercise ■ without starvation diets
■ without a single moment of ravenous hunger

thanks to the most powerful reducing aid ever released for public use without a prescription!

How? By attacking the basic cause of overweight — overeating — and actually helping your body convert the food you eat into ENERGY instead of into fat!

From the office of the doctor who has taken even the most stubborn overweight cases and shown them a thrilling way to slash away pounds and inches in what seems like NO TIME AT ALL . . . comes proof of a medically proven approach that gives you the great ecstasy of slimness without the agony of gnawing hunger — yes, spectacular weight-loss results even if at this very moment you are 10 . . . 20 . . . 30 . . . 50 pounds overweight . . . or more!

NOW! TURN FOOD INTO ENERGY INSTEAD OF INTO FAT!

The secret behind this doctor's "no-hunger" eating program to a slimmer, trimmer figure . . . is a wondrous way to convert all the food you eat into ENERGY instead of into FAT! Yes, step up your body's rate of fat burn-off just like you'd step up a furnace. Actually help eliminate unsightly FLAB all over your body — by using it as a source of energy that your body burns up and flushes away. That's right . . . excess pounds and inches literally consumed by your own body chemistry . . . once you trigger the FAT REDUCING PROCESS with this proven formula for success. So effective is this doctor's medically proven program, that during the very first 3 days alone you'll see weight disappear from sight at the incredible rate of up to SIX POUNDS OF FAT AND FLUID GONE BY THE VERY FIRST 72 HOURS! In fact — and the doctor says note this carefully — depending upon how overweight you are, the more you weigh, the more you should initially lose.

Before starting this program, consult with your physician to be sure you are in normal health and your only problem is obesity. Individuals with high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes, or thyroid disease should use only as directed by a physician. As a matter of fact, we urge you to show this entire program to your own family physician and see if he doesn't agree that this is a medically sound approach to the problem of obesity.

PROVEN ON SCORES OF PATIENTS — STARTLING WEIGHT LOSSES EVEN ON PEOPLE WHO HAD RUNAWAY APPETITES!

For years one of the most effective aids doctors used to attack the basic cause of fat build-up, overeating, was amphetamines. Only trouble: the side effects from amphetamines were so shattering it was often easier to live with the fat than to be plagued with insomnia, nervous jitters and worst of all, in some cases, even addiction. But now, suppose a doctor who has successfully treated obese patients for years told you that there now exists an EFFECTIVE SUBSTITUTE FOR HIGH-POWERED DRUGS. A fantastic program that includes THE MOST POWERFUL REDUCING AID EVER APPROVED BY THE GOV'T. FOR SALE TO THE PUBLIC WITHOUT A PRESCRIPTION. Yet so effective, that when you launch yourself on this doctor's proven capsule-program 4 things happen in your body:

- Those gnawing hunger pangs disappear, it takes less food to satisfy you therefore you have less caloric intake.
- The foods you do eat, instead of being stored up as fat are now converted into a source of energy that your body burns away.
- The layers of fat that up to now seemed impossible to budge, are suddenly consumed, broken down and used by your own body chemistry . . . to provide the energy needs of your body.
- And even though you may carve away as much as a staggering 20, 30, 50 pounds OR MORE . . . you do it without the risk of speed drugs like amphetamines, dexedrine, benzedrine. Why, do you realize what this means to you?

NOW SHRINK THE FAT CELLS IN YOUR BODY THIS DOCTOR'S PROVEN WAY

It means that now when you combine this powerful pill with this doctor's sensible, satisfying eating program, you not only lose weight starting right now, but you do not have to ever again suffer those gnawing pangs of hunger . . . ever again saddle yourself with an exhausting rigid system of exercise . . . ever again torture and starve yourself to death on some ridiculous fad diet . . . only to have your willpower snap and the pounds come rebounding back. Matter of fact, and though this may startle you . . . you are ordered by this doctor to eat 3 meals a day with such luscious foods as steak, chops, etc. You are never once asked to pit your hunger against a cast-iron willpower. For, just as he shows his own patients how to eat their way to slimness . . . this doctor lays down his own law to you: "Never starve yourself . . . there's no need to. You can eat mouthwatering steaks, roasts, chops, etc. as I tell you . . . and take one of these tiny golden capsules one to two hours before each meal." It's as simple as that. Naturally, we don't want to kid you. You can't gorge yourself on unlimited quantities of food and still lose weight. Instead, here's the doctor's way to replace all those zany, half-baked fad-diets of the past with a high-powered pill and a doctor's sure, sensible satisfying eating program that SHRINKS AWAY FAT LIKE NEVER BEFORE!

WHO EVER DREAMED OF SUCH A THRILLING WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT?

Picture this thrilling scene: Just 3 days have passed since you have started on this doctor's sensational program and you've taken your first few capsules. You have not missed a single meal . . . not done any torturous exhausting exercise . . . just the doctor's simple nitely tone-up program that's actually pleasant to do! You've just taken your first giant step on your march to slimness. So you step on the scale, and here's what happens.

You can't believe your eyes . . . for the first time in your life SUCCESS! Yes, you've started to win the war against fat. For what could be greater proof than the reading on your scale . . . AS MUCH AS 6 POUNDS OF FLUID AND FAT GONE IN JUST 72 HOURS. That's right! You, without even feeling it . . . without even noticing it . . . have actually discovered how to shed excess pounds and inches, like never before. And in the days and weeks to follow . . . just as gently, your body will continue to LOSE AND DRAIN AWAY, SHRINK AWAY, DISSOLVE AWAY 10 — 20 — 30 even 50 POUNDS of excess fat . . . until at long last you will have achieved your life-long goal . . . a new, slender body, a slim streamlined figure!

ORDER BIO-DRENE TODAY . . . THE ONLY THING YOU HAVE TO LOSE IS WEIGHT!

DISSOLVE THE FAT RIGHT OUT OF YOUR BODY!

Yes, here it is—a Doctor's safe, effective substitute for high-powered Reducing Drugs!

Yes, lose as much as 10, 20, 30 even 50 pounds or more ■ without gruelling exercise ■ without starvation diets ■ without a single moment of ravenous hunger thanks to the most powerful reducing aid ever released for public use without a prescription!

How? By attacking the basic cause of overweight — overeating — and actually helping your body convert the food you eat into ENERGY instead of into fat!

From the office of the doctor who has taken even the most stubborn overweight cases and shown them a thrilling way to slash away pounds and inches in what seems like NO TIME AT ALL . . . comes proof of a medically proven approach that gives you the great ecstasy of slimness without the agony of gnawing hunger — yes, spectacular weight-loss results even if at this very moment you are 10 . . . 20 . . . 30 . . . 50 pounds overweight . . . or more!

NOW! TURN FOOD INTO ENERGY INSTEAD OF INTO FAT!

The secret behind this doctor's "no-hunger" eating program to a slimmer, trimmer figure . . . is a wondrous way to convert all the food you eat into ENERGY instead of into FAT! Yes, step up your body's rate of fat burn-off just like you'd step up a furnace. Actually help eliminate unsightly FLAB all over your body — by using it as a source of energy that your body burns up and flushes away. That's right . . . excess pounds and inches literally consumed by your own body chemistry . . . once you trigger the FAT REDUCING PROCESS with this proven formula for success. So effective is this doctor's medically proven program, that during the very first 3 days alone you'll see weight disappear from sight at the incredible rate of up to SIX POUNDS OF FAT AND FLUID GONE BY THE VERY FIRST 72 HOURS! In fact — and the doctor says note this carefully — depending upon how overweight you are, the more you weigh, the more you should initially lose.

Before starting this program, consult with your physician to be sure you are in normal health and your only problem is obesity. Individuals with high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetics, or thyroid disease should use only as directed by a physician. As a matter of fact, we urge you to show this entire program to your own family physician and see if he doesn't agree that this is a medically sound approach to the problem of obesity.

PROVEN ON SCORES OF PATIENTS — STARTLING WEIGHT LOSSES EVEN ON PEOPLE WHO HAD RUNAWAY APPETITES!

For years one of the most effective aids doctors used to attack the basic cause of fat build-up, overeating, was amphetamines. Only trouble: the side effects from amphetamines were so shattering it was often easier to live with the fat than to be plagued with insomnia, nervous jitters and worst of all, in some cases, even addiction. But now, suppose a doctor who has successfully treated obese patients for years told you that there now exists an EFFECTIVE SUBSTITUTE FOR HIGH-POWERED DRUGS, A fantastic program that includes THE MOST POWERFUL REDUCING AID EVER APPROVED BY THE GOV'T. FOR SALE TO THE PUBLIC WITHOUT A PRESCRIPTION. Yet so effective, that when you launch yourself on this doctor's proven capsule-program 4 things happen in your body:

- Those gnawing hunger pangs disappear, it takes less food to satisfy you therefore you have less caloric intake.
- The foods you do eat, instead of being stored up as fat are now converted into a source of energy that your body burns away.
- The layers of fat that up to now seemed impossible to budge, are suddenly consumed, broken down and used by your own body chemistry . . . to provide the energy needs of your body.
- And even though you may carve away as much as a staggering 20, 30, 50 pounds OR MORE . . . you do it without the risk of speed drugs like amphetamines, dexedrine, benzedrine. Why, do you realize what this means to you?

NOW SHRINK THE FAT CELLS IN YOUR BODY THIS DOCTOR'S PROVEN WAY

It means that now when you combine this powerful pill with this doctor's sensible, satisfying eating program, you not only lose weight starting right now, but you do not have to ever again suffer those gnawing pangs of hunger . . . ever again saddle yourself with an exhausting rigid system of exercise . . . ever again torture and starve yourself to death on some ridiculous fad diet . . . only to have your willpower snap and the pounds come rebounding back. Matter of fact, and though this may startle you . . . you are ordered by this doctor to eat 3 meals a day with such luscious foods as steak, chops, etc. You are never once asked to pit your hunger against a cast-iron willpower. For, just as he shows his own patients how to get their way to slimness . . . this doctor lays down his own law to you: "Never starve yourself . . . there's no need to. You can eat mouthwatering steaks, roasts, chops, etc. as I tell you . . . and take one of these tiny golden capsules one to two hours before each meal." It's as simple as that. Naturally, we don't want to kid you. You can't gorge yourself on unlimited quantities of food and still lose weight. Instead, here's the doctor's way to replace all those zany, half-baked fad-diets of the past with a high-powered pill and a doctor's sure, sensible, satisfying eating program that SHRINKS AWAY FAT LIKE NEVER BEFORE!

WHO EVER DREAMED OF SUCH A THRILLING WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT?

Picture this thrilling scene: Just 3 days have passed since you have started on this doctor's sensational program and you've taken your first few capsules. You have not missed a single meal . . . not done any torturous exhausting exercise . . . just the doctor's simple nitely tone-up program that's actually pleasant to do! You've just taken your first giant step on your march to slimness. So you step on the scale, and here's what happens.

You can't believe your eyes . . . for the first time in your life SUCCESS! Yes, you've started to win the war against fat. For what could be greater proof than the reading on your scale . . . AS MUCH AS 6 POUNDS OF FLUID AND FAT GONE IN JUST 72 HOURS. That's right! You, without even feeling it . . . without even noticing it . . . have actually discovered how to shed excess pounds and inches, like never before. And in the days and weeks to follow . . . just as gently, your body will continue to LOSE AND DRAIN AWAY, SHRINK AWAY, DISSOLVE AWAY 10 — 20 — 30 even 50 POUNDS of excess fat . . . until at long last you will have achieved your life-long goal . . . a new, slender body, a slim streamlined figure!

ORDER BIO-DRENE TODAY . . . THE ONLY THING YOU HAVE TO LOSE IS WEIGHT!

Yes, IT MUST WORK FOR YOU AS IT HAS FOR SCORES OF PATIENTS. IT MUST PRODUCE FOR YOU THE SAME ELECTRIFYING RESULTS AT IT HAS FOR SO MANY OTHER LIFE-LONG VICTIMS OF OBESITY . . . OR IT COSTS YOU NOTHING!

What in the World!

Dr. James Stallings, whose surgery rescues people from "freakhood," from obesity and from post-mastectomy depression.

Rescuing people from "freakhood": "Living sculpture" is what Dr. James Stallings calls his reconstructive surgical technique; we call it great humanitarianism. At the Institute for Special Surgery in Des Moines, Dr. Stallings and his assistants donate their surgical skills to rebuild and reconstruct patients who might normally be labeled "freaks" or "social misfits." "Not only is corrective surgery vital for the physically deformed so that they can start leading 'normal' lives, but I have found that terribly overweight people have profited from plastic surgery. If we remove a few of their excess bulges, they usually are motivated to lose the extra inches and weight themselves," said Dr. Stallings. Since he performs reconstructive surgery free of charge, does he advocate socialized medicine in this country? "I've spent a great deal of time in Britain, and as far as my kind of surgery is concerned, socialized medicine would be an unwelcome change. The British have to wait an average of nine years for cosmetic surgery. Americans, who aren't used to waiting for anything, would give up. It also stifles doctors' incentives to develop new techniques, since it takes years before they are put into practice." One of the most incredible of Dr. Stallings' new techniques is a natural breast implant that he uses to rebuild a breast following a mastectomy. Given the enormous psychological problems involved in mastectomy cases, why isn't this procedure used as a matter of course? Says Dr. Stallings: "Most doctors don't know how to perform this type of reconstructive surgery. Their first concern is for the patient's health. It is only later that the woman may elect to have this surgery performed, provided she knows it is available and affordable." (While the doctor's services are free, the patient must still pay for those hospital costs that medical insurance doesn't cover.)

"The day you two learn how to use a can opener, it's all over between us."

Can a new mother afford to work? "In the first 18 months of life, the basic issue that confronts the newborn infant is establishing trust. If this sense of trust is not provided, the child may grow up less trusting, less open and unable to relate well to others," says Phyllis Magrab, pediatric psychologist and Georgetown University professor. "Where possible, the mother should stay home with the child because she is learning to adjust to her new child and to develop a pattern of response and relationship. But I want to stress that if you're not happy and fulfilled staying at home, your presence will be harmful. Mothers who return to work immediately because of financial necessity or career advancement should not feel guilty. One hour well-spent with an infant is far more important than a whole day ill-spent."

CELESTE HOLM
On pragmatism and pleasure

The veteran actress, Celeste Holm, talking about how she survives aging and modern times: "To most of us, maturity is synonymous with old age—a gloomy prospect to be sure. But to me, it means depth and the opportunity for relaxation. I have striven for that depth for a long time, and that has afforded me the confidence to try to sustain an individual point of view, which I guess is why I've been in this business for so many years and have weathered the storm of aging better than many of my peers. Do what is possible is my motto." Any advice for struggling young actresses? "Realize from the beginning that it isn't the parts you play, but the whole show that matters. That advice goes for young women who aren't actresses as well. Learn from people you admire, watch how they do it. Remember that you are not entitled to anything other than equal rights, and you won't think every little problem that comes along is a tragedy. Tragedy, after all, is the destruction of something marvelous." On Thursday, May 20 at 1:30 p.m. (EDT), you can see Celeste Holm in an ABC-TV special drama-documentary, "The American Woman: Portraits of Courage."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

SOCK IT TO ME

I wear out socks at heels and toes,
And this my wife for certain knows.
She darns them (she's not cussing though)
Or says it's time to let them go
And buy some new ones at the store,
Convincing me I need some more.

Although they've seen a better day,
I hate to throw my socks away
With only toe or heel worn out,
No other holey part about.
I'd gladlier give up control
Of socks whose hole was in the sole.

After the orthodontist examined their son's teeth, he turned to the parents and advised, "Brace yourselves . . . !"

My kindergartener niece Sarah got very excited telling me all about her recent visit to her grandma. I asked her if her grandma lived far away. "Yes," she said, "you ride and ride for four hours, and you are not there."

What in the World!

Dr. James Stallings, whose surgery rescues people from "freakhood," from obesity and from post-mastectomy depression.

Rescuing people from "freakhood": "Living sculpture" is what Dr. James Stallings calls his reconstructive surgical technique; we call it great humanitarianism. At the Institute for Special Surgery in Des Moines, Dr. Stallings and his assistants donate their surgical skills to rebuild and reconstruct patients who might normally be labeled "freaks" or "social misfits." "Not only is corrective surgery vital for the physically deformed so that they can start leading 'normal' lives, but I have found that terribly overweight people have profited from plastic surgery. If we remove a few of their excess bulges, they usually are motivated to lose the extra inches and weight themselves," said Dr. Stallings. Since he performs reconstructive surgery free of charge, does he advocate socialized medicine in this country? "I've spent a great deal of time in Britain, and as far as my kind of surgery is concerned, socialized medicine would be an unwelcome change. The British have to wait an average of nine years for cosmetic surgery. Americans, who aren't used to waiting for anything, would give up. It also stifles doctors' incentives to develop new techniques, since it takes years before they are put into practice." One of the most incredible of Dr. Stallings' new techniques is a natural breast implant that he uses to rebuild a breast following a mastectomy. Given the enormous psychological problems involved in mastectomy cases, why isn't this procedure used as a matter of course? Says Dr. Stallings: "Most doctors don't know how to perform this type of reconstructive surgery. Their first concern is for the patient's health. It is only later that the woman may elect to have this surgery performed, provided she knows it is available and affordable." (While the doctor's services are free, the patient must still pay for those hospital costs that medical insurance doesn't cover.)

"The day you two learn how to use a can opener, it's all over between us."

Can a new mother afford to work? "In the first 18 months of life, the basic issue that confronts the newborn infant is establishing trust. If this sense of trust is not provided, the child may grow up less trusting, less open and unable to relate well to others," says Phyllis Magrab, pediatric psychologist and Georgetown University professor. "Where possible, the mother should stay home with the child because she is learning to adjust to her new child and to develop a pattern of response and relationship. But I want to stress that if you're not happy and fulfilled staying at home, your presence will be harmful. Mothers who return to work immediately because of financial necessity or career advancement should not feel guilty. One hour well-spent with an infant is far more important than a whole day ill-spent."

CELESTE HOLM
On pragmatism and pleasure

The veteran actress, Celeste Holm, talking about how she survives aging and modern times: "To most of us, maturity is synonymous with old age—a gloomy prospect to be sure. But to me, it means depth and the opportunity for relaxation. I have striven for that depth for a long time, and that has afforded me the confidence to try to sustain an individual point of view, which I guess is why I've been in this business for so many years and have weathered the storm of aging better than many of my peers. Do what is possible is my motto." Any advice for struggling young actresses? "Realize from the beginning that it isn't the parts you play, but the whole show that matters. That advice goes for young women who aren't actresses as well. Learn from people you admire, watch how they do it. Remember that you are not entitled to anything other than equal rights, and you won't think every little problem that comes along is a tragedy. Tragedy, after all, is the destruction of something marvelous." On Thursday, May 20 at 1:30 p.m. (EDT), you can see Celeste Holm in an ABC-TV special drama-documentary, "The American Woman: Portraits of Courage."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

SOCK IT TO ME

I wear out socks at heels and toes,
And this my wife for certain knows.
She darns them (she's not cussing though)
Or says it's time to let them go
And buy some new ones at the store,
Convincing me I need some more.

Although they've seen a better day,
I hate to throw my socks away
With only toe or heel worn out,
No other holey part about.
I'd gladlier give up control
Of socks whose hole was in the sole.

After the orthodontist examined their son's teeth, he turned to the parents and advised, "Brace yourselves . . . !"
